OLD DOC YAK TO THE RESCUE

- SIDNEY SMITH -

Pussyfoot Sam and the Great Powell Diamond Mystery; or, Watching and Waiting in a Dark Alley.

Adam Hess, the brave chief, and Pussyfoot, the daring detective, had trapped the Powell Diamond robbers; they had seen them enter the house and were prepared to capture them at the peril of their own lives.

They were taking no chances. Pussyfoot was to guard the rear entrance while the officer made a search of the inside of the den.

The chance was terrible. Standing there in the inky darkness, knowing the chief must be in danger and unable to render assistance, it seemed that he had been standing there an eternity.

A sharp click of a revolver brought him to his senses and turning he found himself face to face with a number 98 cannon.

It all happened so quickly that he was totally unprepared to defend himself. He thought of the chief's last words and in a voice choking with emotion called lustily for assistance.

Again the reward money had trickled through his fingers and again the great detective was forced to admit defeat. One thing was clear to him, however—he was on the right scent—he would get him yet.

MEXICAN WAR MINISTER AGREES TO COMPLETE ARMISTICE

FURTHER MOBILIZATION OF FEDERAL ARMY ORDERED STOPPED

MILITIA IS BLAMED IN VERDICT

Started Fire in Tents and Rained Bullets Is Charge

Mine Guards Were Also Involved in Deaths, Jury Holds

TEJERIA, Colo., May 2.—The fire, which destroyed the Ludlow tent colony April 29, was started by militiamen, or mine guards or both, according to the verdict of the coroner's jury returned late this afternoon. H. A. Riley, a Colorado and Southern fireman, said he was on the engine of a freight train which pulled up at the Ludlow station in the hottest of the battle. He said that two tents were seen to burst into flames. "I saw a man in a military uniform (with a badge on a third tent," he declared. "I saw him and children screaming on the railroad right in front of me. When the train pulled up at the station, the militiamen put guns to the engineers' heads and ordered him to pull out and do it 'damned quick.'"

HEARD WOMEN SCREAMING.

J. S. Harriman, conductor of the same train, testified that as the train pulled out of the station and passed the tent colony he heard women and children screaming and apparently trying to escape. He said that during this time the militia was firing into the colony.

The taking of testimony closed with the examining of Riley and Harriman by the jury returned to prepare its verdict.

The jury returned a verdict that Mrs. Petra Valdez, Mrs. Codomo Costa and 11 children "died through fire or asphyxiation, or both, from a fire set by militiamen under Major P. J. Hamrook and Lieutenant K. J. Lunderfelt, or some guards or both."

A second verdict was returned stating that Alfred Martin militiaman, Louis Tikas and six strikers killed at Ludlow "died from bullet wounds, received at a battle between militia mine guards and strikers."

The verdict did not state whether the Ludlow battle was started by the militia or the mine guards.

SAW TENTS FIRED.

The verdict was reached after witnesses had testified that they saw militiamen set fire to the tents comprising the strikers' colony during the battle fought at Ludlow April 29.

H. A. Riley, who was a brakeman on a Colorado & Southern train which pulled into Ludlow at 7 o'clock the evening of April 29, testified that he saw militiamen push rifles into the faces of himself and Engineer Paschford and ordered them to "take that train out of here and be damned or we will shoot you." Riley added that he saw the train pulled out by two tents in the strikers' colony burning and he observed a man in uniform of the militia touching a flag to a third tent.

"Militiamen and mine guards were standing on the railroad right-of-way and firing constantly into the tent colony where the strikers were quartered," he said. "I saw no shooting from the tents. But I heard the women and children screaming and crying as the flames swept over them."

MAY CALL A STRIKE

Steamship Companies Ordered to Reinstate New Union Freight Checkers.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 2.—Unless the officials of the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company and the San Francisco and Portland Steamship Company agree to reinstate the freight checkers discharged by them Wednesday and recognize the union recently formed, the sympathetic strike of longshoremen will be extended to the California terminals of both concerns at San Francisco and San Pedro. This plan of action was decided upon tonight by the International Longshoremen's Association and probably will be put into operation Monday if a settlement is not reached.

The steamship Bear of the San Francisco and Portland Company's fleet arrived tonight with twelve carloads of oranges, besides a miscellaneous cargo. Members of the office force and crew were impressed to discharge the perishable fruit, but the remainder of the freight will remain untouched until Monday, by which time will have reached an amicable understanding.

There was no disorder tonight. Harbor Master Spier tonight declared that sympathizers and members of the Industrial Workers of the World were responsible for the outbreak today when stones were thrown from the Broadway bridge upon a launch carrying non-union longshoremen to work at the American-Hawaiian dock.

"DYNAMIC" PASTOR IS HERE "APOLOGETIC CHURCH FAILS"

DR. FRANCIS J. VAN HORN SAYS: GOSPEL IS LOADED WITH DYNAMITE. HIGHER CRITICISM MAKES BETTER BIBLE. RELIGION OVERTURNS NATIONS AND KINGS. APOLOGETIC CHURCH IS A LOSER.

Dr. Van Horn Will Be Given Reception by Congregation

Religion is as vital as it was when the first message of God came to men.

There is an undercurrent of public morality in the life of today which presages a great upturn in religion as well as economics.

Our gospel is a revolutionary one that has brought disturbance to every city in which it has been preached. The gospel is loaded with dynamite, and it is this dynamite which has made it so successful.

The essence of the gospel is to plunge into the mass of mankind in the making and overturn and overturn until the wrong elements have gone down and the good things have come up.

I believe in the higher criticism of the Bible. I believe that it has given us a more inspiring book than we have before.

An apologetic church is one that is losing ground. An apologetic Christian is one who will never be able to convert his neighbor.

—Apothegms by Dr. Francis J. Van Horn, new pastor of the First Congregational church, who brings a message of work and progress.

Known in Seattle as "The Little Giant of New Church" because of the dynamic force which he revealed in his leadership of militant Christianity in that city, Dr. Francis J. Van Horn, pastor elect of the First Congregational church has arrived to assume charge of his duties and will preach his first sermon this morning on the theme "The Living Christ of the Twentieth Century." President C. S. Nash of the Pacific Theological Seminary will welcome the new pastor on behalf of the congregation and special service has been arranged in his honor.

RELIGION AWAKENING.

"Religion is no moribund," said Dr. Van Horn last evening in discussing the outlook upon his new field of endeavor in Oakland. "Because we are living in a period of readjustment, when many an old institution is crumbling and men are struggling for fresh footholds of faith, persons with a spiritual vision testify that Christianity has had its hour of dominion and that belief is fading. Not for one moment do I take such a view. The unrest of the times is to me the most promising sign of a resurgence of the faith of our fathers. It is a process of being. Religion is revolt. It is the protest of the soul against the crushing conditions of material life, the assertion of the immortal individual against the modern history."

"Religion is not dogma. It is a vital, pulsing force as strong today as it was when the first message of God came to men. Religion is not a state of mind. It is a process of being. Religion is revolt. It is the protest of the soul against the crushing conditions of material life, the assertion of the immortal individual against the modern history."

Major Sickles Near Death at His Home

NEW YORK, May 2.—Major General Daniel E. Sickles, now 59 years of age, is seriously ill at his home, 23 Fifth avenue, and the gravest fears are felt for his recovery.

At the Sickles home tonight it was stated that the general had been constantly at his bedside since Thursday, when the general had a sinking spell and became very weak. For a time he was extremely low, but rested quietly today.

General Sickles and wife have been estranged for three years and the fact that she is now at his side is taken as a certain indication that the hero of Gettysburg, believing his end is near, sought a reconciliation.

BATTLE TO CAPTURE SUSPECT

Youth Fights Off Assailant and Arrest Is Effected.

Finds Supposed Thief Lurking Through Local Hotel

Grapppling with a stranger whom he discovered prowling in a suspicious manner through an upper hall of the Central hotel at 682 Twelfth street late yesterday afternoon, rolling down a stairway locked in the arms of the intruder and battling desperately on the sidewalk in view of scores of passersby, Roland Meyer, a 19-year-old student in the College of Electrical Engineering at the University of California, effected the capture of his antagonist, a single-handed and held him until the arrival of the police.

The intruder, a young man about 23 years of age, gave the name of Nicholas Dornick when he was booked at the city prison on a charge of attempted burglary.

Meyer was busy preparing for an examination and was deep in calculations in his room, when he heard someone moving about in the hallway. He went out to investigate and found Dornick with his hand on the doorknob of one of the rooms. The room which he went to Meyer's quarters as to his business was evasive and the young student at once suspected that he was dealing with a burglar. Stepping forward, he seized Dornick by the arm, whereupon the latter aimed a blow at Meyer, tore from his grasp and started to run toward the stairs.

BATTLES WITH PRISONER.

Meyer followed him closely and crawled with him at the head of the stairs. Locked in a tight embrace, the two men rolled down the flight of steps and landed at the bottom with Dornick uppermost. Breaking away, Dornick ran into the street, only to be tackled again by the 30-year-old Meyer before he had gone 30 feet. With a spring to the jaw the altered burglar knocked the courageous young student to the sidewalk and again attempted to flee.

With blood trickling from his lips, Meyer pressed and undeterred after Dornick.

"I was studying in my room," he said, "when I heard a sound of bells in the hall. I listened for a moment and could hear some one stealthily moving the door of the next room. I stepped out into the hall and there was the man turning toward me. I asked him what he wanted and he said that he was looking for a room. I told him that he should apply at the office in that case. He muttered some words, and I did not like his manner."

NOT DOWN STAIRS.

"Although the prisoner denies that he was bent upon robbing Meyer, Meyer is certain that he has captured a law-breaker."

"I was studying in my room," he said, "when I heard a sound of bells in the hall. I listened for a moment and could hear some one stealthily moving the door of the next room. I stepped out into the hall and there was the man turning toward me. I asked him what he wanted and he said that he was looking for a room. I told him that he should apply at the office in that case. WOMEN IN PARADE BALL SPECTACULAR

Six Thousand Strong, Suffragettes Tread Chicago Streets.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Weary and footsore, six thousand women drawn from the rank and file in Chicago, rested tonight after the greatest suffrage demonstration this city has seen. This afternoon they marched silently for two miles along the lake shore on Michigan avenue as proof of their faith in universal suffrage.

Society leaders, scrub women, college-bred women, waitresses, oil-checkered girls, little children and negroes were a part of the motley crowd in line.

The march under the banners of ward organizations, political parties, clubs and societies. Some marched like trained Amazons, while others could not and did not try to keep step. Some were in uniforms, a hundred or so on horseback, but the majority walked, each wearing a white cloth cap, somewhat resembling a daisy, and with ten blue stars on it, representing the ten states where women can vote. Each waved an American flag.

Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association, was grand marshal. Clad in a white suit from which streamed the suffrage colors blue and white and carrying a silk flag, she strode majestically at the head of the marchers, preceded by an escort of sixty mounted policemen under Chief Gleason.

After a band and a hundred equestriennes, came the float, "The Suffragette Arousing Her Sisters," which portrayed a woman with a bugle awakening her sleeping sisters to "behold the dawn" of universal franchise. All were thinly dressed, with low-necked gowns of white and arms bare. The chill breeze which came from the lake made their skin look blue beneath the heavy coat of powder, but they moved not a muscle, appearing as so much statues.

Mrs. Medill McCormick, daughter of the late Senator Hanna of Ohio, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbanks led the two sections of women who marched under the Progressive banner. Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, enraged because the Illinois organization refused to comply with the demands of the National

BULLETIN.

MEXICO CITY, May 2.—War Minister Blanquet tonight issued orders to General Maas, commanding the Mexican federals near Vera Cruz, immediately to cease all military operations looking toward the recovery of that seaport, now occupied by General Funston's Fighting Fifth brigade of regulars and marines.

The same order contained instructions to all commanding officers in Huerta's army throughout the republic to suspend further mobilization of forces. Blanquet explained that the order was the result of the agreement to an armistice.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Details of a skirmish today at Tejeria, a suburb of Vera Cruz, between Mexican federal troops and a detachment of American marines, served to make officials apprehensive tonight. The Mexicans demanded surrender of the water works supplying Vera Cruz. When refused they fired a few scattering shots. General Funston, reporting tonight in two dispatches to Secretary Garrison, mentioned no casualties.

A reinforced body of American troops is vigilantly guarding the water works and the railroad tonight. A renewal of the attack is feared, although the Mexican forces withdrew, firing upon the American forces, Tejeria, where the incident occurred, is eleven miles distant from Vera Cruz.

The water works, which supply the entire city of Vera Cruz, are located there and have been carefully guarded since the American occupation. The plant's safety is vital to the health of all in the city and its destruction would seriously undermine the success of the seizure of Vera Cruz by the marines.

MEXICANS PLAN DEMONSTRATION

A dispatch received by Secretary Garrison from General Funston this afternoon stated that under a flag of truce the commander of the Mexican forces, a detachment of General Maas' army, sent a courier to the commander of two companies of marines who have been guarding the water works. The Mexican commander demanded that the Americans surrender the water works and retreat from their position. The message stated that 500 Mexican soldiers were then in sight, massed for a demonstration against the two companies of American troops.

With the two forces facing each other and desperate fears of an overwhelming attack, the American officer curtly refused to surrender. A hurried call for reinforcements was sent to Vera Cruz. A detachment of troops was immediately rushed to Tejeria by General Funston.

Five hours later, at 8:15, a second telegram from Funston stated that the Mexican troops had withdrawn after firing a few scattering shots at the Americans, before the arrival of the reinforcements.

FEARS ATTACKS ON PIPE LINE

"I fear an attack will be made to cut the pipe-line tonight," said Funston in his dispatch.

The commander at Vera Cruz reported that the danger of an attack having apparently been passed temporarily by the retreat of the federals, he had withdrawn all of the detachment of reinforcements, with the exception of three companies of infantry, which remained on duty to assist the two companies of marines in holding the position. The forces were divided equally, half being assigned to guard the railroad and the other half to guard the water works.

No casualties were reported by Funston as a result of the skirmish. A cordon of troops tonight surrounded the water works. Soldiers are also strung out along the pipe-lines to Vera Cruz to avoid their cutting.

MESSAGES ARE SENT BY FUNSTON

Funston's messages were as follows, the first being dated 2:30 p. m.:

"Hour and half ago the Mexican troops appeared at Tejeria, where two companies of marines are guarding pumping station, and Mexican commander under flag of truce demanded surrender within ten minutes, but has not attacked. Two forces now facing each other. Have given strict orders not to fire first shot. About 500 Mexicans in sight. Reinforcements are going out. Fear that attempt may be made to cut pipe-line tonight.—FUNSTON."

The second message was dated 7:10 tonight, reading as follows:

"Mexican troops at pumping station no longer in sight. Before leaving they fired a few shots. Reinforcements sent out are returning, except two companies left at pumping station and one company to guard a railway bridge.—FUNSTON."

MAY EXTEND LINES OF AMERICANS

General Funston has been communicating to Washington in regard to extending the American lines to take in the farm belt around Vera Cruz. General Maas' troops have succeeded in completely cutting off the city's supply of fresh fruit, vegetables and other staples. Gardeners came into the city for a time to sell their products, but now fear to approach because of threats of death.

ous situation promises to arise unless some way of protecting the farmers is found, as it is now impossible to obtain fresh foodstuffs in the city. The hotels are without butter, milk or fruit.

Colonel Plummer of the Twenty-eighth Infantry was appointed by General Funston general provost to have charge of the civil affairs of Vera Cruz. He will relieve Robert J. Kerr, who was

PLANNING NATIONAL REQUIEM FOR HEROES

FORMER CITY OFFICIAL IS REFUGEE

James H. Petrie of Vallejo Is Safe at Home With His Family.

Refugees from Mexico who arrived at San Francisco on the naval auxiliary Glacier this morning was James H. Petrie, former resident of this city and at one time president of the Vallejo Board of Education. Petrie was accompanied by his wife and two children and after a few days' visit in San Francisco it is expected that they will come to Vallejo.

For a number of years Petrie has managed the electric light and power company at Mazatlan, Mex., but since the revolution broke out in Huerta government he has found life in the southern republic not overly agreeable, and with other Americans decided to come to the United States until some stable government is established in Mexico.

The Glacier brought thirty-eight American refugees north and it was not until she dropped anchor in the lower bay this morning that it became known that Petrie and his family were on board.

Refugees Criticise American Inaction

SAN DIEGO, May 2.—Amazed because the people of the United States are displaying so little excitement over the Mexican situation and severe in their criticism of the government for its failure to rush troops into Mexico, the 223 American refugees who arrived here yesterday from Guadalajara were seeking employment in San Diego today or leaving for cities where they have relatives or friends.

It was the busiest day in the history of the San Diego chapter of the American National Red Cross, as a few of the refugees who were driven hurriedly out of Guadalajara and forced to leave their homes and business interests, had money upon their arrival here. The Red Cross at once volunteered to furnish transportation to those who cared to leave the city and to find work for those who preferred to remain.

FINANCIALLY RUINED. "We are financially ruined," said one refugee after another as the Red Cross headquarters "They have taken everything we had in the world except our lives. Our hands are tied. We can do nothing. Uncle Sam alone can help us. He can go into Mexico and force the Mexicans to return our homes and money."

In a corner of the room a score of little children, juvenile refugees, were huddled together. One of those who applied for transportation today was J. H. Kipp, who owned the largest hardware store in Western Mexico, carrying an $800,000 stock. "They came into my place and gave me an hour and a half to get out of Guadalajara," said Kipp, "and I meant death if I didn't. They didn't even give me time to get a few dollars together. I don't know that I will ever go back."

Refugees Are Cared For Through Charity

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Charitable persons here are looking out for some of the thirty-four refugees who arrived today from Mazatlan on the navy repair ship Glacier. Some of the passengers landed are absolute penniless and it was necessary that provision be made to board and lodge them until they have an opportunity of communicating with friends and relatives.

National Requiem Is Planned for Marines

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Hearts and thoughts of a nation turned tonight to the seventeen American boys lying dead in Vera Cruz. A nation's pride, a nation's grief, a nation's gratitude is theirs. Expression of these sentiments was the effort within all heads of the government tonight.

That thirty million Americans, in spirit may mourn their death and carve their names in enduring letters on the pages of American history, plans for fitting tribute for their return "home" were made.

With an martial pomp and ceremony the bodies of the dead bluejackets and marines killed in Vera Cruz April 21, 22 and 23 will be brought to New York next week. A national requiem there is planned, a memorial service typically American.

The seventeen leaden caskets, each enveloped in the stars and stripes, will be the biers and shrine at which the country will mourn.

SERVICES AT NAVY YARD. Secretary of the Navy Daniels tonight announced tentative plans for the obsequies. The funeral service was chosen to be held at the Navy Department, the obsequies at the Delaware breakwater. The funeral service will be held at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Arrangements for the arrival of the bodies were made in naval and military circles tonight since the return of the named at first by Rear-Admiral Fletcher, Secretary of War Garrison having ordered that all civil positions should be filled by army officers.

DID HUERTA COUNTERANCE BLUFF?

Whether General Huerta counteracted today's near-fight at the Vera Cruz water station was troubling officialdom tonight. The President and his advisers were inclined to believe that he had not. But the fact that another fight was only averted by the American show of force has served to indicate the constant danger confronted while waiting for the South American mediators.

President Wilson was at his desk until a late hour tonight. He was in communication with Secretary Bryan and with Secretary Garrison, but would make no comment. It was reported that after he had communicated with Secretary Bryan on the telephone, the latter got into communication with Ambassador Da Gama and emphasized that the killing or wounding of another American soldier or marine will call for summary action by the United States.

This word was transmitted to Mexico. The mediators denied themselves to interviews, although they were in conference until late tonight. They are working out their plans and considering whether it will be necessary to conduct their conferences on neutral ground, when each side to the controversy name their representatives. If it is finally deemed necessary, it is believed, Canada will be chosen, as Havana is out of the question at this season of the year.

HUERTA IS FACTOR TO ELIMINATE

Meanwhile, the rumor that Huerta will eliminate himself gained strength. It was admitted at the White House that this report had reached the President through diplomatic channels. But at the same time it was stated that information on this line, up to the present, was intangible. A diplomat in complete touch with the situation who holds steadfastly to this belief, explained the reason for the rumor as follows:

"The proposed mediation covers the United States, Carranza and Huerta. Two of the three—Carranza and the United States—remain in an irreducible position. They agree that Huerta must go. In any negotiations he must necessarily be in the minority, especially if Carranza participates. That all three have agreed to participate is made certain by the public announcement that they have been asked to do so. In matters of so great concern as the present, nothing is made public that cannot be considered certain of success. And because of this, I believe that Huerta will eventually either get out of his own accord, or force a situation that will compel the United States to substitute force for mediation."

Philadelphia navy yard. Not the least impressive of the ceremonies will be the scene at sea when the Montana with her burden of death is joined by her escort.

Tell of Horrors of Mexico; Refugees Safe in New York

NEW YORK, May 2.—Mexican federal soldiers helped themselves to $150,000 they found in the offices of the Tehuantepec National railway after the fall of Vera Cruz, according to William B. Ryan, vice-president of the road, who, with thirty-three other refugees, arrived here today on the liner Oregon. The men of the party were in working clothes and the women after eight children wore the clothes they were in when they started their flight.

Ryan said that when the news of Vera Cruz's fall spread through the distant sections, threats of bloody reprisals were made. Ryan and the others of his party, all employees of the railway, were arrested by marauders and were being shut under the law of flight, when intervention by the British consul saved them.

From him he had gone straight to President Wilson, with whom he was closeted for more than an hour. When he left he said that he was not at all optimistic. He would make no statement further than that the situation seemed to be improving—that it was decidedly hopeful.

On the heels of tonight's announcement of conferences came widespread circulation of a rumor that Huerta, like Diaz, under somewhat similar circumstances, had agreed to eliminate himself from immediate Mexican affairs. This rumor had it that Huerta was willing to resign the now provisional president, but that he would reserve the right to become a candidate for president at any election that might be arranged.

It is accepted here tonight that the mediators have agreed Huerta must go. They are not in this demand the United States must remain. In fact, it is declared by diplomats who have closely followed the situation, that Huerta already would have announced his own elimination if Carranza had not assailed him in his now famous Vera Cruz pronouncement. Carranza, confident that he has the backing of the government, insists that he achieve by force of arms what the mediators desire achieved by persuasion.

Carranza to Tell of Mediation Attitude

EL PASO, Tex., May 2.—General Venustiano Carranza will define his exact attitude toward the "A B C" mediation proceedings early next week, but not until he has had a personal conference with representatives of the American Department of State. This information was given out tonight by a man high in the councils of Carranza.

George C. Carothers, special agent of the State Department and Robert V. Pesquiera, Carranza's confidential representative here, will go to Chihuahua tomorrow or Monday to meet the first chief of the Mexican Constitutionalists. Despite Pesquiera's statement that the rebels will not consent to an armistice with General Huerta in northern Mexico, it is understood Carothers will urge this step on Carranza and give him assurances that the Constitutionalists cause will not suffer if he acquiesces. This is interpreted by Constitutionalists tonight as meaning that the American State Department will promise to raise again the embargo on the importation of arms by Constitutionalists and possibly to recognize their belligerence in case Carranza accepts a truce.

VILLA TO BE ACTIVE

Americana arriving from Chihuahua today brought word that General Francisco Villa is actively preparing for his campaign against Saltillo and Tampico, but that his start from Torreon has been postponed. Presumably he is awaiting the outcome of the Chihuahua conference.

James Byington Dying of Neglect in Filthy Sonora Prison.

NOGALES, Ariz., May 2.—On information brought here by the refugees that James Byington, an American imprisoned nine months at Cuppas, Sonora, Mexico, without a trial, was slowly dying of neglect, another protest was sent today to the Constitutional authorities at Cuppas demanding his immediate release.

It is said that Byington, former protest against his long imprisonment without a trial had been received with jeers by the Constitutionalists chiefs. Byington, who is an old man and a native of Boise, Idaho, is said to be losing his mind.

DEMAND HIS LIBERTY

The latest representations to the Mexican government states that it is apparently not the intention to give him a trial.

The charge against Byington on which it is said, he has been imprisoned without trial since August 1, 1913, involves a shipment of one hundred dollars worth of goods. The refugees report that the American is confined in a dark, adobe cell, surrounded by filth and vermin, and in rags and half starved. The alleged prison officials refused to permit Byington to receive a trial even in sympathetic American and the prisoner in consequence of his treatment and surroundings is losing his mind.

CHARGE IS TRUMPED UP

It is said he located a mining claim near Cuppas and on the assumption that he was a miner, he was arrested on the way from Mexico City, prepared a car of ore for shipment. He was arrested on a charge that he had not established his claim.

The judge at Cuppas, in denying Byington an immediate hearing, is said to have asserted it was necessary to ascertain the valuation of the ore. This has not yet been done, but the value of the ore, it is claimed, is less than $300.

An American who arrived today said he had found the prisoner half-naked, apparently slowly starving to death and a mental wreck.

"Byington was moving about in the dark and was a dumb animal," said the refugee.

"There was a Mexican charged with murder in the cell with him. The smell was awful. Byington could give no intelligent information about himself and looked at me with glassy eyes."

FOOD IS FORBIDDEN

"I attempted to send some wholesome food to Byington, but the feroce would not permit him to receive it. He is paid five cents a day was provided for each prisoner and that this was sufficient."

Previous reports had been made to Consul Simplich at Nogales and it is said that demands have been made by the State Department that Byington either be released or given a trial.

It is asserted here that these demands have been shifted from one Mexican authority to another. Governor Maytorena of Sonora, it is said, passed the responsibility to General Obregon, Constitutional chief, who in turn is alleged to have referred the subject to General Carranza. The latter is said to have replied:

"The case is in the hands of the supreme civil court and justice will be done."

In the meanwhile there is no "supreme civil court," and Byington remains in prison.

Jewels Disappear With Maid; Police Called Into the Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Taking with her diamonds valued at $1500 and $30 in cash, Bernice Feiser, 14-year-old daughter of Sol Feiser, president of the Pacific Bone, Coal and Fertilizer company, disappeared from the family home, 722 Second avenue, at 6 o'clock tonight. At midnight, after her parents and friends had canvassed for acquaintances without finding trace of her in the police files, she was reported missing.

One of the rings, a solitaire, was valued at $400 and the other at $200. The emblems is said to be worth $800.

There is no clue to the girl's whereabouts. She had no boy sweetheart and all of her school friends have been questioned. She is described as 5 feet 4 inches tall and very pretty.

Mme. Nordica Near Death, Is Reported

NEW YORK, May 2.—George W. Young, husband of Mme. Nordica, the prima donna, today received a cablegram from Java saying that her condition is serious. According to the message Mme. Nordica is gaining little ground and is still dangerously near death.

As evidence of the passing of the anti-American feeling in Constitutional cities along the border, several hundred Americans tonight bought tickets for the weekly bull fight at Jarez Sunday. Posters announce that five bulls will be killed in honor of General Villa.

White House Wedding Plans Still Mystery

WASHINGTON, May 2.—With the fourteenth White House wedding just five days off, society tonight was still vainly trying to find out just what sort of ceremony would unite Miss Eleanor Wilson, youngest daughter of the President, to Secretary of the Treasury William Gibbs McAdoo. The White House was silent on the plans. Miss Wilson has taken only a few intimate friends into her confidence. Her plans are all completed.

Less than four score guests will witness the ceremony—the family of the couple, members of the cabinet and their wives, Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall and a very few intimate friends.

Mrs. Borden Begins New Divorce Suit

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—A new suit for divorce was begun today by Mrs. Helen M. Borden, wife of Gail Borden, the millionaire condensed milk magnate, who also asks for the custody of her 18-year-old daughter, Ramona. Mrs. Borden charges desertion. She was refused a divorce by Judge Hauser in 1911.

Joe Jeanette Wins From Kid Jackson

PARIS, May 2.—Joe Jeanette knocked out Kid Jackson tonight in the seventh round of a one-sided fight. Jeanette expects to sail for America next week.

SAN JOSE COUPLE IS WEDDED IN THIS CITY

Taking their friends by surprise and leaving suddenly for Oakland, M. C. Thompson, a young engineer of San Jose, and Miss Cora May Jones of the same city were married last night in this city by Justice of the Peace James G. Quinn. The couple boarded a train for Oakland yesterday before their friends learned of the romance. After a brief honeymoon they will make their home in San Jose, where the bridegroom is engaged in business.

CHILD BADLY INJURED ON PLAYGROUND SLIDE

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Hilda Anderson, 7 years old, of 607 Arkansas street, was playing on a slide in the Jackson playground this afternoon when she fell down the incline. She fell over the side and received a broken right thigh. She was picked up by an inspector and hurried to the Potrero hospital, where Dr. Patek set the broken member.

FRANCHISE ORDINANCE REFUSED BY COMPANY

TOLEDO, O., May 2.—The Toledo Railway and Light Company absolutely refused to accept the tentative franchise ordinance late today. The draft contained the provision that the rate of fare for the entire term of the franchise, whether one year or six years, should be five tickets for 15 cents, with a straight cash fare of 5 cents and the section which would give the city absolute control of the service so that it could insure the riders proper service at all times, failing which the company would automatically lose its franchise rights. Negotiations will be continued.

lar and I was not going to let him escape. I ran after him and caught him at the head of the stairs. We grappled and his foot slipped, so that we rolled together down the steps.

"He broke away again and when I followed him into the street, he knocked me down. That only made me mad, and I determined to get him or be knocked out. Well, I got him, that's all."

This is the third time that an intruder has been captured at the Central Hotel. About three months ago Mrs. Anna Meyer, proprietress of the hotel and mother of Roland Meyer, found John Roach ramming one of the rooms and summoned the police. Roach was a probationer from the Walla Walla penitentiary, where he is now serving a sentence. Another time, Mrs. Meyer effected the capture of a daylight thief by locking him in a closet until the arrival of the police.

Roach, who is a Slavonian, was identified last night by Inspectors Quigley, Drey and McCarthy, the pawnshop squad, as the man who has been disposing of clothing and jewelry for the past few months.

At the police headquarters Dvornick was closely questioned by Inspector Hodgkins and the following particulars have been traced to him: April 7, G. A. Carroll, 1561 Seventh street; $75 worth of clothing. April 7, Hannah Cohn, 1816 Seventh street; $300 worth of jewelry and clothing. April 24, Lewis Brown, 1814 Seventh street; $80 worth of clothing. April 27, E. W. Shorbe, 407 Seventh street; $50 worth of clothing. April 28, Leo E. Oneta, 682 Twelfth street; $80 worth of clothing.

WOULD RELIEVE THE WORLD OF DEBT

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., May 2.—First to liquidate the debts of the City of Bridgeport and then all debts of the world was the modest scheme proposed by Davis S. Beach, a wealthy resident of this city before the Common Council.

A $1,000,000,000 company is being organized by Beach to be known as the World's Liquidating and Refunding company. His little plan is to form a gigantic municipal insurance scheme, by which the indebtedness is placed upon the shoulders of the company by the payment of "advance premiums," and the issuance of 4% per cent interest by the company. The plan, for some reason or other, did not meet with approval by old-fogy city fathers.

Bogus Lace Operator In Toils of Police

BURLINGAME, May 2.—With the arrest today of Mrs. Annie McMillan, an end was brought to the operation of a bogus lace seller who has victimized some of society's most prominent matrons. A lace for which Irish lace has been knitted, it is claimed, by Mrs. McMillan, who succeeded in obtaining nearly $500 from the elite of the smart set by quietly whispering that she would dispose of a few precious pieces for a consideration. She told her secret to different matrons, and among her victims are Mrs. Walter Martin, Mrs. Linneal Castle, Mrs. J. O. Tobin, Mrs. George Cameron, Mrs. Gerald Rathbone and Mrs. William Hitchcock.

Charlton's Trial Is Continued 6 Months

BAKERSFIELD IS TO PASS UPON CHARTER

BAKERSFIELD, May 2.—Bakersfield, with upwards of 20,000 souls, is about to vote on the question of a new charter. The first step will be taken next Tuesday when the electors will choose a board of 15 freeholders to frame the new charter. The list nominated includes the following:

C. A. Barlow, Fred E. Borton, J. R. Crandall, E. B. Duncan, W. A. Ferguson, George Haberland, George Hay, W. A. Howell, W. G. Hudlow, J. J. Hughes, W. W. Kelly, A. G. Little, H. E. Metzner, L. O. Oleson, Joseph Rebeck, Gus Schambelin, S. F. Smith, W. A. Starr, Ray Stevenson, C. L. Taylor, E. A. Wheeler, E. W. Winters.

Great interest is being manifested in the election. The women are intensely interested and will poll a large proportion of their registration, which is more than 2000 in a total of 6283 in the city.

regulation will play a strong part in the freeholders' deliberations. There are 65 alms here, or one to every 300 people, which many of the residents consider is too great a proportion. Many citizens are in favor of considerably curtailing this number and of raising the alms license from $500 a year.

Another important matter to come up will be that of parks and playgrounds about which there is already talk of holding an initiative election. Bakersfield has one public park—that other the tents and wiped them out. They crawled by the score out from the streets of the colony and tried to run to safety in the face of a regular hail of bullets.

At the conclusion of Riley's testimony District Attorney Hendricks suggested that the inquiry be concluded, but the jury examined J. S. Harriman, conductor of the train. He said he saw mine guards and militia firing constantly into the tents, the flash of their rifles shooting across the mine road. He also saw women and children fleeing naked Riley in detail.

MAY BE PROSECUTED.

The verdict was greeted with satisfaction by the strike leaders and miners tonight. John K. Lawson and Horace N. Hawkins, attorneys for the strikers, refused to say whether, in view of the statement that Major P. J. Hamrock and Lieutenant K. E. Linderfelt were in command when the tents at Ludlow were fired, they would prosecute. They indicated, however, that such action was not impossible. They pointed out that it was probable in case warrants are sworn out by the mine operators against the strikers believed to be responsible for the revenue killings at Forbes.

"I don't know that I shall take any action," said District Attorney Hendricks, "but if anyone comes before me with a complaint he can get warrants quickly."

Major Hamrock and his militia-men at Ludlow left their camp this afternoon when the federal troops detained there. About 60 of the men who were former guards came to the Trinidad and were at the Columbian hotel. They are members of Company C, recruited just before the Ludlow tragedy, and many had no uniforms.

MOST UNHAPPY WEEK.

"This has been the most unhappy week of my life," said one Denver millman at Ludlow. "We have had almost no sleep. I tried to get a discharge by cursing the captain of my company, but only cursed him in return and refused to discharge him. The good men in the militia have had to bear the blame for the killings, the gunmen did before we came down here."

Militiamen and federal soldiers did not speak to each other when they mingled on the station platform at Ludlow this afternoon. Captain Foerster, in command of the regulars, greeted Major Hamrock with a cool "How do you do?" There was an entire absence of good fellowship between the two forces.

The regulars, when they detained, and escorted to the abandoned ruins of the Ludlow tent colony, 200 yards away.

The presence of Uncle Sam's strong hand tonight brought a most remarkable lifting of that deadly fear which for more than a week has crippled this little city among the hills. Belief that the coming disarmament of both strikers and mine guard gunmen will end the war which has cost scores of lives, was everywhere apparent. For the first time in days women and children went to the business streets freely and unafraid.

FEAR DEPARTING.

Ever since the massacre at Ludlow and the battle at Forbes, business in Trinidad has been paralyzed. Today it revived. Merchants who had almost forgotten the word "business" welcomed the disarmament proclamation of Secretary of War Garrison and this afternoon turned again with something like hope to serve the customers who thronged to their recently deserted stores.

But that trouble may yet come was evident still. There were many "had-ought-in" and about the town and there was still a possibility that some heavy act on the side of the strikers or the mine guards might result in a bloody clash.

None of the strike leaders tonight would discuss what they or their followers would do to meet the disarmament order from Washington.

WATCHING AND WAITING.

"We'll wait and see the mine guards use their guns," said John R. Lawson, strikers' leader. "When they give up their rifles and machine guns the strikers will be glad to follow. We gave up our weapons once before, you know. Then came Ludlow. There won't be another case like that."

Among the well-informed here there seemed tonight to be the opinion that before the federal troops can get their weapons the guards who have been in the pay of the coal companies will depart for other scenes. These men are declared by District Attorney Hendricks to use high-explosive bullets. They are blamed by the strikers for many killings and there are many who believe if the detectives are disarmed they will be lucky to leave Trinidad—at least openly—with their lives.

THINK RED DAYS OVER.

DENVER, Colo., May 2.—That Colorado's red days are over was the opinion universally expressed here tonight.

By noon Sunday cavalrymen of the United States army will be in complete control of every portion of the state's coal fields and the last of the National Guard whose rule culminated in unprecedented bloodshed, will have been withdrawn.

This announcement was made tonight by military authorities on receiving advice that a special train was speeding southward from Orin Junction, Wyo., with two troops of the Twelfth cavalry dispatched from Fort Robinson, Neb., by order of the Secretary of War. With the entire Eleventh cavalry coming from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., between 1700 and 1800 soldiers of Uncle Sam will be in the fields.

In compliance with President Wilson's request, Governor Ammons this afternoon ordered the withdrawal of all remaining militia from the coal fields as soon as they are relieved by regulars.

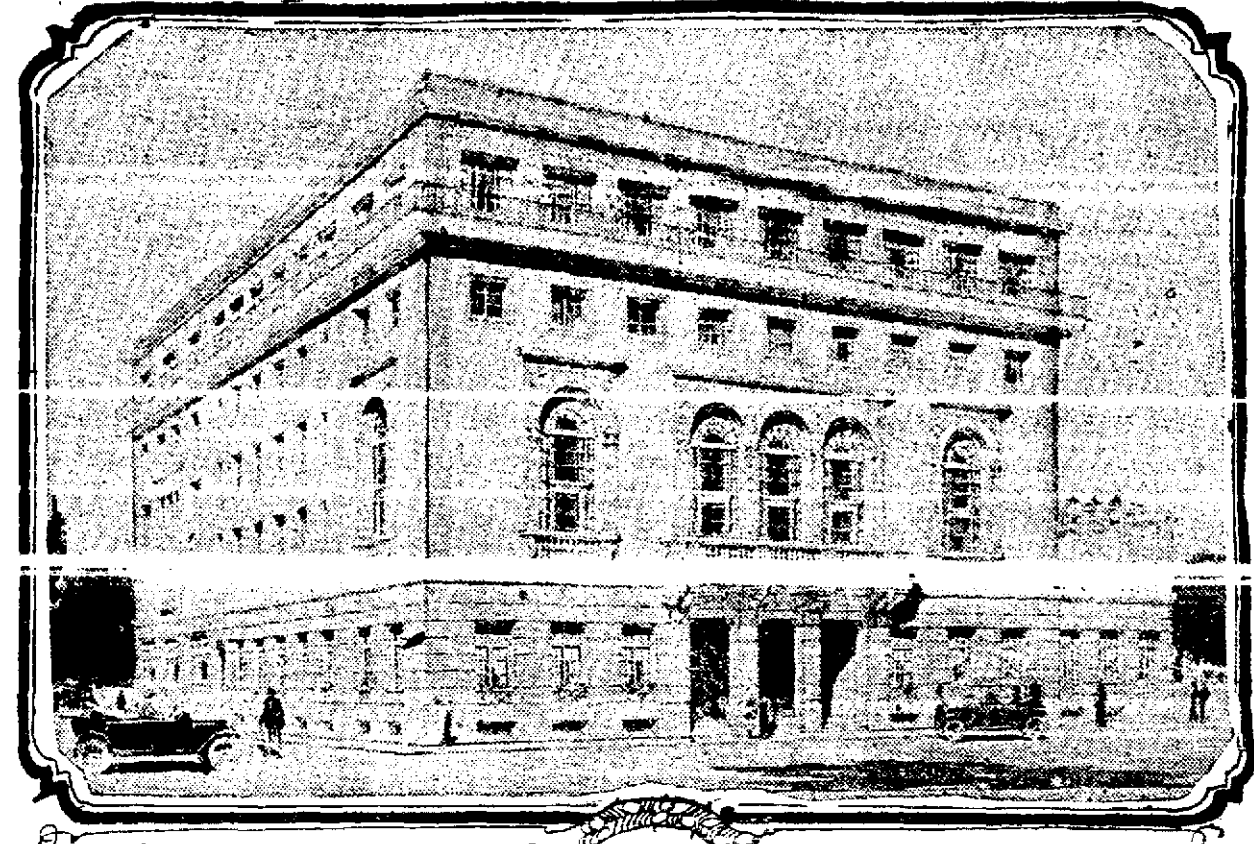

Ammons announced that he would not send militia to Oak Creek, the coal camp in Routt county where two strike-breakers were burned to death early today. Instead, he telegraphed

Major P. J. Hamrock, commanding the regulars at Trinidad, that an outbreak was threatened there, relying on the government soldiers to act where should action be necessary.

ACCUSES ARE BEING HELD.

Accusations are being held tonight by party leaders in preparation for the opening Monday of a special session of the legislature called by Governor Ammons to appropriate funds

CORNERSTONE HOLDS DREAM YEARS OF PLANNING AT END

HOW OAKLAND'S NEW YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION BUILDING, THE CORNERSTONE OF WHICH WILL BE LAID TODAY, WILL LOOK WHEN COMPLETED.

Realization of plans long dreamed of and materialization of visions held during many months of unremitting work will come to pass this afternoon when the cornerstone of the new building of the Young Women's Christian Association will be laid with appropriate ceremonies at 4 o'clock at Webster and Fifteenth streets. A brief program will precede the ceremony at which Jules Abrahamson will preside with Wallace M. Alexander, Arthur Arlett, Harmon Bell, George H. Collins, George B. M. Gray, H. J. McCoy and Judge W. H. Wastie as honorary vice-chairmen.

After an orchestral prelude of a quarter of an hour by the Y. W. C. A. orchestra, the singing of "America" by the concourse of participants and spectators will begin the program. The invocation will be delivered by Rev. William K. Townner, pastor of the First Baptist church. Miss Low

Van de Mark will sing "The Holy City," after which B. E. Wilcox will tell in a brief address the history of the organization and the efforts which were made to secure the new home.

The treasure box, containing mementoes of the occasion, will be presented by Mrs. J. B. Richardson, honorary president of the association. The stone will be placed in position by President Grace M. Fisher, assisted by Mrs. W. D. Gaskill, Mrs. Eliza Wolfenden, Miss Lillian E. Cane and Miss Ida A. Green, general secretary. Mrs. Walter H. Henry, chairman of the building committee, will spread the mortar, assisted by Mrs. Caleb Sadler, first president of the association, and Mrs. Evelyn Brown, Cash, general secretary of the San Francisco association. The stirring hymn, "How Firm a Foundation," will close the ceremony, and the benediction will be pronounced by Rev. Thomas A. Boyer.

The contents of the box which will be enclosed in the cornerstone will be as follows: Bible, history of the association, silver jubilee pamphlet, autographs of board members and secretaries, committees of 1914, coins, stamps, constitution of the association, twelve copies of the "Messenger" (the association monthly), annual report, campaign issue of the "Messenger" containing list of 300 workers and chief donors, building campaign pamphlet, may of Oakland, OAKLAND TRIBUNE of Sunday, May 3, 1914.

The committee on arrangements is composed of Mrs. Charles H. Rowe, Mrs. Charles E. Caldwell, Mrs. George B. M. Gray, Mrs. Guy Reynolds, Mrs. Girard Richardson and Mrs. J. Spencer Riley. The building committee consists of Mrs. Walter H. Henry, Mrs. E. J. McVicker, Mrs. Charles H. Rowe, Mrs. F. E. G. Harper, Mrs. Vernon Waldron and Miss Grace M. Fisher. Miss Julia Morgan is the architect.

WAS 'TOO MUCH MUSTARD' NO WONDER BATTLE BEGAN

Music hath charms, all right, but "Too Much Mustard" got tiresome for Eddie Schloss, macebearer of stonors for the railroad by profession and opponent of modern music at 3 o'clock in the morning by principle. Wherefore, when Prosecuting Attorney William Hennessy couldn't get him an injunction, he took matters into his own hands and broke one guitar, from which the "Mustard" emanated, over the head of one "Bill" Sims, mace-bearer by preference, but coal heaver when not otherwise employed. For a few moments, however, "Bill" was otherwise employed, and Eddie returned to Hennessy's office, a picture to behold.

"I want a warrant," announced Eddie.

"You want a doctor," corrected Hennessy.

"Aw, nix!" protested the man whom music had not soothered.

"This guy plays ragtime at 2 o'clock in the morning and wakes me up. I ask him to cut it; see? Then I bust his guitar. He busts me. I want him pinched."

"Well, if you started this he might come back and have you pinched," suggested Hennessy.

Patrolman Walt Ferguson cut a manly figure in the police parade yesterday in his new uniform—but his better half hadn't seen it. Wherefore when he came home at night, after duty, he was, to say the least, mildly surprised at the department of his spouse. She screamed. Going downstairs, whether she had fled, he found her at the telephone.

"Sergeant," she called over the instrument. "There's a strange special cop in my house!" Ferguson interfered, explained, and peace again reigned. The reserves weren't called out, after all.

WAS TOO EARLY.

Moss Auerbach, famed as the police court's oldest "regular," was again arrested the other day, and "busted" for being "drunk." Of course, as a privileged character, he was made a trusty at once. Coming downstairs on an errand he paused before Judge Samuel's new chamber, in course of construction, and watched the hard-worked floors being laid.

"Well," said the judge, happening by. "Looks pretty nice, doesn't it, Moss?"

"Gee, Judge," remarked the "regular." "It's just my luck. If I'd waited a few days I might be the first man sentenced in it. It's a good job."

Judge Samuel's promised to book him as the first in the new court. Moss is pacified. "I only hope I'm out to vote when the judge comes up for election again," he declares.

ARSON SUSPECT IS UNDER ARREST

Hugh Clifton, Charged With Starting Bonanza Conflagration.

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., May 2.—Charged with setting fire at Bonanza last winter which resulted in the destruction of several business houses and threatened to wipe out the entire town, Hugh Clifton was arrested here today. He was released on $1500 bonds pending a preliminary hearing Wednesday. A warrant was also issued for Mrs. Clifton, who is in Lakeview, on the same charge.

The arrest of Clifton was brought about through the sleuthing ability of a blacksmith who has been working on the case since the residents of Bonanza offered a reward of $1000 for the arrest and conviction of the guilty party. As Clifton lost $500 worth of furniture which he had arranged to sell the following day, his connection with the case is puzzling, and the authorities refuse to seek any light on the affair.

The fire originated in the postoffice at Bonanza, and at that time Mrs. Clifton was postmistress.

This was the second fire of supposed incendiary origin to sweep Bonanza in a few months. The second fire occurred while the greater part of the town's population was in Lakeview testifying before the grand jury regarding the first one.

VESSEL MAY BE SAVED.

IS HOPE OF WORKERS

MARSHFIELD, Ore., May 2.—It was believed tonight that the gasoline schooner Randolph, which went ashore at the mouth of Rogue river last night, would be saved. A large force of men kept the boat on her keel and in accordance with the plan, no lives were endangered. The Randolph is sixty feet long.

which were drawn the bells and beau of the smart set of the bay cities.

Mrs. Edgar Peckoff, the Oriental queen, and Mrs. Frederick Kohl, the Occidental queen, held sway over a joyous band of young people and the floor in their immediate neighborhood was kept alive with those who seemed to know each other despite mask and whose costumes were not only original but often daring in their outline.

The boxes, which were filled with society people and a large delegation from clubs and frequently emptied of their members who attempted to take a turn on the floor and as costumes had not all been prepared in advance a rushing business was done by the merchants on the grounds.

KEPT UP TO LATE HOUR.

After the theaters had closed for the night the chorus girls and performers made their way in taxis and while a few revelers left early their places were taken by those whose business had kept them from the early joys of the occasion.

This is the first of what will no doubt be a series of brilliant affairs within the exposition grounds, and its success will probably lead the officials to use the great machinery in the world, for still other balls and dances before the gates of the big fair swing open next February.

STRUCK BY CAR.

seeming irresistible march of dis-solution.

"Religion is revolution; it has been the inspiration beneath every struggle for political and personal freedom. It has overturned dynasties, and remade nations. It is still doing so, and it will continue to do so as long as human history is being made. Religion does not bid us sit still; it commands us to plunge into the mass of mankind in the making, and set our heaven to working."

"There is an undercurrent of popular morality today which shows that we are tending toward a new development of religion. Here on the Pacific coast this change is especially noticeable. People in the East are more liable to err in placing their cities on a higher moral plane than the communities of the West. That is because they have not revised and brought up to date ideas which have been handed them. The West is just as moral as the East, and it has the enthusiasm of youth in addition."

LOCAL FIELD PROMISING.

"I regard the Pacific coast a most promising field for religious work and I expect to see great changes. I was in Oakland seven years ago for a brief stay, and when I returned this time I no longer recognized the skyline; you have waved a wand and changed the face of the land. Just as your city has thrust up towers and domes in many years ago, I expect that I shall see a concomitant transformation in spiritual conditions."

Dr. Van Horn is not a giant in stature, but the vigor of his utterances and the flash of his eyes reveal a personality of power. He comes with a head crammed with explosive ideas which he will not hesitate to cast abroad to burst where they may. His reputation in Seattle for fearless championing of the right and brilliant onslaughts against evil prove but a depreciation of the truth. Oakland will have cause to rejoice over the acquisition of one of the most able ministers in the service of the church.

Graduating from Oberlin College in 1893, Dr. Van Horn assumed the pastorate of the First Congregational church of Worcester, Mass., which he held for a number of years. His second pastorate was in the Plymouth Congregational church of Des Moines, Iowa, from which he was called to the Plymouth Congregational church of Seattle.

Fearing that attempts might be made to break up the line of march by factions in Chicago opposed to suffrage, the police department detailed 1000 patrolmen along the line of march. In addition there was a platoon of sixty patrolmen short distance behind the "presidential escort" of Federal hotel, Market and Seventh streets, reported to the police that she had lost a cameo ring from her apartment on April 22. When the police found it in a cafe at 1688 Bryant street they learned that Peterson had pledged it for two tamales. He was arrested while eating his favorite delicacy.

Peterson has a great fondness for tamales. John also had heard that the toothsome delicacy originated in Mexico and in consequence of a war recently quite popular, the supply of tamales was likely to run out.

He determined to forestall any such disaster and to stock himself with a goodly supply in case of a possible barren market. 'OLD AT THIRTY,' BARMAID'S LOT

Women's Industrial Council Describes British Institution in Inquiry Report.

LONDON, May 2.—"Too old at thirty" is the unhappy lot of the British barmaid described in a report by Mrs. Bernard Drake of an inquiry made by the Women's Industrial Council.

Barmaids are a British institution. Very few men are found behind the bars in the saloons throughout the United Kingdom, except in public houses. There are 2,000 barmaids in England alone. Frequent cruades have been started with the purpose of eliminating women, and particularly girls, from this vocation, but nothing lasting has been accomplished. One reason is that the saloon is the working man's club, and he prefers the place where he can gossip with the girls. On the whole the influence of barmaids is to raise the atmosphere of saloons, but the influence of the saloons upon the women is considered bad.

OLD AT 25.

"The barmaid soon grows old," says the report. "Sometimes she is old at 25; she is generally too old at thirty." Her chances of marriage are small unless she marries the barman or the manager, and almost the only recourse left to her is the streets. The number of women on the London streets who have once been barmaids is out of all proportion to the total numbers in the trade.

Mrs. Drake writes sympathetically of the women behind the bars. She says: "The barmaid is cheaper than the barman. She is more industrious, more sober, more amenable to the wishes of her employer, less rebellious against the hard conditions of public-house life.

"There are women, women of fine character, who earn in the bar a decent and respectable living, and are not unhappy. There is even a woman of robust health and temperament, who finds in the public-house a certain vocation. The bar is to other women immediate ruin.

WITH FEAR IN HEART.

"But all these are exceptions. The barmaid who is of the majority, although she loses nothing of self-respect, yet continues at her post only in weariness and loathing, and with fear in her heart of that which the future is to bring."

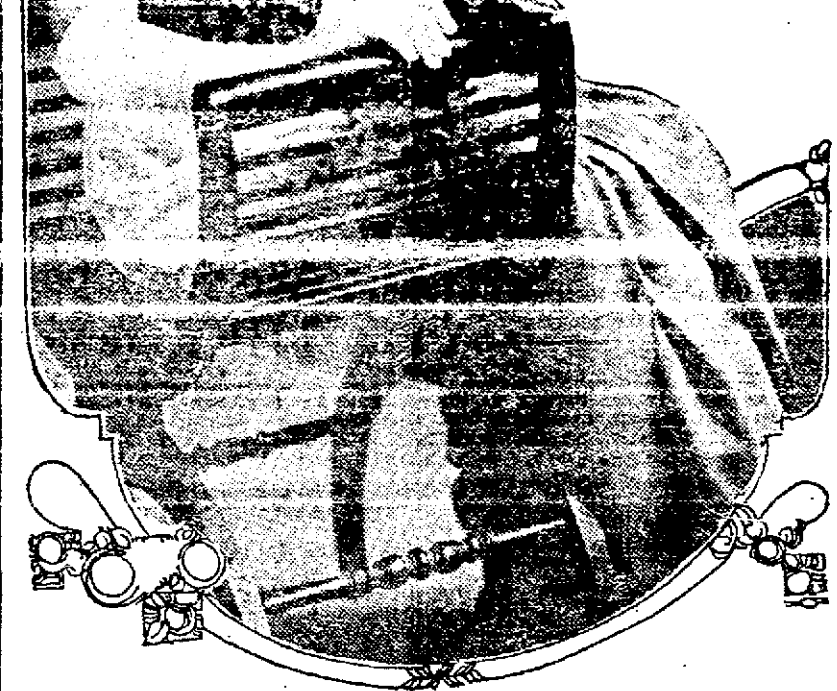

Wages for barmaids are no more than domestic servants command in the United States and the average working day is fourteen hours. In houses patronized by workmen the average pay is $2.50 to $3 a week; in hotels it may rise to $3.50, and for a head barmaid to $4.50 or even $5. Board and lodging are always furnished but the girls are expected to dress well.

BIGGS MAN LOSES IN CONTEST OVER DAUGHTER

CHICO, May 2.—Joseph Waller of Chico, formerly of Chico, failed in his efforts to have his former wife and her husband—Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Baer—arrested for permitting his little 14-year-old daughter, Mary Waller, to go on the vaudeville stage.

The assistant district attorney, LeRoy signal, to whom Waller complained, informed him that the case was out of his jurisdiction and that Waller would have to take his case to the Oregon juvenile court.

Mrs. Baer claims that the girl is not on the stage to make any money for her, but that a vaudeville company, which played at a local theater, was attracted by the girl's voice and wished to take her east with them to have her voice trained. Mrs. Baer consented.

IMPROVING PLANT AT YERBA BUENA

Terminals Railway Building New Boiler, Machine and Mixing Shops.

Extensive improvements have been commenced by the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railway at the Yerba Buena power plant in Emeryville, with the building of a new boiler shop, machine shop, mixing house and material sheds at a cost of several thousand dollars. The company has recently undertaken to do its own street work, which has heretofore been let out to private contractors under contract. Increased facilities for handling this work became necessary and the company is adding to its equipment.

NEW METHOD TO HELP PRISONERS

Notes Shot by Rubber Bands to Female Culpits Look Suspicious.

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—What is believed to have been a scheme carried on between women prisoners in the matron's ward and men who stood outside in the vacant lot beside the Receiving Hospital on Hill street, either to effect an escape or to aid women prisoners to get out of jail by appearing with bail money, was stopped yesterday by Jailer John Shand. Notes shot to the ground by means of rubber bands, and others shot to the window sills in a singular manner, were yesterday taken in charge by the jailer. Three of them, written in Spanish, were found to be of a suspicious nature, while two others, written in English, seemed to be merely love notes whisked to some masculine admirer who waited on the outside.

NEW ZEALAND OPPOSING FAKE BRITISH EXPORTS

DUNEDIN, N. Z., May 2.—New Zealand has begun a vigorous campaign against the practice of certain British exporters of sending foreign goods to this country under English labels. The Ministry of Customs has issued a circular to all foreign manufacturers, goods and ship them to New Zealand and other colonies as British manufactures.

Minister of Customs Fisher in a recent speech said that he had positive proof that foreign goods were imported into England and repacked and shipped as British merchandise to evade the extra duty that New Zealand places on all foreign manufactures. New Zealand wished to purchase British goods, according to the minister, rather than foreign merchandise, and he pledged himself to do everything in his power to prevent the unscrupulous British merchant from cheating the colonial public.

It is said that this form of contraband trade is especially prevalent in the case of textile goods. Many of the shipments which arrive ostensibly from Lancashire never saw the inside of the mills there, but have been so skillfully re-packed and repacked that the fraud might never be detected unless they should fall into the hands of experts, who know the English weaves.

NAPA WILL SEEK NEW CHARTER FOR CITY

NAPA, May 2.—At a meeting of the "Forty Thieves" of the Napa Chamber of Commerce here, a committee headed by Wallace T. Rutherford, attorney, was named to prepare for an election to name fifteen freeholders to draft a new charter for the city of Napa. On this committee are E. S. Bell, Harry L. Johnson, Charles E. Hower, Joseph Meliavacca, F. G. Noves, E. V. Churchill.

The present charter allows for taxation not exceeding $1 per $100 of assessed valuation. In consequence many special licenses have been imposed upon merchants and business men which are declared to be more oppressive than a higher tax rate would be. To get around this condition of affairs and to make the city government more satisfactory in other ways a new charter is proposed.

The "Forty Thieves" also took up the matter of installation of electric trolleys on the streets in the business section, and the removal of unnecessary electrical telegraph and telephone poles.

EXPECTS NO BREAK OF COLORADO RIVER

YUMA, Ariz., May 2.—No immediate break of the Colorado river into the Imperial valley is expected to result from the cutting of the levees by the river's recent shift of channel, according to General William L. Marshall, consulting engineer of the department of the interior.

the river would have to rise four feet in order to overflow its banks and such a rise was not likely this year.

It will be necessary, however, he said, to force the river back into its old channel to relieve the Southern Pacific from the work of continually shifting its tracks. Control work should be resumed immediately, he said.

Krauski began a divorce action today against Henry E. Krauski. The wife charges that the actions of her husband toward her have been such as to constitute extreme cruelty and that the last straw was added to the weight of her burdens when he threatened her with the production of her old notes of endearment.

HASTY ROMANCE ENDS IN ROW

Niece of Col. Swope Sues for Divorce in Los Angeles Courts.

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—Mrs. W. Swope, formerly Miss Lucy Lee Swope of Kansas City, a niece of Col. Thomas Swope, and one of the prominent witnesses in the famous Dr. Hyde murder trials, has brought suit in the Superior court of Los Angeles county for divorce. The suit comes as the sequel to a romantic elopement from Colorado Springs to Pueblo in 1911 when the young heiress to a portion of the immense Swope estate eluded her mother's watchful eye and was married to the young clerk from Denver.

Mrs. Logan O. Swope and her daughter, now Mrs. Byrn, were both witnesses against Dr. Hyde. Mrs. Hyde, a sister to Mrs. Byrn, was the only member of the family who stood with Dr. Hyde in his defense.

EASTERN WIDOW NAMED.

An incident which brought about the filing of the suit at this time brings in the name of a wealthy eastern widow as co-respondent and has to do with a visit of Mr. Byrn to her apartments in Venice, Del., where he was employed by Mrs. Byrn following Mrs. Byrn's divorce. Mrs. Byrn was in the city for some time and then days ago when he called on the woman named as co-respondent broke in upon them.

A SECON CORRESPONDENT.

A second co-respondent named in the petition for divorce is a wealthy widow living in Santa Monica. The trouble involving her, Mr. Byrn says, was over a year ago, and was condoned by his wife when she heard

OAKLAND BASSO TAKES LONDON PRESS BY STORM

Taking the London critics by storm with a program of classics, California, Henry Perry, the Oakland basso and Bohemian club singer, successfully passed his official introduction to London critics in a song recital March 30. From clippings from the London Press, received by Perry's Oakland friends, the "Native Son's" impression on the London critics is left little to be desired.

"The Standard" said of his performance: "Mr. Henry Perry possesses a fine voice and understands how to use it. The tone is robust and sonorous, and the range extensive. His singing, too, is interesting; it bears the stamp of individuality and culture, and is commendably clear." The "Morning Post" critic says: "His voice is excellent and of a tone out of the common. There is no question as to his musical insight or temperament, and to these he adds good enunciation."

Perry's triumph in London follows a year of study in London and Berlin under one of the foremost German teachers. He is considered by most of the critics here as the leading basso of the Pacific coast. Perry will continue his studies abroad while touring in numerous concerts and recitals.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Mrs. Katherine Austin Frost, wife of Dr. J. B. Gordon Frost, a local physician, filed suit for divorce in the Superior court here today. Abandonment and failure to provide are the charges made by the wife, who declares that her spouse is in receipt of $250 a month from his practice. The couple were married December 8, 1907.

PREPARE 300 FOR NATURALIZATION

Classes Conducted by Oakland Education Board Proves Quite Successful.

Over three hundred men have graduated so far from the naturalization classes being conducted by the Oakland board of education, according to the report made by Herman Grimes, who has been teaching the students since the course was installed in the public schools at the request of School Director Harry Boyle. The class has taken granting of second papers as equivalent to graduation.

The work, according to a report filed with Superintendent A. C. Barker, has been more than a success. The system used consists principally of study of early history of the United States and of the principles of government.

"Dear Mr. Barker: On your last visit to the naturalization class I told you I would send in a report of the work done and the methods used. I am now sending you a report of the work I was a little puzzled as to what book, if any, to recommend, and after looking the field over very carefully came to the conclusion that there was none suited to the work. This was not a great surprise, as I had expected to find no book so busy during the day that they could not spend much time on a text book outside the class.

"So the best way to keep the attention, I found, was to lecture to them, using the Socratic method of question and answer, having the students ask questions as well and bring in questions thought up during the day.

CONSTITUTION IS TEXT. "I wrote to the state printer for 50 copies of the federal and state constitution and have used this to lecture from, also an introductory history of the United States. The constitution then is the next, if any, of the course and every man must read it through and understand the general principles before going to the judge.

"Before beginning on the constitution I give a brief outline of the discovery of America, the type of colonists who first settled here and the reasons for having a government at all are given and the type ours is. Mixed with these are talks on patriotism, duties of citizens, how to best serve the adopted country, etc. The beauty of the class is that I am perfectly free to talk on any topic of general interest and education. To further the interest in live topics I give an hour every Friday night to the discussion of any question the class desires. So far we have had discussions on the 'Referendum and Recall,' 'Women's Suffrage,' 'Tolls, Problem' and 'Prohibition,' with much enthusiasm.

FROM 40 80. As to the class itself, it began with four students last August and has an average enrollment of between forty and fifty students now. I have had as many as eighty students enrolled. The number varies with the time of the examinations, increasing before the nationalities have attended the class. The Swedes and Italians predominate. Recently in the class were quite a few Scotch, English and Irish.

Over three hundred men have graduated, that is, have obtained second papers. The number next year will be greater owing to the advertising cards left in the recorders' office, the talks of Judge Grimes and the efforts of students telling their friends.

ALL VERY GRATEFUL. Mr. Richardson of the Naturalization Bureau and Judge Grimes have been very kind and encouraging and have helped me very much with the class.

I wish that you and members of the board of education could hear personally the men's appreciation of the class. They are very grateful. Not only has the board done a great work in assisting these men to citizenship, but it has greatly aided them by thus taking them out of the clutches of unscrupulous attorneys and persons who make a practice of fleecing them for pretended services in getting them their papers.

I am sorry that my yearly examinations and the preparation therefor has delayed my writing to this time. Very sincerely yours, LYMAN GRIMES.

RETURNS TO MAKE DESERTED RICH. Made Fortune in Brazil, But Fails to Win Back Love of Wife. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 2.—Returning unannounced and unknown as a forlorn wanderer, after twenty-one years of absence in remote parts of Brazil after deserting his family in 1893, and never having since been heard from, W. T. Blackmon hunted up his wife, sons and daughters in Calhoun County, provided handsomely for the entire family for the rest of their lives and returned as suddenly to his coffee plantations in Brazil. He had a brief interview with his wife, who parted with him as a coldly courteous friend. He had become a multi-millionaire but was scorned and bent and bowed down with sorrow.

Twenty-one years ago Blackmon disappeared, leaving his wife and four children in reduced circumstances. They knew not whether he was dead or alive. The four children grew up and drifted out into the world. One daughter married. Another had a place as a cashier in a small town store.

ONE TAKES TO ROVING. One son, Forney Blackmon, took to roving like his father. No one knows where he is. A fortune awaits him when he is found. The youngest son went to farm work and modestly supported his mother. He is a tenant on a farm near the old home town.

A few days ago a stranger drove up to the home and after a few questions threw his arms around the youth's neck, hugged him and made himself known as the long lost father, who had left Alabama with forty dollars and drifted until he landed in Brazil. There he went to work on a coffee plantation at fifty cents a day. He was steadily advanced in pay and responsibility until the owner, an Englishman, took him in as a partner. The plantation prospered and when the original owner died, was worth $3,000,000. The benefactor of Blackmon and his relatives and left all his property to the man who came to him as a day laborer.

WIFE MEETS HIM COOLLY. Then Blackmon returned to Alabama, and after finding the youngest son, located his wife. They met coolly. There was no evidence of affection from the deserted woman. Blackmon quietly left, but he provided for all the members of the family so as to make them comfortable for life, arranged to divide his vast fortune among them at his death and, in his own way, was steadily advanced in pay and responsibility until the owner, an Englishman, took him in as a partner.

Members of the family have made large deposits in a local bank and are seeking investments. The youngest boy, who supported his mother many years, is preparing to take a complete education. Over $50,000 in cash was distributed to members of Blackmon's family and each was provided with an annual income for life of $5,000, besides other gifts of lands and other properties.

TAXPAYERS' COLUMN. Communications to the Editor of THE TRIBUNE must bear the signature and address of the writer.

ARTICLE ELICITS INQUIRY. Editor THE TRIBUNE: Referring to an article of Sunday, 25th inst., by Richard G. Chorover, entitled "Taking It Out With Chaucer's Men," I wish to call your attention to the paragraph beginning, "Garfield was a Great Orator." I heard him speak the celebrated speech at the time of Lincoln's assassination, wherein he said, "God renews and the Government at Washington still lives."

I am seriously mistaken if Garfield uttered those words at that time, and while I hesitate at taking issue with so famous a man as the Senator, still I am not so much mistaken as to believe that Garfield's own death, shortly after having been mortally wounded by the assassin, Guitierrez, that he first gave utterance to those phrases, which is deemed for immortality. "God renews and the Government at Washington still lives."

GOAL AND COPPER FEEL HEAVINESS

Labor Troubles in Bituminous Fields Affect Stock Market.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The stock market closed heavy today under realistic sales, but the final quotations on the leading stocks were slightly above those of last week. Heaviness today was most pronounced in the coal and copper groups, which were affected by the labor troubles in the bituminous fields and less satisfactory conditions in the copper industry.

However, during the last week conditions were generally improved, the steady rise in the various articles being definitely checked and in most cases progress was made. This change was due primarily to the prospects for a peaceable solution of the Mexican situation. Improved conditions on the London exchanges based upon a more hopeful view of the latter crisis was reflected here. The outlook for heavy crops also was a supporting factor, as was also the improvement in railroad earnings for March as compared with prices a year ago.

Tango Wins Him Give Me Dowager

NEW YORK, May 2.—Uncle Joe Cannon is the latest devotee of the Tango. He admits it. "Give me a dowager, who can trot in my class," is his only requirement, before he exposes his mastery of arts Terpsichorean. Outside of the Tango the campaign is his chief interests.

This much he vouchsafes during his Bermuda trip. "Uncle Joe" traveled to the islands with 100 pretty girls on shipboard. He announced that he was engaged, and was besieged. Being polite he danced, but when pressed for a preference, he expressed it. "Give me a dowager and I'll trot her in her class," he declared. "You bet your life I Tango." On the repeat of the Panama-Toll clause, he spoke in his follow sentences as follows:

WHEAT IS WEAK; CLOSING LOWER

Favorable Conditions Hammer Down Prices in Chicago Pit.

CHICAGO, May 2.—Favorable conditions for seeding spring wheat, together with excellent growing conditions for winter wheat, caused a weak tone in this grain during the last week. May futures closing down 1/2c and July 2c lower than last Saturday's quotations. Foreign conditions of heavily decreasing stocks and reduced shipments from the exporting countries served to keep May delivery from becoming as weak as the new crop futures.

Good progress generally was made in preparation for planting corn, and this, combined with the long disposing of their holdings, weakened the corn market. May delivery was 1c lower and July down 1/2c from last week's close. Another factor that encouraged the bears was the report of more favorable weather conditions in Argentina, where floods have been making inroads on the crop there.

Oats followed corn, May being down 1/2c and July 1/2c. The unwillingness of bulls who had accumulated contracts for oats to be delivered to them this month was also a depressing factor.

Provisions were on the downward trend this week, prices slipping from 7c to 30c. The heaviest defections were in pork. The hog market was not strong and free selling along lines by longs depressed the provision scale.

"I cannot see why New York newspapers are in favor of repealing the bill for free tolls for American vessels."

York is the principal port of the country, and the coastwise trade is all of her merchant marine that America has left. Talk about the coastwise trade being a trust! What is it as a trust compared with the British and the German steamship companies, which control the ocean carrying trade of the world?

As Joseph G. Cannon in his familiar soft black hat walked along the pier many persons recognized him and shook his head.

OAKLAND TEAMS LOSE FIRST CONTEST

Selected Players Battle With San Francisco Stars of Game.

The four teams of the Oakland Scottish Bowling Club, selected to contest with a corresponding number of teams of the San Francisco Scottish Bowling Club for a championship cup, crossed the bay yesterday afternoon to play off on the Golden Gate Park green the first of the series of three matches, the winners of two out of the three to take the trophy. The weather was ideal for bowling, a high fog obscuring the sunshine and dissipating the shadows of the trees surrounding the green, which was in prime condition. But the Oaklanders faced disaster from the very opening of the match and were fairly and squarely beaten on each one of the four rinks by the San Francisco team.

Total score of the four rinks at the close of the match stood: Oaklanders, 60 points; San Francisco, 88 points, being a majority of 28 points.

Following was the score in detail of the teams playing on each side of the four rinks:

'OLD ABE'S' CAPTOR TELLS OF EVENT

Aged Chief Sky Takes Pride in War Bird's Historic Character.

LAC DU FLAMBEAU, Wis., May 2.—Blind, helpless and tortured by rheumatism, a wrinkled and picturesque old Indian, who helped to make civil history, is rounding out his four score years, awaiting the call of the Great Spirit, in this little Chippewa village in Northern Wisconsin.

He is Old Jackson. Chief Sky was the title by which he was known by his red-skinned brethren in the old days long gone by, but now he is called Old Jackson by those who speak of him.

And it was Chief Sky who captured perhaps one of the most famous of birds in the history of the United States—Old Abe of Company C of the Eighth Wisconsin Infantry.

It was in 1861, during the sugar-making days at Lac du Flambeau, that the eagle was captured. One day, while I was hunting,

"One day, while I was hunting," said the old Indian, "I noticed in the top of a tall pine tree a great nest of mud and sticks. I knew it to be the home of an eagle. I watched it for hours. The old birds circled and swooped about the tree. One day, again, so I knew there were little ones there."

"I chopped down the tree. Then came the fight. The parent birds swept down, trying to beat me off with their sharp talons. I fought them until they flew away. They gathered in my prize. There had been two young birds in the nest. One was killed by the fall. The other, still an eagle, I took to my tepee, where it was fed by the squaws and papooses with bits of meats and scraps from the camp kettle."

"Three or four weeks I kept the little eagle, but when the full moon came and the weather grew warm Thunder of Bees led his men down the Flambeau river to trade with the white man. Maple sugar, fur and moccasins formed our stores. I took the eagle with me. Done there I met a man. His name was Daniel McCann, and he lived at Eagle Point. He offered me a bushel of corn for my bird. I took the offer. Why should I not? The eagle was no larger than a chicken, and a bushel of corn was a bushel of corn. He took it away. That is the last I ever saw of it."

"But I have heard since that McCann gave the bird to the soldiers and that it was in the big fight with them."

It was the bird's nature to become greatly excited in the turmoil of battle and to quit when it was over, his actions serving in the nature of a barometer for his followers. The approach of an enemy always was announced by him with a note of alarm, but not until before Corinth, Oct. 3, 1862, did he gain recognition from the enemy.

"That bird must be captured or killed at all hazards," Gen. Price of the Confederate ranks said. "I would rather get that eagle than capture a whole brigade or a dozen battle flags."

Mrs. Jennie Whitman Offers Tradesman $2700 for Pet Dog; Refused

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—A story comes from San Mateo that Mrs. Jennie Whitman offered a tradesman there $2700 for his pet dog, but that the offer was refused. The former Jennie Crocker once had a kennel valued at over $30,000, some dogs costing much more than the San Mateo offer, so the account of the latter is by no means surprising. Still Mrs. Whitman's last offer, as the cost of any of the dogs she now has, does not equal the price per pound of dog flesh once set in this city by Lady Hadfield. Attorney Frank S. Drew and his wife a couple of years ago bought a fine bulldog in Paris, bringing it west from New York in a private car. But the money they paid for the dog did not compare per pound to the Lady Hadfield offer. Lady Hadfield is the wife of Sir Robert Hadfield, a British steel king, and a sister of Judge Wickersham, who was the Attorney-General in Taft's cabinet. They visited this city and Santa Barbara several years ago. While at the Palace Lady Hadfield inquired about a Japanese sleeve dog, weighing hardly three pounds and a half, and which was owned by Mrs. Johanna Schallike of 545 Fell street. She wanted to purchase it for $2500 but the offer was declined. It died in the owner's possession about a year ago. Its father and mother were the property of Baron Okito of Tokio. The late King Edward had one of the progeny.

Col. Collier Doesn't Appear "Broke"

Colonel D. C. Collier of San Diego has been in the city this week circulating among some prominent people who like his cheerful personality, breezy manner and the tropical enthusiasm he displays on the thing uppermost on his mind, which, by the way, is always some new thing. The colonel recently resigned as president of the Panama-California Exposition San Diego is to hold in 1915. A banker named G. Aybrey Davidson is his successor in that place. About the time of his resignation, much was said in the press concerning Collier being financially "broke." In manner, appearance and talk Colonel D. C. by no means looks the part. There was a time when he was eloquent about the San Diego fair and told with pride how European countries were flocking to it as exhibitors. He did much good work for it, too, and no doubt as an adjunct to the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco it will make a creditable showing. But now the colonel has a more pressing topic to harp on. He has been telling his friends that he is in a scheme to build a railroad from Denver to San Diego that will have a main line mileage of one thousand, with branches of an equal mileage. It is to be a direct air line between the two cities and not the often talked of project of building a connecting line between the Union Pacific at Denver and a station on the Southern Pacific in Arizona. I do not know who is to finance an undertaking of that size but to hear the colonel talk the work of surveying is in progress and he is interested in a syndicate that is bound to put the line on the American railroad map. His hopeful talk is an optimism quite in contrast to the pessimism being indulged in by some prominent railroad presidents and eminent railroad builders these days on the lack of funds for new lines and additional equipment. It is a good tonic to hear the brand of talk the colonel can turn out on his new, big railroad project that will cost some sixty or eighty millions.

Former Margaret Craven Weds Again

Many excellent judges, including Blanche Bates, the actress and her friend, once thought the former Margaret Craven destined for a brilliant career on the stage. Her marriage the other day in Berkeley as Mrs. Koehler of St. Louis, a young widow, to George A. Dobyne, a wealthy manufacturer of Boston, recalled her theatrical career in San Francisco, especially her days at the Columbia Theater on Powell street when her beauty and her remarkably pretty eyes added to her charm and attractiveness as a stage figure. Her marriage to Herman Koehler of St. Louis, rich in brewery and railroad interests, was a love match and that ended forever her foot-light career. Ever since that event she has been alluded to as a wealthy woman. Her married life was from all accounts a most happy one and her social career assured and inviting. When Koehler died, the widow was bequeathed his entire estate of three or four million dollars, the young daughter being commended to her loving care. The Boston groom has a large fortune of his own and the former talented San Francisco girl will have as pleasing a social career in the New England metropolis as she had in St. Louis. Her mother, the late Mrs. Nettie Craven, is well remembered on both sides of the bay for exceptional ability as a teacher and principal in the public schools. The daughter still retains much of her old dramatic fire and talent which she revealed at times in private performances in St. Louis guilds and clubs and which she will undoubtedly be called upon to repeat among the Boston amateurs and club circles. It is interesting to remember that Mrs. Dobyne is a young San Francisco actress was a contemporary of her friend, Blanche Bates, a time when this and that admirer was wont to pen poems in praise of her beautiful eyes. This was when young Koehler from St. Louis came along as an ardent suitor and he soon outdistanced some of the eligible young benedicts of San Francisco.

Mrs. Pullman Denies Naming Cars

At a dinner given this week by Mrs. Eleanor Martin to Mrs. George M. Pullman of Chicago just prior to her return to Chicago, one of the women guests tells me Mrs. Pullman laughingly denied all the stories printed about her to the effect that she was in the habit during the lifetime of her husband of giving names to the Pullman cars the latter built. Mrs. Pullman frankly admitted it was a pleasure to read about having the ingenuity and good taste to pick out so many names for the Pullman cars. But she had never given the subject any thought except on two occasions when she selected the names for her two private cars. Mrs. Cardan of this city, her daughter, was recently credited in one of the papers with equal frankness, for she said all the stories about her having at one time suggested many of the names was all piffle. The truth of the Pullman-car naming is that many have had a hand in the matter and still have. People having private cars built invariably select the names for them. Pullman equipment is built on the orders of this and that railroad. These companies select the names for the cars. This explains why so many of the cars running in and out of California have pretty, soft-sounding Spanish names as well as the names of western States and cities and towns. The story that the Pullman company has a high-salaried man who does all the naming of the cars is a myth. But it is pleasant to read. I have even seen it stated in print that this high-salaried fellow named the private car John C. Stubbs used as the Ashland, and that of Collis P. Huntington, now owned and used by his nephew, H. E. Huntington, as Oneonta. Both men named their own cars, calling them after the towns in Ohio and New York in which they were born. Stubbs is now living in his Ohio birthplace, while H. E. Huntington is still registered as a citizen of Oneonta, N. Y., where both he and his uncle were born.

What Exposition Ferry Means

The approval by the Railroad Commission of the application of the Key Route system for an exclusive ferry system in 1915 between its east shore ferry slip and the slip at the Panama-Pacific Exposition grounds is interesting from several viewpoints. It means the United Railroads Company and the city owned street lines of San Francisco are not going to monopolize all the city and bay region travel to and from the fair. It answers in part at least the disputed question as to whether all the city street cars will be able to comfortably handle the traffic. Thousands of Alameda county people will have a cheap and direct way to reach the grounds. Many people in the interior will use this route; also many eastern visitors who will undoubtedly make their headquarters in Oakland hotels or in Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda residences. The new arrangement emphasizes the growing importance of the key route system, and in a way brings the trans-bay towns in closer touch with the big world exposition. Last year the Southern Pacific's Oakland and Alameda ferry system handled nearly twenty million passengers and the Key Route about fifteen million. The former I believe is the largest ferry system in the world under one company. It will have all it can do next year in attending to its regular traffic and the world's fair throng. With its world fair service direct, the Key Route system will fill a very much desired need. There are some grumbling hotel people and retail merchants in town who do not like this arrangement. They want to get a whack at all the visitors to the fair. It is sufficient answer to say that these people in their narrow view lose sight of the big communities on the east bay shore and their many connections and interests. By having a suitable slip and being in accord with the commission and the Key Route's arrangement, the exposition management gives another proof of its broad-gauge caliber.

Suffrage Given Boost Through Rally

Saturday of this week was successfully observed as Suffrage Day by a big open air meeting at the noon hour in Union Square Park. It was part of a country-wide suffrage demonstration to give both moral and financial supports to the women and men in a number of States who have arranged, or are arranging, for a vote on the female franchise next fall. The five definite campaign States consist of Nevada, Montana, North and South Dakota and Nebraska. If I mistake not, it is expected Missouri and Ohio are soon to fall into line by having their petitions to vote on the question ready for filing with the Secretary of State. These meetings and agitation have been directed from the nation capital by Mrs. Emma Smith De Voe of the National Council of Voters and Mrs. James Ellis Tucker of the Congressional Women's Suffrage League. Judging from the literature these two women have sent out they expect there will be played at all of these meetings a "Fall in Line Suffrage March" which has been adopted by the New York State Suffrage Association. They have also planned a large meeting and big parade in Washington for next Saturday, the 9th instant. They have had a law passed by the District of Columbia commissioners to stop the street cars along the line of parade. One of the interesting features of the parade will be a section of foreign voting women. Those marching will carry their national flags. Women of Finland, Norway, New Zealand, Australia and other countries will be seen. Miss Louise Stevenson is to direct this section of the parade. Another ambitious scheme of Mrs. De Voe is to have an international conference of women voters at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in July, 1915. It is announced that Mrs. Ida Husted Harper has been commissioned by Mrs. De Voe to invite women and women's associations in Europe to participate in this gathering. California women headed council of the National Council of Voters, are greatly interested in this proposed conference. It is hoped to induce Mrs. Belmont of New York and her daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, to attend, while it is thought Mrs. Bernard Shaw and Lady Frances Balfour are certain to attend.

Happy Choice of Lane as Speaker

The annual commencement exercises of the University of California is to be delivered by Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane. The choice is a happy one because of Lane's ability, the brilliant record he made as an Interstate Commerce Commissioner, the prominent political position he now holds and the known high opinion President Wilson entertains of him. Lane and Attorney Metcalf of Oakland, who was Secretary of the Navy under Roosevelt, are the only two Californians who ever held cabinet positions. Lane has an assistant in his office who was a University of California professor. Another graduate of the university, W. A. Wheeler of this city, was an assistant in the office of the Secretary of Commerce under Taft, and did splendid work. While by no means a finished orator and without any pretensions in that role, Lane is a man of good ideas and knows how to express them with a punch. Always a thorough student and backed by excellent judgment, Lane's opinion is worth while. The stories that come from Washington constitute high praise of him in the conduct of his important office as well as an advisor to the President in cabinet meetings. Success has by no means turned his head and he realizes that what he has gained has come through hard work. Lane has frequently told his intimates out here that he knows of no "short cut" to success. President Wheeler of the university first enabled him to get on the Interstate Commission by calling Roosevelt's attention to him; and it is no doubt pleasing to him to see how a graduate of the institution gave a good account of himself and climbed to his present position.

Build Memorial of Fair

The laying of the corner-stone in the civic center the other day for an Auditorium for which a million dollars of the funds of the exposition has been set aside is worth more than a passing mention. The city provides a lot at an expense of three-quarters of a million and will spend $236,000 for building the facade of California granite. This enterprise will be for all time a fine architectural memorial of the big fair. It will be used next year for the many conventions which are coming to San Francisco because of the exposition. That feature will enhance its historic importance. Denver once got a Democratic National Convention because it had a modern auditorium suitable for so large and important a gathering. Time and events move swiftly and who can tell but what the new building going up here may cause one of these big political conventions to come here in the not distant future. The Auditorium is to be on the south side of the civic center. Its general plan is for one large hall seating 15,000 people, with a smaller hall at each end with a seating capacity of one thousand. Provisions are made to throw the three into one great hall, when occasion demands, with a combined seating capacity of 17,000. There will be three galleries in the main hall which will have an arched ceiling. This arch will be within the rectangle of the outside walls and the roof, thus providing for a circular gallery around the outside, to be used for permanent exhibits of California resources. On the plaza side of the auditorium will be a colonnade in which will be the entrance to the halls.

Hobart's Remarriage Not Surprise

The marriage of Walter Hobart and Mrs. Flora Dean Magee, the divorced wife of Walter Magee, a real estate agent and well-known Palace hotel guest, as announced from New York the first of the week, has been a society event that attracted much attention owing to the couple's social prominence and their various social connections and ramifications. Their wedding was not a surprise to their intimate friends who were aware of their eastern departure and its meaning. Hobart was attentive to the young and pretty divorcee even before Mrs. Hobart sought a severance of their ties in the courts some months ago. The new Mrs. Hobart divorced her first husband on the ground of desertion and had the sympathy of his relatives. The first Mrs. Hobart always had and still has the sympathy and friendship of Hobart's two married sisters, one of whom is Mrs. Charles A. Baldwin of New York and Colorado. Her husband is the uncle of the two Deacon sisters, Princess Radziwill and Gladys Deacon. At the time of her divorce, Mrs. Hobart and her children were given an interest in the Hobart estate. The settlement was made out of court. Prior to the divorce, she and her children were credited with receiving an allowance of $1500 a month. The present settlement for Mrs. Hobart is said to be conditioned on her not marrying again. She is said to have one or two wealthy suitors and there have been rumors that she will eventually accept one of them. Mrs. Hobart has many friends in the select social circle and they are amazed that after seventeen years of married life she had every reason to get a divorce. One was the beautiful Hannah Williams of San Rafael before she married Hobart. Those were the days he was popularly alluded to as Prince Fortunatus of the West. Many designing mammas wished him as a son-in-law and he was deemed a lucky chap to get Hannah Williams as a bride. Hobart proved a disappointment to his relatives as a business man and the present excellent condition of the large estate

Mummy Given Lively Reception

After a long delay and following the amicable settlement of the club's annual election, the Bohemian Club has finally got as an odd present in its sacred and treasured surroundings Senator Jeremiah Lynch's gift of an Egyptian mummy. There was an amazing celebration over the unique event, such a one as only Bohemians know how to stage. It was an all-night affair but that is where your real enthusiastic Bohemian shines and sparkles. The mummy Lynch gave the club some fourteen years ago went up in the flame and smoke of 1906. Since then Lynch has been to Egypt and by proper influence with the English authorities, who manage the Khedive's household for him in the Nile region, brought out and over the sea another and still better one. It is properly authenticated by experts in hieroglyphics and all that but Lynch has never told how he got it out of the country. He's somewhat of an Egyptologist himself and he is satisfied he has a real mummy and is not imposing on his fellow clubmen. Lynch once wrote a book called "Egyptian Sketches" after having spent several winters in Cairo. He wrote in a view pleasing to the British critics, including Lord Cramer, the British administrator in the Land of the Pharaohs, whose place is now held by Lord Kitchener. Lynch met the latter on his last trip to the country and was properly introduced by some of the friendly critics of his book. It was then he learned that translations of his "Sketches" had been made and approved of by the authorities of the Aghard University at Cairo, the greatest of Moslem seats of learning and a thousand years old. So in the parlance of the street, he was given the glad hand all around. This explains why he came away with another mummy for the Bohemian Club and now is famous in another role at its shrine.

Great Ballroom in Apartment House

A member of a firm of architects was telling me last night he was preparing for the owner of a lot on Sutter street near Jones tentative plans for a lot apartment house in which there is to be provision for a large ballroom on the ground floor that is to be the last word in such things, decorative and otherwise. As now contemplated the ballroom is to be 62x25 feet. Whether the owner will finally change his mind about it, he could not say. He is going ahead with the plans. I became interested in what he said but for a different reason. The site was once occupied by a fine residence occupied many years ago by Joe Miller, who was then a secretary of one of the Central Pacific's contract and finance companies. One night while C. P. Huntington was in town, Miller invited him to a dinner and party at his home. That led to Miller's quick undoing. Huntington was at the dinner, and his keen eye soon saw what a finely-furnished home Miller had and on what a lavish scale he was living. There were costly paintings, fine carpets and tapestries, bric-a-brac and a dinner service that meant money. The next day at the railroad offices, so the story is still told, while making no mention of the Miller party, the magnate talked of Miller's work and finally and quietly said he would like to have his books experted. "Anything the matter?" he was quickly asked.

Huntington said there was not but he thought an experting of the books now and then a good business move.

"It's good to know where we stand," he quietly remarked in his most nonchalant manner.

A great scandal soon developed. I know little of the details but Miller was accused of a large embezzlement. He was said to be about a million dollars short, including deeds to land he had managed to have made indirectly for his benefit. Much was gotten away from him. If I mistake not, he was never forced to trial. In the end he was down and out, save for some land in the interior on which he lived for a number of years.

No doubt Miller would have been found out later on but his invitation to Huntington to visit his Sutter street home led to his discharge and a big scandal before the month was over. Some people are still living here who know all the facts.

Parker Prince of Island Hosts

Colonel Sam Parker of Hawaii after a spell of sickness in New York and at Paso Robles left for home this week. His friend and chum, Prince J. Kulian Kalanianaoale, the Hawaiian delegate to Congress, and familiarly known as Prince Cupid, did not accompany him. He is still at Paso Robles trying to get rid of a rheumatic attack. Parker has been telling his Bohemian Club friends that he feels age is creeping on him, and his indisposition this time prevented some of the dinners he knows so well how to order. The steamer folk also missed some of his extra orders for choice game and viands to be put on board for his gustatory delight. I guess there isn't a prominent man in any foreign country who has been in Honolulu during the past thirty years but knows of Parker as the prince of island hosts. I understand his recent trip to New York was to look after some financial matters for Lilioukalani, the aged ex-queen, for she has a goodly fortune in spite of the fact that once Sam and she listen to her half-million dollar claim for crown lands. Parker was ever her devoted friend and coun-

CALEDONIAN CLUB PLANNING PICNIC

Program for Highland Celebration Bristles With Live Amusements.

Kitts and turkeys are being brushed and pressed and larders are being turned up in many Scotch-American homes throughout the bay district in preparation for the big Highland celebration to be held at Shellmound park on May 30, when the Caledonian club will hold its forty-ninth annual outing and picnic.

The picnic program is about complete, and Chief John A. McLeod, Chieftain of the club, and Secretary Allen J. Macdonald, who are in charge of the arrangements, have planned a long list of amusements. Scottish dances and music in the afternoon will be followed by the performance of the Highlanders, and many of the best-loved Scotch customs and sports will be reproduced with traditional fidelity.

The annual games of the Caledonians, particularly their cross-country run, have come to rank among the classic athletic events of the Pacific coast, and this season's track and field meet will be especially noteworthy in view of the fact that the club has recently been admitted to membership in the Pacific Coast Athletic association. The club's list of athletes of the bay cities have entered in many of the events.

"NIGHTIES" SHOULD MATCH WALL PAPER

LONDON, May 2.—Nightgowns to match the wall-paper and bedding, is the latest fad of the Futurists, Cubists, post-Impressionists, etc., who have turned their talents to the art of home decoration. The traditional white and pale tints which have hitherto been exclusively used for robes de nuit are being ousted in ultra-smart London homes by the latest lingerie de luxe.

Just now the artistic taste is running rather violently to black silk nightgowns with pale blue ribbons. In order to match the black sheets and pillow slips which the Cubists have introduced a little while ago. Black, however, is only suitable for women with dark complexion, as the black nettes are going in for delicate shades of brown, vivid scarlet, and orange. It is said that scarlet with yellow ribbons makes a very striking nightgown for a woman entering a room decorated in red, and the fashionable lingerie establishments are turning out charming nighties of violet and white, green and white, and other combinations to match any complexion, wall-paper or bedding.

PAINFUL WOUND ON BOY'S HEAD

Ugly and Deep. Caused Much Restlessness Night and Day. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Wound Disappeared.

1422 Harrison St., Oakland, Cal.—"A little over a year ago my little nephew struck his head, a little back of the temple, on the tongue of the rusty lock of our cellar door. It tore the scalp and made a very ugly painful wound. It was a very deep wound and caused my little nephew much restlessness night and day. The wound persisted in remaining open."

"We applied the usual remedies, and other antiseptic remedies with the result that after six weeks the wound had not healed and the hair was matted around it. At that time a sample of Cuticura Ointment reached me and I proceeded at once to use it with the Cuticura Soap. I purchased more and it had not been a week when all signs of the wound had disappeared, leaving the spot where it had been in perfect condition."

(Signed) Miss Jane Young, Oct. 17, 1913.

"To prevent itching, remove crusts and scales, and allow itching and irritation of the scalp, frequent shampooing with Cuticura Soap, assisted by occasional dressings with Cuticura Ointment, afford the speediest and most economical treatment. Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard 'Cuticura Dept. T. West'."

"If men who have a shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp."

FETE IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR JOY REIGNS AT IDORA PARK

Merriment and Pageantry Transport Guests at Fairyland

Despite the high fog yesterday, the garden fete at Idora park, held under the auspices of the board of managers of the Children's Hospital association, was a huge success. The concessions entered by the ladies were arranged on both sides of the broad path leading into the park proper, just off the general entrance, and presented a striking scene. The beautiful tea garden, bright with its Japanese lanterns and streamers; the country store, with its innumerable articles to tempt young and old; the fortune telling booth, done in Egyptian style; the embroidery concession—all went to make up a veritable "fair."

At 11:30, the royal trumpeters announced the approach of Queen Dorothy. Preceded by her crown-bearer costume; the dancing of a Parisienne, fantasy, or flower dance, by Edith Lindsay of Alameda, and the old, yet ever beautiful Maypole dance took place at the foot of the throne.

TEA GARDEN POPULAR.
The afternoon was given over to the general enjoyment of the various attractions and concessions. The tea garden, under the management of Mrs. Theodore Gier and a bevy of boys, was the principal attraction of the cool afternoon, but the other booths received their full patronage of the big crowd that continued to pour through the gates of Idora throughout the day and evening.

The affair was under the personal supervision of Mrs. William Thornburn Blackburn, assisted by committees who gave her every support. Mrs. D. I. Miller, Mrs. J. F. Street and Mrs. Gilbert had a prominent part in the success of the undertaking, while to Miss Rhoda Mitchell, the well-known artist and reader, is due largely the success of the entertainment and training of the children.

The board of managers were rewarded for their endeavors by a goodly sum netted and the support and co-operation of people from social, professional and business circles.

MANY SLIPS TWIXT LICENSE AND VOW

Rough Hand of Fate Stays the Crosby-Jarvis Nuptials on Seashore.

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—There's many a slip between marriage license and the promise to "love, honor and obey." In the opinion of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Crosby of 1145 West Thirty-sixth place, who for two hours and ten minutes battled the surf of the beach at Venice on a Saturday evening, the odds are against a smooth sailing.

A clergyman or justice who would perform the wedding ceremony.

Mrs. Crosby was Miss Mae Jarvis of Terre Haute, Ind., daughter of Alonzo O. Jarvis. She arrived here on a Monday and Saturday evening had her first view of an ocean.

Three years ago Jack Crosby said good-bye to her in Terre Haute and came to Los Angeles. Since they were schoolmates in the primary grades they had been sweethearts and the mere matter of a couple of thousand miles separating them did not cool their love. Uncle Sam's postal system daily brought messages of ardor.

ASK REHEARING IN DEL MAR MATTER

Railroad Commission Makes Effort to Bring Water Co. Under Statute.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—On the ground that two members of the Supreme Court, who held, in a recent decision of that body, that the Del Mar Water, Light and Power Company was not a public utility, acted in violation of the provisions and statutes of California, the State Railroad Commission has asked for a rehearing of the case of that company against the commission.

The commission, which operates near Los Angeles and was organized in connection with a real estate concern to provide irrigation, power and light for purchasers of land in the tract. Although more than 20 persons received the service of the company, one rancher was denied water, the company refusing to accommodate a pipe line outside the tract upon which it was established.

The matter was presented to the railroad commissioners, who ordered the Del Mar Company to grant service to the complainant. Appeal was taken, and the Supreme Court decided that the commission had not the authority to force a concern, not a public utility, to extend its service outside its distributing system. In part the commission's brief reads:

"If there is any condition which cries aloud for redress in this state, it is the relationship between an agency which has water to sell, and persons buying that water, and for this court to say that the attempt on the part of the State to regulate his regulation is void, is for this court to say that there is no redress for patrons of these lines and water companies, and that in the numerous instances where people have built their homes on the faith of a continued supply of water, they may be denied that continued supply."

The commission asks that the court either state definitely that the Del Mar Company is not a public utility, or pass upon the question whether the constitution and the public utility act are in violation of the federal court.

GERMAN SOLDIERS ACCUSE OFFICERS

Say Exodus Is Due to Brutality of Their Superiors in Army.

BERLIN, May 2.—There is no question that the real cause of the great exodus of German soldiers to the French foreign legion in Algeria is brutality at the hands of their officers. Cases of ill-treatment have come to light in the last three or four weeks, but they do not seem to have been the cause.

Many soldiers, in Prussian fashion, would rather suffer in silence than denounce their chiefs, and many instances of such denunciations have been hushed up by the local military authorities.

In some instances of ill treatment the German papers do not help in revealing an account which is known publicly. For instance, General Boess, who is stationed in Neiss, Silesia, wakes his soldiers either by throwing a bucket of cold water over them or by horsewhipping. Major Petzel, of the Forty-eighth Artillery Regiment, in Saxony, was punished with fourteen days' arrest in his quarters for ill treating an orderly. Captain Derichs is sued for abuse of authority. The military prosecutor asks a punishment of forty-three days' arrest in his quarters. Captain Voss of the Thirtieth Prussian Infantry, who grossly insults recruits, gets four weeks' arrest in his quarters. Captain Kuebler of the One Hundred and Seventy-sixth Prussian Infantry, is sued for 107 cases of ill treatment; Lieutenant Von Kather, of the Guard Grenadiers, who beats soldiers and insults them, gets four weeks' room arrest.

With non-commissioned officers the conditions are much worse. Sometimes the abuse of authority is of the most terrible form. Sergeant Schymann, who knocks down one man, beating him with a chair, gets five days' simple arrest, the court finding the offense not actually ill treatment, but simply "incorrect treatment." Sergeant Renner of the Bavarian Cuirassiers, beats one man and causes him to become deaf. Non-Commissioned Officer Kral, of the Wurtemberg Uhlans, beats a conscriptive soldier with the butt of his gun until he spits blood. The soldier died before a law suit could be brought, and doctors admit that death was hastened by ill treatment. Kral got fourteen days' arrest.

The state of affairs is even acknowledged by many non-military papers, including the "Boersener Courier," which is liberal and very moderate, as are most of the financial papers of Germany. The paper writes: "Who knows all that takes place in the barracks? We only hear something when a suicide or a lawsuit enables public opinion to discover the abuse. In the greater number of cases conscriptive soldiers are much too scared and beaten to dare to speak."

DISCOVERS RARE FLOWER IN HILLS NEAR OAKLAND

A rare flower, unknown to scientists for the past twenty years, was found this week in the hills near Oakland by Elsie Wright, a student at the Franklin school, according to an announcement of C. P. Wilcomb, curator of the Oakland museum. The flower, known as the "Indian Paint" at the museum today. It has never been found, says Wilcomb, in this country before.

Miss Wright showed the flower to Miss Nell Findley, her teacher, and the latter, failing to identify it sent it to the museum. University of California experts were called in to inspect it and confirmed the discovery.

WOMAN TO FACE JURY TOMORROW FOR SLAYING

Hazel Lux, who confessed to the murder of William Garland in Emeryville on February 28, will go on trial before a jury in Superior Judge Ogden's court tomorrow. The defendant will be represented by Attorney Burton J. Wyman, who will base the defense upon the claim of temporary insanity.

The shooting of Garland occurred one evening after the woman, with whom he had lived for seven years, received his ultimatum that he would not marry her as she said he promised to do many times.

"I had changed my way of life," she said in her confession, "and had turned over a new leaf. For many years he had taken money from me, and in the best of clothes and promised that he would marry me."

MODERN PORN HOOD RESTORES TAX TO TRIBE

RAGNAD, May 2.—A modern Robin Hood, who selects tax gatherers as his victims, is operating near Nelef. The Vall has been out in the Nelef and Kerbel districts collecting taxes from the tribes and recently he sent by post to Ragdad 1000 francs of the amount he had collected.

The post, guarded by one ragdane man, was attacked apparently by adherents of the tribes from whom the taxes were collected. The money was taken from the mail bags and returned to the people.

The Vall has again resumed his task and is said to have recovered 3000 francs of the lost taxes and guarantees of the remainder.

KING GEORGE HAS SUBJECTS PUZZLED

Real News on Vital Public Questions Concealed With Amazing Skill.

LONDON, May 2.—King George has his subjects guessing. His grandmothers his pronounced Whigs; his father was a broad-minded Liberal, and sympathetic toward home rule; his wife couldn't be anything but a Tory; George is a mystery. In the present political turmoil in which the democracy and the aristocracy are each striving to enlist the sympathies of the active support of the monarch, who has married with amazing skill, and despite the fierce light that is now beating with unusual intensity upon the throne, to keep his real sentiments concealed. Theoretically, according to the British Constitution, the King has no politics. Upon this basis George is undoubtedly the most constitutional monarch Great Britain ever had.

With equal positiveness and apparently with equal show of authority Conservatives and Liberals each have been claiming him for their own—but they haven't produced the proofs. George Bernard Shaw says he is a Socialistist, but that is just G. B. S.'s way of expressing his belief that the King is the rankest kind of a Tory. Whether he is personally for or against home rule, for or against the proposed democratization of the army, for or against woman suffrage, for or against any of the various progressive

TALKS ON TEETH —BY— Dr. J. B. SCHAFHIRT

Good Teeth—Good Digestion

Show me a case of chronic indigestion and nine times out of ten I will show you decayed or missing teeth. Few people realize the importance of teeth in regard to good digestion. If before doing with various kinds of tooth powder, tooth paste, tooth brush, etc., you consult a dentist, he would save himself money, time and discomfort.

Of what avail is it to insist on pure, sanitary food if, before reaching the stomach, that food is going to be contaminated with germs and pus from decayed teeth and diseased gums? However, the most important point is mastication.

Nature supplied teeth to prepare the food for the stomach by thoroughly grinding and chewing and mixing it with saliva. If the food is bolted before undergoing this process (as it is if there are no teeth to chew it with), it lies in the stomach and ferments, causing indigestion. In this case the old-fashioned plate does not do much help, as it is clumsy and usually does not fit. My invention, the Schafhirt Rootless Set, solves the difficulty, for whether you have any teeth of your own or not, I can fill the vacancies with natural-looking teeth without using a clumsy plate that extends over the roof of your mouth, interfering with your taste, speech and comfort. Send for me free booklet telling all about this set—how to day mornings, 10 to 12, and Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, 7 to 9.

WE MUST BUILD THE AUDITORIUM!

Oakland cannot afford to abandon work on its great auditorium. Events occurring from day to day are proof of the assertion. It will be recalled that recently the Commercial Club sent out 1600 invitations to great organizations throughout the country to make this city their meeting place in 1915. Numerous replies have been received, and it is stated by the managing director of the organization that but few of all that vast number have said they would be unable to respond. Acceptances, on the other hand, are being received, and it is confidently predicted that within a short time they will roll in.

Religious Association of America, with a membership of 700 delegates, and the Swedish Baptist General Conference, 1000 strong, will be here, the latter in September of next year, the other on a date to be fixed.

Negotiations are under way to secure the Trans-Mississippi Commercial and the International Dry Farming Congresses. The first-mentioned is a large body. It selected Salt Lake City as a meeting place one year, and while Salt Lake City has numerous auditoriums, and at that time its great salt palace was standing, there was but one building large enough to accommodate the meeting and that was the immense Mormon tabernacle, with a seating capacity of 8000 downstairs. Not all delegates, that is true, but there was an immense concourse of visitors accompanying the delegates and they attended the sessions in large numbers, as will be the case here.

Late reports say the National Educational Association will bring, not 20,000 visitors as expected, but 33,000. Where can such a gathering be housed unless the building is finished according to plans?

It would be criminal folly to overlook the opportunities offered and abandon this building. Oakland cannot afford to do it and will not. Then comes the question of method: Shall bonds be voted to cover a term of years, during which time the auditorium will have paid for itself, or shall the money be raised by direct levy? Plain common sense answers in favor of the first, and we believe that is the action Oakland will take at the ensuing election.

Speaking of this boy in whom or on whom the surgeons grafted a pig's eye: When he attains maturity what a Congressman he will make. No trouble for that chap to find the pork barrel.

"The erection of the Watsonville auditorium was a blessing to that valley," says Harold McPherson in the Santa Cruz Sentinel, commenting on the recent rose fair in the Pajaro valley. Of course it was. It brings thousands of dollars to the community every year. It is the home of the great apple show and the chamber of commerce exhibit. It is used for all sorts of conventions and gatherings. Yet when it was first proposed there was an element which fought the plan vigorously and it required the most herculean efforts to carry the bond issue necessary to insure its completion. Now, however, the citizens of the town would not part from it for any consideration unless another could be assured to take its place.

The Lompoc Journal justifies the University of California in securing a professor of journalism from Kansas, which is the first intimation we have had that the editor of the Journal is from the corn belt.

Harper's Declines to Correct Error.

Citizens of Marysville are indignant at Harper's Weekly for refusing to correct a story written by Inez Haynes Gilmore about the Wheatland hop field riots, appearing in the periodical April 4th. Inez is a member of the sob sister fraternity and her article was so far from actual fact that the Chamber of Commerce of Marysville took the matter up, and in a friendly communication to the publication pointed out the inaccuracies, suggested that the good name of the town had been damaged and requested a correction.

But Harper's editors replied that they preferred to take the word of their woman writer and declined to grant the request.

Now Dr. Carleton Parker, executive secretary of the state commission of immigration and housing, who attended the trial, has taken the matter up with a view to having the misrepresentation rectified. Dr. Parker declares the article deliberately falsified the acts and intentions of the people of Marysville concerning their attitude.

We doubt, however, if Dr. Parker succeeds. Some journals would rather stand by an erroneous statement than admit an error. But it is not surprising that Marysville is agitated and that it is making an effort to remove an impression created. At the same time we suggest that Marysville will not be damaged to as great a degree as some may imagine. On the other hand, perhaps, the publication may be the means of keeping away the undesirable element which Inez Haynes Gilmore was so zealous in representing as being a much-abused lot, and if this is accomplished there will be room for congratulation. Still, a community does not fancy being misrepresented, and anger under such a condition is but natural.

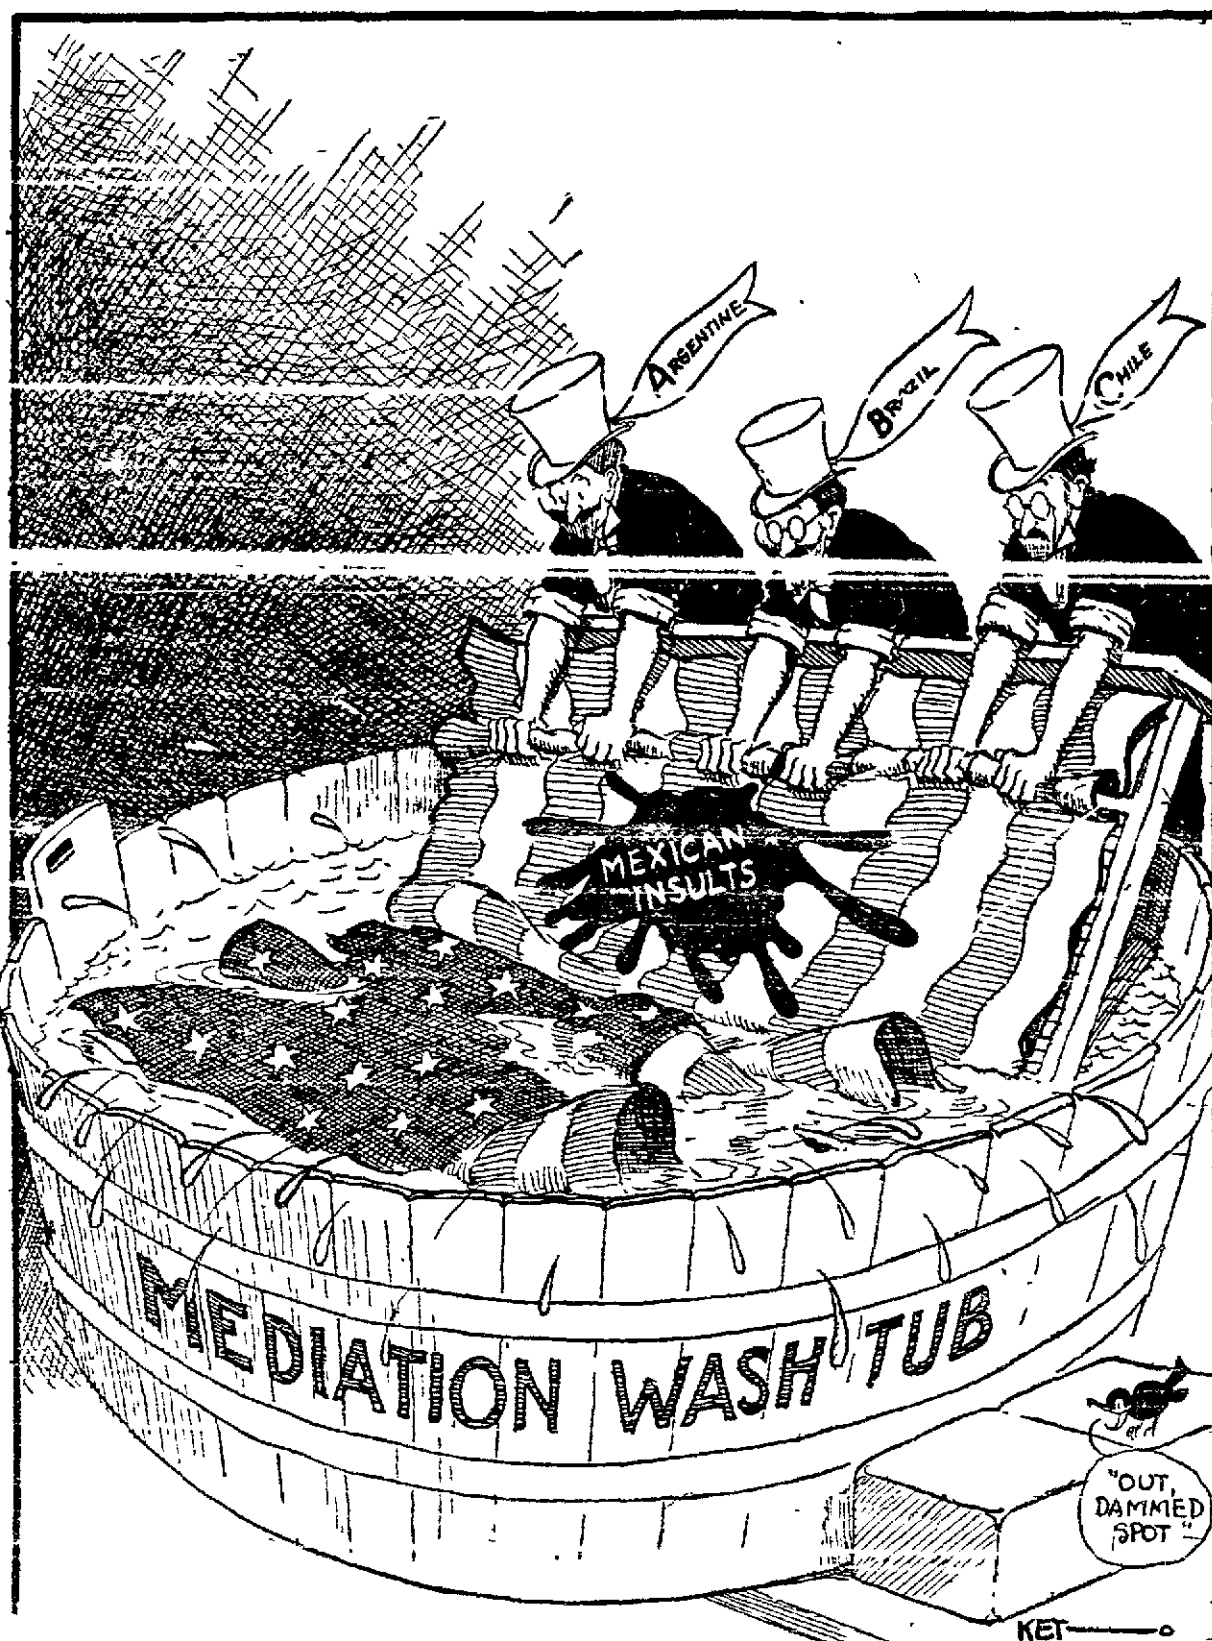

Another suggestion that the white-winged bird of peace is about to resume business: Sarah B. Arango has been appointed postmaster at Dove, Cal.

An Ohio farmhand who says he hasn't had a pay day in twenty-five years has sued his employer for $9000 in back wages. He declares he is afraid the farmer intends beating him out of the amount due. Gee, what a suspicious guy that fellow is!

Will Diaz Return to Power?

There are many rumors afloat to the effect that with the downfall of Huerta, which is conceded, General Porfirio Diaz, formerly president of the Mexican republic, will be returned to power; that plans for his restoration are well under way, and that the people will welcome him to authority at the opportune time.

This seems hardly probable. All the old Cientificos—that is, the men of the old Diaz regime—have been banished by Huerta, imprisoned or forced to become refugees. The present Porfirista leaders in the Mexican capital are few, indeed, and their influence has waned until it is almost nothing. Felix Diaz is out of the country and has failed in an attempt to secure United States backing for the project of taking possession of the machinery of government and holding it until elections could be held.

It is hardly fair to presume that the older Diaz could accomplish what his friends predict. The first revolution was against his power and authority, and as revolt has followed revolt, the mass of the population have not shown any disposition to appeal to him for aid. Each "general" has his ambitions, Villa, Carranza, Zapata and the balance, and each has a strong following. Huerta is by no means friendless. It would be impossible for any man, Diaz or any other, to take charge of governmental affairs without the backing of a strong military force, and to recruit an army strong enough in proportion to overwhelm the insurgents in the field and Huerta also seems like a physical impossibility.

In our judgment the redemption of Mexico will have to be accomplished by other agencies, and we do not expect to see the elder Diaz involved in any attempt to restore order.

Governor Major of Missouri says the hens of his state lay 24 eggs each for every man, woman and child in the United States each year; that these eggs, placed end to end, would circle the globe four times, and their value is more than the gold output of Arizona, Colorado and California. Happy Missouri hen! All she has to do is lay and the governor does the cackling.

Japan Shows Friendship for U. S.

It is understood, although the official announcement has not yet been made, that Viscount Oura, Minister of Agriculture and Commerce, in the new Japanese cabinet, will be selected as commissioner-general for the Panama-Pacific Exposition. But Viscount Oura will not come to America, his duties being of a pressing character and requiring his presence at home. Instead Admiral Baron Uiu, a graduate of our own naval academy at Annapolis, and a strong friend of the United States, will be delegated to serve.

In connection with the formation of the new cabinet it is significant that its members are all friendly toward this government. So far as can be ascertained not a member of the new government is antagonistic. Count Okuma, one of the leading statesmen, has long been known as a great admirer of this nation and its institutions.

An added item of interest lies in the announcement that the members of the House of Representatives of the Japanese Diet have issued an invitation to Congressmen from the United States who participated, to visit Japan next month.

Looking at these events it will be seen that Japan is displaying the greatest friendship for the United States and that the prospects for a continued understanding between the two governments on a very friendly basis are extremely bright.

SCIENCE NOTES

Work has been begun on a remarkable steel ropeway, thirty-seven and one-half miles long, which will serve as an extension of the railway from Ladorada to Marioutta, in Colombia, carrying the line over the Andes at an altitude of 11,000 feet. The steel rope is to be supported on a series of steel towers from 40 to 125 feet in height and will consist of twelve sections at each point on point of view a motor will be installed of sufficient power to work two sections. Power is to be furnished by water brought down from the Andes.

Recent sounding in Lake Tanganyika, Africa, by Captain Jacobs of the German navy, showed a maximum depth of 4190 feet. Still greater depths are reported to have been found by a Belgian official. Accordingly Tanganyika is, with the exception of Lake Baikal, the deepest body of fresh water in the world, and further investigations may prove it to be even deeper than Baikal. In the deepest places thus far found, its bottom is at least 1600 feet below sea level.

Pili nuts, which grow abundantly in the Philippines, have recently been shipped on a considerable scale to the United States. They are produced by trees of the genus canarium, to which belongs the Java almond, are nearly triangular in cross section and contain a small, oily kernel of almond like flavor. Besides being very palatable in their natural state, they yield a valuable oil, resembling oil of almonds.

FAME'S PATHWAY

His right arm still stiff and sore as the result of a fall from his mount while riding to the hounds several weeks ago in Sterling, England, Henry Patne Whitney, accompanied by Mrs. Whitney and her daughter, Miss Barbara Whitney, returned from their annual trip abroad last week on board the Olympic Mr. Whitney, who appeared to be in splendid health, except for his injured arm, had but little to say about the coming polo series between the American and British teams.

The fact that the English team is training and will train in Madrid Spain, using King Alfonso's palace, has prevented any reports of the team's progress from reaching England except through the newspapers," said Mr. Whitney. "I will hardly be able to practice for the championship, because of my right arm, which was rather severely wrenched some weeks ago when my horse, which I was riding in a fox hunt at Sterling, stumbled and threw me. The team I expect, will start training next month down in Long Island, and the horses and men will then be picked."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Hope is the mortar used in the construction of air castles. Look well to the start and then keep an eye on your finish. When a mother gives a child a sponge bath she uses a wash rag. In this age of suffragettes it's a wise child that knows its own mother. Fighting your way through the world does not mean treating others unfairly. If people follow your advice they always have some one to blame for their failures.

Y. W. C. A. Starts Great Building.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock, at Fifteenth and Webster streets, with the exercises appropriate to such an occasion, the Y. W. C. A. of Oakland will lay the cornerstone of the $200,000 home for the society. The membership is to be congratulated on achieving such a magnificent success as this building represents.

But it is not all in the building. Not by any means. It is noted that on the stone which will be the head of the corner will be the inscription, "Dedicated to Nobler Womanhood." Therein is discovered the aim and object of this sisterhood which has spread all over the nation and the world. This band of women is democratic, practical and spiritual in its efforts. It cares for the physical as well as the mental and religious. Its doors are open to all womankind, irrespective of church affiliation. In these temples of the Y. W. C. A. the lonely one away from home and friends can find a safe haven of shelter, with all the advantages that appertain to clean, healthful, companionable surroundings. The Y. W. C. A. stands for uplift and Oakland generally is as proud of the success achieved by the society as the members themselves.

Short Sermons for Busy Readers

"RELIGION FOR DAILY LIFE."

First—Believe in yourself as God's child. Believe in yourself as God's child as vitally related to Him even as the leaves are related to the tree of the way out toward the life to come. Your life has not been swung meaningless to the void, but that God has sent you here for some high purpose. Say to yourself "I am."

"No longer do I seek good fortune—I myself am good fortune." Believe that whatever happens to you happens because it bears you some message you need to hear. "Do not pray for easy lives! Pray to be stronger men! Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks! Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle. Every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of life which has come in you by the grace of God."

Second—Replace fear by trust. We all know what fear does—it paralyzes people both physically and mentally. A frightened army is an army half conquered. Fear can stop the flow of the digestive juices and upset almost all the functions of the body. No person in the grip of fear can have either physical health or mental poise and efficiency. What the great fears do, the little fears do also in more subtle ways. We know the little fears under the name of worry. Worry impedes all the processes of digestion. It reduces the size of the capillary arteries and impedes the circulation of the blood and consequently the removal of waste tissue from the body. A prominent physician said to me: "When a man comes into my office complaining that his stomach is all upset and he can't digest his food, I make him sit down in that chair and I look him square in the eye and say: 'See here, you are worrying about something. The first thing to do is to stop that worry.'"

TRUSTFUL ATTITUDE.

If we could replace fear and worry by a trustful attitude of mind we should have removed a large part of the suffering in the world and prepared ourselves to meet whatever yet remained with double courage and efficiency. But how? By the practical application of religion to life. Here is a method worth trying. I don't know whether or not it came from—it grew. But I know it will work. Every night as you go to sleep fully repeat to yourself some such little formula as this: "I am God's child. He loves me. Underneath are the everlasting arms and round about me is His great love. As the day is even so shall my strength be. There is nothing in all the world of which I need to be afraid. Because I am God's child these are words that are going to govern my life. Bravely, quietly, calmly, patiently, lovingly, trustfully and with perfect serenity and self-control."

Third—Replace hatred by love. The physiological and mental effects of hatred are akin to those of fear. "Green-eyed jealousy" is not mere poetry—it represents the ultimate physiological effect of hatred and jealousy. Hatred will draw ugly lines on your face and on your soul. If we could eliminate hatred, the holding of grudges, the spirit of revenge from the world, how much of the world's burden of sorrow would be lifted? You can put away your share. "I have never willingly planted a thorn in any man's bosom," said Lincoln. Make the standard of your attitude toward men and then go further and say: "Neither have I permitted any man to plant a thorn in my bosom."

QUEEN WILL BE SELECTED
FINAL COUNT TONIGHTMISS FLORENCE HOOD, WHO IS CANDIDATE FOR QUEEN OF COMING PYTHIAN CARNIVAL.

At ten o'clock tonight at the headquarters at 712 Broadway, proclamation will be made of the queen who is to rule for six days over the carnival to be given next week in Pershing park by the eastbay lodges of the Knights of Pythias and temples of the Pythian Sisters. Interest is keen among the partisans of the four candidates and many expect to witness the vote taking. The contest has been one of the most stubbornly fought in this city for such purposes and for two weeks the result has been constantly in doubt.

At the latest count the vote stood as follows:

Miss Hood, 24,364; Miss Ida Kessler, 17,410; Miss Rose West, 17,400; and Miss Ida Schneider, 11,574.

The coronation is to open Tuesday night at 8 o'clock at the Pythian Castle at Twelfth and Alameda streets at 7:20 o'clock. The line of march will be up Broadway to Fourteenth, down Washington to Seventh and along Twelfth to the park. The queen and her attendants will be escorted by a band, Liberty Company No. 11 and Richmond Company No. 10, uniform ranks. Twenty committees machines will participate. All Knights are requested to attend promptly.

Upon arrival at the carnival grounds, the queen will be crowned by Judge George Samuels, a supreme representative of the order, assisted by H. Schaefer, grand keeper of the records and seals, and Dean F. Sloan, grand master of the exchequer. The grounds will be decorated with blue, yellow and red as the carnival colors, and a myriad of lights. Each of the twenty eastbay lodges will have a concession which will add to the mirth and pleasure of the festivities.

A feature of the celebration will be the part taken by the temples of the Pythian Sisters. They will hold open house for the lodgemen of San Francisco and other cities who attend Piedmont Lodge No. 112 will be the host of the carnival. The committee in charge is composed of Past Chancellor George N. White, F. F. Lewis and J. M. Watzelzick.

FINDS SHE'S WIFE
AFTER TEN YEARS

Husband, a Neighbor. Whom She Wed Without Knowing It.

NEW YORK, May 2.—To be a wife for ten years without knowing it, though she lived only a block away from her husband, was the strange experience of Lillian D. Post, daughter of a wealthy Jersey City man. She is free today by decree of Justice Blair, of the Supreme Court.

The young woman, now living at 151 Central Park West, New York City, and her husband, Lester Lary, an insurance broker, had believed all along they were merely betrothed.

According to the testimony, Miss Post and Lary were in love as children. He proposed marriage, but she asked him to wait. Lary was stricken with typhoid fever in 1907.

"If you will go through a formal betrothal with me I will feel much better and so will you," she told Justice Blair the young man said. "We will go and see a minister."

Miss Post agreed. Lary arose from his sick-bed and they went to the home of the late Rev. Richard Hartley, 223 West One Hundred and Fourth street. Neither understood the ceremony meant more than a betrothal and they returned to their respective homes.

When her father died, a few years ago, Miss Post discovered the ceremony performed ten years previously made her Mrs. Lary.

'PINK MASK GIRL'
NOW IDENTIFIED

'Had a Great Lark,' Says 'Bonnie Burr,' Figure in Puzzle.

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—It has just been learned that the identity of the mysterious "Girl With the Pink Mask" has been established definitely. To say her actions since coming to this country have created a sensation is putting it mildly. The will-o-the-wisp mystery maid has enjoyed a merry, if cruel joke, at the expense of America's most exclusive set, as well as that of the New York police.

"Miss Bonnie Burr," as she calls herself, is the sensation of the hour. By dint of sheer genius she picked her dainty way past the stern picket line that guards the approach of "outsiders" to the social club of New York's "609" to a series of victorious triumphs in the all-powerful innermost circle of that privileged few. While the smart set were still gossiping in mock horror over her mysterious disappearance, the girl invaded police headquarters with a criticism of police methods that has made her famous.

Who is she? Well, beyond her affirmation that she is Bonnie Burr, her identity is still shrouded in mystery. It is said she has been identified by an English "clever," visiting this country, not as the cold, intellectual paragon, Madame L.—(a noted secret service woman) but as the merry, mischievous young daughter of a Scottish Yard officer. Her interview given a press correspondent in this city, bears out this last theory.

"It was all the result of a wager. Then I fell to wondering if I could do it. How I successfully won my part of the wager is not for publication.

"My brief social conquest has not afforded me half the amusement that my experience with the police has done. You see, I possess the gift of adaptability. I can utterly submerge my own personality as to become with any class of people in which I find myself. The clues to my identity with which the police arm themselves are completely frustrated at a second meeting." Then Miss Burr gracefully excused herself. The interview was at an end.

ONE OF OLDEST TWINS
DIES AT AGE OF 96

BABYLON, L. I., May 2.—Samuel Muncie, one of the famous Muncie twins, died at his home here at 96 years. He and his brother William were said to be the oldest twins in the United States if not in the world. They were born in Babylon on Christmas day, 1818.

The Muncie twins were famed as prohibitionists, and they also took pride in their record of never having smoked or gambled.

HONEYMOON LASTS
BUT TEN MINUTESGirl Gets License, Rushes to Minister, Sees Husband Sail.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2.—Mrs. John Tice—her name was Miss Rosalie Quin—up to late Tuesday night—doesn't believe in war. She thinks Uncle Sam should have overlooked Huerta's slight to the Stars and Stripes.

This little trouble caused a postponement of her honeymoon. The man in the case is a marine and a few hours after the ceremony he left aboard the transport Hancock, which sailed for Tampico, Mexico.

When Rosalie said "yes" he asked for a leave of absence. Not only was it refused but he had to get to work at once helping to coal the Hancock. Then Rosalie got busy. She obtained a license, induced a preacher to go over the river and with coal dust in his hair and on his hands and face the gallant young marine morning, when the coaling had been completed, the bridegroom got ten minutes' shore leave.

There were kisses and tears and then the little bride was led away by her mother as John went aboard his ship. However, John's term of enlistment will expire in four months.

BROADWAY SUCCESSES PACK UP

ROSSELL DAGUE WRITES OF NEW YORK'S THEATRICAL STARS WHO ARE PICTURED HERE

"THE SECRET"

(By ROSSELL DAGUE.)

NEW YORK, May 2.—Let the first few warm days of spring come and even established Broadway successes begin to pack up their scenery and move to the storehouses for the summer. Last week this column chronicled the closing of the first season of the Century Grand Opera Company. Now there can be added nearly a dozen comedies and plays of a more or less serious character which have ended their New York careers.

Take Henry Bernstein's drama, "The Secret," in which Frances Starr has been playing, for example. It has been one of the serious successes of the season. Yet now the spring is in the air, why worry over the tragedy of a deceitful wife? So the local public seems to think, at least.

Yet there is a wide field throughout the country in which star and play can wander, and there they go if not at once, then after the summer weeks. So, too, with the majority of the other plays now leaving the city theaters.

There is Maude Adams, for instance. She has been playing "Peter Pan" for special matinees along with Barrie's "The Legend of Leonora." Both these plays will be presented by her on the road during the coming year. If the never-comedies does not attract, "Peter Pan" is certain to continue its popularity.

Another fromman star, Billie Burke, is also leaving. She is going west, her first stop being Chicago. There she will first present her latest farce, "Jerry," by Catherine Chisholm Cutting. It is poor stuff in which Miss Burke is her most affected, but she has admirers always. She is "cute," these admirers say. That covers all her sins in their eyes, of course.

"Grumpy," too, the most sensationally successful play of the year, and Cyril Maude, its star, have also gone from our midst. That, too, at the height of their success, when they could probably go on for much longer than the twenty-five weeks they have spent at Wallack's. The reason is that Mr. Maude engaged a London theater long before he knew that "Grumpy" would register such a hit here, and as the theatrical season in the English capital is the summer months, he is anxious to duplicate his American success. Moreover, he will be back in this country next fall and has said that he expects his mystery comedy will carry him through at least three seasons here. That means San Francisco in 1915.

FARCE HAS BIG RUN.

Another comedy which has had a lengthy run and is certain to be played throughout the country is "The Mistletoe Lady." It is by Charles M. Goddard and Paul Dickey, the latter an actor who has been seen frequently with Miss Robson. The pair were responsible for "The Ghost Breaker," in which H. V. Warner appeared last year. Their new play is farce of the most exaggerated kind wound about the old story of "The Taming of the Shrew," but with Lewis Stone, who is well known on the coast, as the tamer, they had a genuine financial success.

Then there is "The Role of Three," a farce-comedy by Guy Bolton in which Katherine Grey was the leading role. She who used to be the Best when she was an Oakland girl, has not been seen here often in the past few years, but has renewed the favorable reputation she previously had. The Bolton play is not a particularly noteworthy although it is rather amusing. It attempts to treat the divorce question in a humorous light. The heroines have been three times married. She comes to a summer resort on her third honeymoon and there, by chance, finds her former husbands. She has a child by her first marriage. Part of the author's humor deals with the trouble this youngster has in her relationships with her mother's three husbands. "Father," "papa" and "dad" she has to call them to keep the three husbands from the entire being funny, there is more than a bit of sorrow in her position.

OTHER PRODUCTIONS.

BELVA LOCKWOOD
MAY LOSE HOMEQueer Agreement Made Years Ago Is Responsible for Trouble.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Belva Ann Lockwood, who stumped the South for Horace Greeley in 1872, and later was the only woman candidate for the Presidency, sat in her dusty, old-fashioned office and told the story of the impending loss of her home.

"Years ago," said Mrs. Lockwood, "I knew an Indian named James Taylor, who lived with the Eastern Cherokees in the mountains of North Carolina. He brought me a number of cases, but he rarely had any money. One day I received a telegram from James Taylor, died at Asheville, N. C. He asked me to send him enough money to come to Washington, which I did. When he arrived he made me a proposition. I was to split my fees equally with him on all Cherokee Indian cases he was able to agreement in writing. "Time went on, and the next thing I heard James Taylor had gone insane. A son of his wrote me and told me so. A few years later the Cherokee Indians brought suit against the Government to share in the benefits of the Cherokee reservation in Oklahoma. Because I had had much experience with the Cherokees I was retained as associate counsel.

"The Indians won the case and the court fixed $100,000 as my fee. With that $10,000 I bought this house at 619 F street. That was a number of years ago.

"Just full some of James Taylor's heirs found his copy of the agreement, and knowing that I had been one of the attorneys in the case of the Cherokees against the Government, brought suit against me in the District Supreme court last October.

"Justice Wright, who heard the case, awarded the Indians half of my fee, or $50,000, regardless of the fact that 'Indian Jim,' as I called Taylor, had been supposedly insane at the time. The United States Marshal has now attached my property for $50,000 judgment and $800 costs, and unless I can get the money they will put me into the street.

BOY OF TEN DIES IN EFFORT TO SAVE COUSIN

TRENTON, N. J., May 2.—The effort of Frank Hutchins, Jr., 10-year-old son of the first vice president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Pottery, to rescue his 10-year-old cousin, Fred Belky, from drowning in the city was unsuccessful, and both were drowned.

They were playing along the bank, when young Belky fell overboard. He scrambled around in the water and young Hutchins jumped in in an effort to rescue him. Both bodies were recovered.

BOY SMOTHERS IN TON OF WASTE PAPER

JOLIET, Ill., May 2.—Raymond Cunningham, the 5-year-old grandson of Miss Annie Higgins, was stifled under a ton of waste paper. A two-wheeled cart containing the paper, on which he had climbed, overturned. Half an hour later the grandmother saw his legs sticking out from beneath the pile. When Policeman McCarthy stooped down to pick up the boy he straightened suddenly. "Jake," he said to the other officer, "you take him; I can't. It's my nephew."

2.—The May number of the California Law Review, which is out today, contains several articles of interest to the legal profession and to the general public.

Judge Gavin W. Craik of the Los Angeles Superior Court contributes an article on "Improvements in the Criminal Laws of California, giving the results of modern scientific and practical experience of the writer in addition to the primary purpose of the author, however, is to point out the realization of the moral wrong and economic cost of the present system, and to show that these conditions can and should be remedied by the adoption of certain reforms."

Irrigationists is the article on "Water Titles of Corporations and Their Consumers" by Samuel C. Chelton of San Francisco, in which he develops the theories of the nature of property in water and the application of those theories to the right of consumers in water. The author discusses the questions arising over priorities among consumers and charges for perpetual water rights and variations of water rights for rate fixing and losses.

The Kahn bill protecting foreign exhibitions at the Panama Pacific Exposition has been the subject of fierce attacks from patent lawyers and others, and Mr. Charles E. Townsend, a patent lawyer, has written an article in this issue a review of the history of the protection of "Intellectual Property at Expositions" and defends the Kahn bill from the attacks that have been made upon it.

The issue contains the usual comment on recent decisions by the appellate courts of California and the other western States.

BERKELEY, May 2.—The last horse has disappeared from the Berkeley fire department. One of the new combination autos recently purchased was put in place today of a horse-drawn vehicle, a pleasure horse, the last of its kind in the city. Under the new arrangement instituted by Chief Kenney, there will be no pieces of motor drawn fire apparatus any place within a brief time.

TO CHURCH IS MANKIND'S DUTY

"Not Matter of Fancy," Once Declared Mr. Gladstone.

BY REV. O. F. BELL.
The late Mr. Gladstone once said:
"Church is not a matter of fancy;
it is a man's duty for the work of the world. No public spirited man has a moral right to absent himself for good cause from the public worship.
I am a regular churchgoer. I should go for various reasons. If I did not love it, but I am fortunate enough to find great pleasure in the midst of social amusements, whether I can accept all their creeds or not. For I find that there is in the corner of my heart a little plant called Reverence which needs to be watered every week."
Churchgoing is little more and little less than a response to the call of God.

CALL OF GOD.
The business man who will not answer customers' telephone calls will soon have none to answer. The call of religion is the call of God.
Treat God with the same courtesy that you treat your telephone.

Crusade in the eastbay cities will mean much to the communities in which the campaign is waged. The results will be everlasting. For it needs but one visit for the non-attendant to convince him that the church is a place of education, of character building and a place abreast of the times and a real factor in the upbuilding of the community.
Go to church Sunday, May 17, anyway. If you don't like preachers, it will give you a new opportunity to meet them. If they are long-winded, go to church and hold a watch on them.
But "Go to church Sunday" if you have been a non-attendant. There is a surprise in store for you. The church of today is not the church of last year, last week or yesterday.
It is the church of today and every day finds the church of today abreast of the times and a factor in the progress of the community.

MILLER MEMORIAL PARK IS SUBJECT

Council of Women Hears Talks on Proposed Purchase of "The Heights."

The Joaquin Miller Memorial Park project was a special subject of consideration by the Council of Women east of Lake Merritt at its regular meeting, Mrs. Sarah C. Borland, representing in a general way the Oakland Center, California Civic League, set forth the value and advantages to Oakland of "The Heights" as a city park, stating that the two institutions east of the bay in which tourists and guests show unfeigned interest are the Greek Theater and the home of Joaquin Miller. Mrs. Borland argued for ownership of the proposed park by the city of Oakland as a matter of civic pride and a creditable tribute from the fellow townsmen of the poet to his literary genius and world-wide fame.

Dr. Carl Walliser urged ownership and maintenance by the State, not only from pecuniary considerations, but because the name and fame of the Poet of the Sierras are not and cannot be sold, or located and monopolized even by the city which has recently extended its limits to include his chosen home. He is known as a Californian by thousands of admirers and all Californians.

WOULD ADVERTISE ATTRACTION.
The state as proprietor and administrator of this memorial park would advertise its attractions in many ways and could more effectively guard the place and its environs from all undesirable enterprises and associations, argued Dr. Walliser. In no case could the park be better than an Oakland institution, he said, accessible only through Oakland, whatever the provision for its financial support. Dr.
Walliser made it clear, however, that no difference of opinion as to the means of acquiring the property should or would be permitted to jeopardize the project.

The retention by Miss Miller of the "Juanita Cottage" and grounds, given to her by her father as her own home, was noted as an important addition to the attractions of the place, rather than otherwise. Dr. Walliser stated, however, that should the purchase be effected he would favor and promote to the best of his ability the appointment of Miss Miller as custodian of the poet's cottages and the valuable relics and memorials which are offered with the estate, if the latter be made a public memorial park.

HOLLISTER HAY CROP WILL BE 30,000 TONS

HOLLISTER, May 2.—Hay men estimate the crop in the Hollister valley this season at 30,000 tons. Cutting of volunteer hay has started. Labor appears to be plenty, but men are demanding $2 and in places $2.50 per day and board. Rather than pay this high price to native labor, hay farmers are employing Mexican emigrants. Their work is not so satisfactory but they work longer hours for a lesser wage. Hay baling outfits are preparing for the season's run. A price of $1.75 per ton for baling has been agreed upon as against $1.50 formerly charged.

CIGARETTE CAUSES INJURY.

KITTRICK, May 2.—Joseph Smith, employed on the Berry and Oil Company's lease in the south end of the McKittrick field, was killed on the face following an explosion of a cigarette while he was at work. He was escaping from a fire which was ignited. He was taken to the office of Dr. H. V. Prouty, who the affected party, and Mr.
Smith will be able to resume his duties in a few days.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS BY PRIVATE ROAD

First Opportunity in Years for Driving to the Crest.

Motorists who avail themselves of the opportunity to visit Marin county and attend the production of Shalun Tale in the Mountain Theater at Rock Springs, near the top of Mount Tamalpais, Sunday, May 17, will be rewarded by enjoying the satisfaction of driving over William Kent's scenic private road, which will be thrown open to the public on this date. Through the good offices of Congressman Kent and C. F. Bunyon, president of the Mount Tamalpais railway, the road has been made available to automobilists, in the interest and promotion of the welfare and success of the mountain play.

The route of the road in question, known as Kent's private road, is along the mountain side from West Point to the White Gate ranch, where it joins the Bolinas road at a point about one half mile above Willow camp. In order that this stretch of road may be in good condition for the day of the play, it has been thoroughly repaired by Bunyon. To do this it was necessary to build new curbways and enlarge a curve which necessitated the blasting of a big rock. This work has been completed and the entire length of the route is in satisfactory condition.

The Board of Supervisors of Marin county have repaired the Bolinas County road from the main Sausalito road at Marin Heights to the White Gate ranch.
This work was done in order that the entire route to the mountain play would be satisfactory to the patronizing auto-lists. The co-operation of this board with the Mountain Play committee in preparing for the coming event is keenly appreciated by the organization, as a good auto route to the theater was absolutely essential.

The privilege of surrounding Mount Tamalpais by motor car will prove a great treat, especially because of the fact that this is the first date that public machines have been permitted to drive over this road for years. It is planned that the road will be opened to public traffic again in 1915, when the third annual mountain play will be presented.
The opening of this road for the one day
a year and the mountain play are significant events and worthy of the recognition of all bay counties motorists.

auto traffic supervision for May 17 was flag the route and patrol automobiles in the parking space on top of the ridge, which is near the mountain theater. The parking grounds are extensive and will accommodate any number of machines in a most delightful greenward. The walk from this parking space to the theater will take fifteen minutes, over a practically level trail cut along a shady side hill.

In order that the 2000 automobile owners of Sonoma and Marin counties may be advised of the opportunity of ascending the mountain to attend the play by Kent's private road, the Mountain Play committee will mail personal letters to each individual enclosing a plain statement of facts and a map showing the route from the Sausalito road at Marin Heights to the theater.

The time required to drive from Sausa-lito to the theater will be about one hour and fifteen minutes.

HANDS INFANT TO MATRON, VANISHES

Nursery Authorities Are Probing for Mother of Abandoned Baby.

CHICAGO, May 2.—A pretty, three weeks' old baby was abandoned today by a woman attired in black and heavily veiled at the steps of the Day Nursery of the Volunteers of America, 1201 Washington boulevard. The woman dropped the little bundle into the arms of Mrs. Della Browlee, matron of the nursery, ran to a waiting limousine and was driven hastily away.

Everything happened so quickly that none of the attendants at the nursery gained a good view of the woman nor saw the number of the machine. The incident came at 11 a. m., just as most of the attaches were going about their duties. There is no clue to the child's identity in the baby clothes, which indicate that the little one was an unwelcome visitor in a home of means.

"I answered the doorbell myself," said Mrs. Browlee, "and there stood a woman neatly dressed in black, wearing black gloves and so heavily veiled that I could not see her face.
She had a bundle with a little baby in it."

"Instinctively I put out my arms for the little one, and without a word she thrust the bundle toward me. I said:

"Wait a moment, please!"
"But the woman would not wait.
She turned around without a word and ran across the walk to an automobile. The car started up and sped away. It was done so quickly that I had no time to call help or take the number of the machine."

"The woman was so heavily veiled that I could not see whether she was crying or not. Apparently not, although she did not speak a word. Her clothes were of good material and

REX BEACH TO WRITE OF TEXAS

Noted Writer Is Visitor in Galveston; Seeks Book Material.

GALVESTON, May 2.—"Just scouting round" is the explanation offered by Rex Beach, novelist, writer and traveler, for his presence in Galveston. Mr. Beach arrived Friday morning and will be in the city several days visiting old scenes and familiar landmarks on Galveston Island.
Later, he confessed he is in Texas for a specific purpose and that is to help the Texas ranger service to come into its own. The novelist is planning a book border life, particularly that phase in which Texas rangers have played so large a part.

"Tex," said Mr. Beach last night as he settled his 250-odd pounds into a comfortable chair, "Gilbert Parker has done the mounted police of the Northwest and I'm going to try the Texas ranger of the Southwest. It strikes me that I have chosen a richer field at that."

By some it may be remembered that Rex Beach was in Galveston seven years ago, and it was here that "The Barrier," one of his first novels, was written.

"I did every line of it right here; and I did it while I was in the Texas ranger service," he continued, "and didn't know then how much money it takes for two to live. Mrs. Beach and I had great times where we were here;
she wanted to come back this time and go over the place with me, but there wasn't time for it, so she stayed at home."

From Galveston he will go to Austin, where several days will be spent gathering information from state officials and old residents who are familiar with the ranger service. From Austin he will go to San Antonio, El Paso and Brownsville.
At Brownsville, Mr. Beach said he would get a pair of yellow "sand ponies," a buckboard and a skillet and start westward, following the river and stopping at border towns. Several months will be spent making the trip to El Paso, if indeed he travels that far west.

"And take it from me," he said with a chuckle, "that whatever I write is going to be written with an eye on the movies." The writer who overlooks this field in writing a novel misses the one best bet."

FREAK CALF IS BORN; ROUND HEAD; 2 NOSES

TULARE, May 2.—Charles Blais, a rancher near here, is the owner of a freak calf that promises to be a wonder to all who view it. The animal was born with a perfectly round head, the only protuberances being two noses which project forward and downward below the eyes, and mouth and tongue are between the noses. In spite of its unusual characteristics the animal is healthy and frisky, eats and drinks like an ordinary calf, but it is viewed with much distrust by its fellows in the herd.

DYNAMITE ROUTS MEN; BEER PUMP TO RESCUE

NEW YORK, May 2.—The profron-

Henry Reinhardt's hotel at Patchougue, L. I., had just been bombed by a dynamite explosion, which destroyed the building and killed Cordova Gorge and set a force of marines scurrying to Mexico City, when "Dynamite Jim"
Morris mumbled in the place.

"You're a fine lot of firefreaks and black," said Morris, a professional fire-blaster. "I'll show you fellows what war really means."

As the twenty stay-at-home fighters faced about Morris drew a long stick of dynamite from his pocket and took a bite, as if it were tobacco.

Every one expected to see the top of his head go flying off, but he smilingly remarked: "It tastes good.
Have a bite?"

White faced and trembling, the war strategists made a wild leap for the doors and windows or crawled under tables and behind the bar, as Morris calmly walked over to the big stove in the center of the room and tossed the stick of dynamite on top of the hot coals.

"That's strange," said the blaster, as he leaned over curiously; "It hasn't even scorched it."

Thrusting his hand into the stove, he drew out the dynamite, and started whistling it. Piece by piece it went into the stove, and roared up like sawdust soaked with kerosene as it touched the glowing coals. That finished, he whistled a second stick of the explosive.

Although several minutes had elapsed, the men who dived out of doors were still running, but occasionally glanced over their shoulders in expectation of seeing the hotel flying up into the air.

"This is most disgusting," said Morris, "but here are some real firecrackers."

Taking a handful of fulminating caps from his coat pockets, he pitched them into the stove. The top was knocked off, the bottom was knocked out, and the stove fell on its side as the caps exploded with a roar.

Henry Reinhardt, the proprietor, who had been trying to crawl through a crack in the flooring behind the bar, then drove Morris out with the handle of the beer pump. Two members of the Board of Strategy then helped him put out the fire.

BRING MANDAMUS SUIT TO STOP ASSESSMENT

MODESTO, May 2.—Suit has been filed in the Superior court by the Modesto and Turlock Irrigation districts against the Board of Supervisors of Tulare county asking for a writ of mandamus to compel the Tulare county board to cancel the assessment levied against the districts. Several months ago the Modesto and Turlock districts were notified that taxes were due on property owned by them, and which the Tulare county officials allotted to the La Grange dam. County Surveyor Edgar Annear made a survey of the line between the two counties, and found that the La Grange dam and lands near that point, the property assessed by the Tulare assessor was in Stanislaus county, with the exception of 350 acres along the Tulare river immediately

The Tulare board of supervisors are willing to cancel that part of the assessment of land shown to be in Stanislaus county, provided the Tu-lame county surveyor agrees with Mr. Annear's survey. The board, however, refuses to cancel the assessment against the 350 acres of land, admitted to be in Tulare county, having been advised by their district attorney that the law exempting irrigation district lands from taxation is unconstitutional. The Superior court has never passed upon this phase of the law, but has held that reclamation districts, being a public use are exempt.

In the present action brought to protect the rights of the districts, E.
R. Jones represents the Modesto district and P. H. Griffin the Turlock district. Upon the filing of petition by Attorney Jones, Judge Reinhardt made an order for the issuance of a writ of mandamus, returnable May 20, 1914.

DODGE EUGENIC LA WB Y COMMON-LAW MARRIAGE

CHIPPewa FALLS, Wis., May 2.—
Miss Clara Jackson, 19 years old, and Carl Nunko, 22 years old, were married at the office of Attorney J. E. Fannier, who drew up the contract for a common law marriage, which both of them attended.

The bridegroom stated he had come to several physicians who opposed giving him a certificate unless it complied with the Wisconsin law, which would have cost $25 and required some time to execute.

The couple decided not to wait and therefore chose the common law marriage.

TEXAS BORDER LIFE IN HIS CLEVER, WHIM- SICAL WAY, BUT THAT NO ONE HAS YET TEMPTED TO GIVE IT THE GLAMOR, ROMANCE AND TO BE WRITTEN WITH AN EYE ON THE MOVIES.

Mr. Beach has just returned from a stay of several weeks in Cuba, where he says it looks as if the Cuban government managed by Cubans is going to smash.
"Cubans are more intelligent than Texans," he said, "and if they have the right government they will be where Mexico is going to land in the end."

"If they'd just turn that bunch I saw marching up the pike this morning while I was on my way down, loose in Mexico, they'd go right to the Yucatan and never stop."

NEW WORLD RECORD SET BY BEESON

OLYMPIC MAN CLEARS BAR AT 6:7 5-16

Pacific Coast Conference Is Sensational; Stanford Loses on Foul.

One world's record and one Pacific Coast record broken, and one world's record tied was the outcome of the track events at Berkeley yesterday afternoon. Under ideal weather conditions and before a large crowd, the University of California track athletes won the fifth annual Pacific Coast conference meet with a score of 43. Stanford ran a close second with 41.

The interest in the outcome of the meet was kept up until the last event, when California was awarded the relay race on a foul made by Richdale of Stanford against Stanton of California during the first lap.

EXCITEMENT WAS HIGH.

The excitement was running high when Stanton of California and Richdale of Stanford took the track for the first lap of the relay race. With the score standing 41 to 38 in Stanton's favor, the outcome of the meet hinged on this event. The two runners shot forward at the crack of the pistol, Stanton taking the lead by a couple of yards until on the last turn Richdale pulled up beside him. It was at this time the foul occurred, Richdale interfering bodily with the U. C. runner. For several strides the runners bumped each other at every motion, Richdale being clearly the offender. Immediately a cry of foul was raised by the crowd and discussion started among the officials. The race went on just the same, but Stanton lost his lap by about ten yards, when he had proved himself the equal of the other man by his showing in the regular races.

MAY STRAIN RELATIONS.

Referee John Elliot decided that the race was California's because of the foul. Regarding this decision Elliot said: "The minute a man, or team commits a foul, that man or team is virtually out of the race, and all subsequent incidents in the race are of no import."

Whether or not the distance lost by Stanton by reason of the foul was great enough to have changed the outcome of the race cannot be decided, and it is exceedingly unfortunate that the race was not decided cleanly. The feeling between Stanford and California has not been very good since fouls and unfair starts were alleged to have been made in the dual meet between the two institutions several weeks ago, and the outcome of this incident may leave the relations of the two greatest coast universities in a strained condition.

Advocate protested that he had no intention of committing a foul, but that he made a mistake. The foul was not apparent and Referee Elliot could not do otherwise than award the race to California.

The most sensational race of the day was Oliver Mollard's successful try for the record in the two-mile, running against time. Mollard ran a wonderful two miles and succeeded in breaking the coast record in this event for the second time during the afternoon. Mollard was running in a special event under the colors of the Olympic Club.

BEESON INVITED NORTH.

Included in the regular events of the intercollegiate competition was the two-mile race in which Hobgood of Oregon Agricultural College broke the coast intercollegiate record of 9:29 held by Wood of California by 14.5 seconds. Negotiations are now under way to take Oliver Mollard of the Olympic Club to Eugene, Oregon, to compete in the dual meet next Friday between O. A. C. and the University of Oregon. The race between the two record-breakers should arouse considerable interest among track fans.

Dr. Eddie Beeson, formerly a University of California track star, now under the Olympic Club banner, raised the world's record for the high jump by 5-16 of an inch, clearing the bar at 6:7 5-16 inches. The previous record was held by George Horine, who also competed in this special high jumping event, but did not figure against Beeson on account of not being in good condition.

The world's record in the low hur-

MEETINGS WILL CONSIDER WATER DISTRICT MATTER

Berkeleyans to Gather at Session to Be Held Tuesday Night in City Hall

Meetings will be heard this week in Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and other parts of the proposed Metropolitan Water District to discuss the campaign to carry the election June 2. Among the more important of these is the big meeting scheduled for Tuesday night in the city hall of Berkeley, when the formal campaign will be launched by the organizations in that city.

The water district matter has long been under investigation in Berkeley, and the committee having had the matter under consideration. George Burlingame, who is a member of the executive committee of the Metropolitan Water District league conducting the general campaign, will tell of the results of this investigation, and will explain the situation at a number of meetings.

"It is perhaps needless to dwell upon the necessity and advantage of municipal ownership at this time," declared Burlingame. "But we are prone in the rush of criticizing this measure, and that to forget the concrete advantage of municipal ownership as they appear to one who has studied the matter."

ADVANTAGES SUMMARIZED.

"Summarized, these advantages may be stated as follows: "Water is a unique commodity; it is indispensable to life, nothing can be substituted for it, and upon its quality, plentifulness and distribution depends in large measure the general well-being of the public as regards its convenience, health and safety from fire, as well as its aesthetic interest. Water must be regarded, therefore, as peculiarly a community commodity to be supplied subject to the needs of the community. It is clearly not a commodity that should be subject to individual traffic and whim or to private manipulation and speculation."

"These cities have undertaken to exercise some control over the local supply by ordinance. The general public dissatisfaction with the present domestic service, the inadequacy of the distributing system, the entire lack of water for fire protection in some sections, the carelessness, inability or deliberate neglect of the water company to keep even those facilities that exist up to a proper degree of utility as strikingly evidenced by the fire of May 1 on Panoramic way in Berkeley, where the fire hydrant was found to be wholly without water, the failure of the water company to take necessary steps to improve the sanitation, provide adequate mains

Compensation Act Legally Interpreted

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2. — Any railroad employee injured while at his work, but not engaged in interstate commerce, may claim the protection of the California Workmen's Compensation act, according to an interpretation placed on that law in the decision of Industrial Accident Commission in the case of Ruth vs. the Southern Pacific company, made public today. The company took the stand that inasmuch as it was injured by a train accident, the employees came properly under the federal employers' liability law.

The application in this case was the widow of Charles Ruth, who was killed January 17, 1914, in the roundhouse at Roseville, Cal. He was withdrawn temporarily from service.

He was given heroic treatment and was afterward removed to the City and County hospital, where he died today.

Parole Papers Lead To Suspect's Arrest

Arrested in Berkeleyfield as he was about to be released on parole, under the name of Walter Evans, from a charge of vagrancy, Percy J. Wright, a clerk in the office of Oscar Lockwood, construction engineer of the electrical division of the Southern Pacific, arrived here last night in charge of an officer to face a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses through manipulation of the company's payroll. Two specific charges have been made against him, one for a warrant for $160 and another for $148.

Wright was arrested on a charge of vagrancy by the Berkeleyfield officers while he was beating his way on a train. Having been sentenced to a jail term, he sent word to Attorney Howard K. James of Alameda, who went to Berkeleyfield and attempted to obtain his release on parole. The papers had been made out in the name of Walter Evans and were ready for the signature of the sheriff when a Southern Pacific detective identified Evans as Wright. Parole was promptly refused by the judge and Wright was remanded into custody.

Lockwood, according to the police, is to be held on a joint warrant with Wright. He is a well-known local contractor. He is out of the state at present, it is believed by local officials.

COIN FLIES IN M'CREEERY CASE

Millionaire Clubman Spends $93,884 in Nineteen Months.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Walter A. McCreery, millionaire clubman, spent $93,884 in nineteen months according to a statement filed in the Superior Court here today by his former guardian, Attorney Henry J. Pike.

Pike explained that there was not enough cash on hand to pay McCreery's bills and that $16,000 worth of personal property would have to be sold, but he added that during the period from September 20, 1912, until April 7, 1914, McCreery's estate yielded an income of $102,862.50.

A good part of the amount was spent in McCreery's long fight to be restored to legal competency. After he fled from his ranch near Hollister, Cal., to England his expenses abroad were $20,310, of which $3,004 went to English doctors and lawyers.

Judge Graham set May 14 to determine what fees are due to McCreery's army of unpaid lawyers and alienists.

HELL HITS OPIUM EVIL IN PARIS

Alarming Ravages Made by the Drug Cause More Stringent Regulations.

PARIS, May 2.—Owing to alarming ravages made by the opium habit in all classes of French society of late, a bill more stringently to regulate the sale of the drug in its various forms has been drafted here and will shortly be introduced in the Chamber of Deputies. In the meantime general orders have been issued by the Police Prefects of Paris, Toulon, Marseilles and other cities, to keep a sharp lookout for the traffic in all its phases and make arrests relentlessly wherever culprits may be found. The feelings of no one are spared.

Mme. Lasalle, formerly the Viscountess de Ralsme, has just been fined $120 in the Correctional Court here for the illegal possession of the drug. She lives in a magnificent house in one of the richest and most exclusive quarters of Paris, with several millionaire Americans for neighbors. Her home is near the Porte Dauphine, the fashionable, as well as a national entrance to the Bois de Boulogne.

DOPE JONT DE LUXE.
The "dope" habit has been raided by policemen in uniform. In the hall the police commissary found magnificent sets of opium pipes with full paraphernalia for "cooking," etc. Her drawing room was a model of its kind, being gorgeously furnished with priceless Chinese bric-a-brac, draperies and lanterns, and soft rose light warmed up the room, and, in a position of prominence, was a divan, six by ten feet long, upon which several persons could lie and smoke together.

Mme. Lasalle denied that she ever accepted a cent from her guests. She didn't need too, she liked to smoke herself and those of her friends who cared to, came to see her and they smoked opium together. She said she obtained her opium in London. Following the finding of Mme. Lasalle twelve Paris druggists were found guilty of selling cocaine and sentenced to pay fines ranging from $10 to $400 and to various terms of imprisonment. Investigations show that students in the Latin quarter who sniff cocaine or use opium in some form or other, are alarmingly numerous, while many naval officers and army, especially those being sent in the Orient, are regularly patrons of joints in Marseilles and Toulon, the latter part being France's principal naval base.

DELIVERED IN DISGUISE.
As profits are large the trade in morphine, ether, cocaine and other narcotics is carried on in a big scale, especially in Paris, some dealers actually disguising the samples to dealers by automobile. The drugs ultimately are delivered to users in various guises, sometimes hidden in bouquets of violets or other flowers, often by women and girls posing as flower-sellers.

Montmarie is another great drug center, many actresses and demimondaines of that quarter being addicted to the habit. Recently an ape, the property of Montmarie, was found to be a confirmed cocaine fiend.

The French government is making the most serious attempt yet to stop, or at least reduce to the minimum, the dope habit. While it is admitted that it is practically impossible to stop all illicit traffic in drugs, the aim of the authorities is to make all access to the poisons as risky that new victims will not appear. So, as soon as the hopeless drunkards disappear, France, at least, will be practically free from the vice.

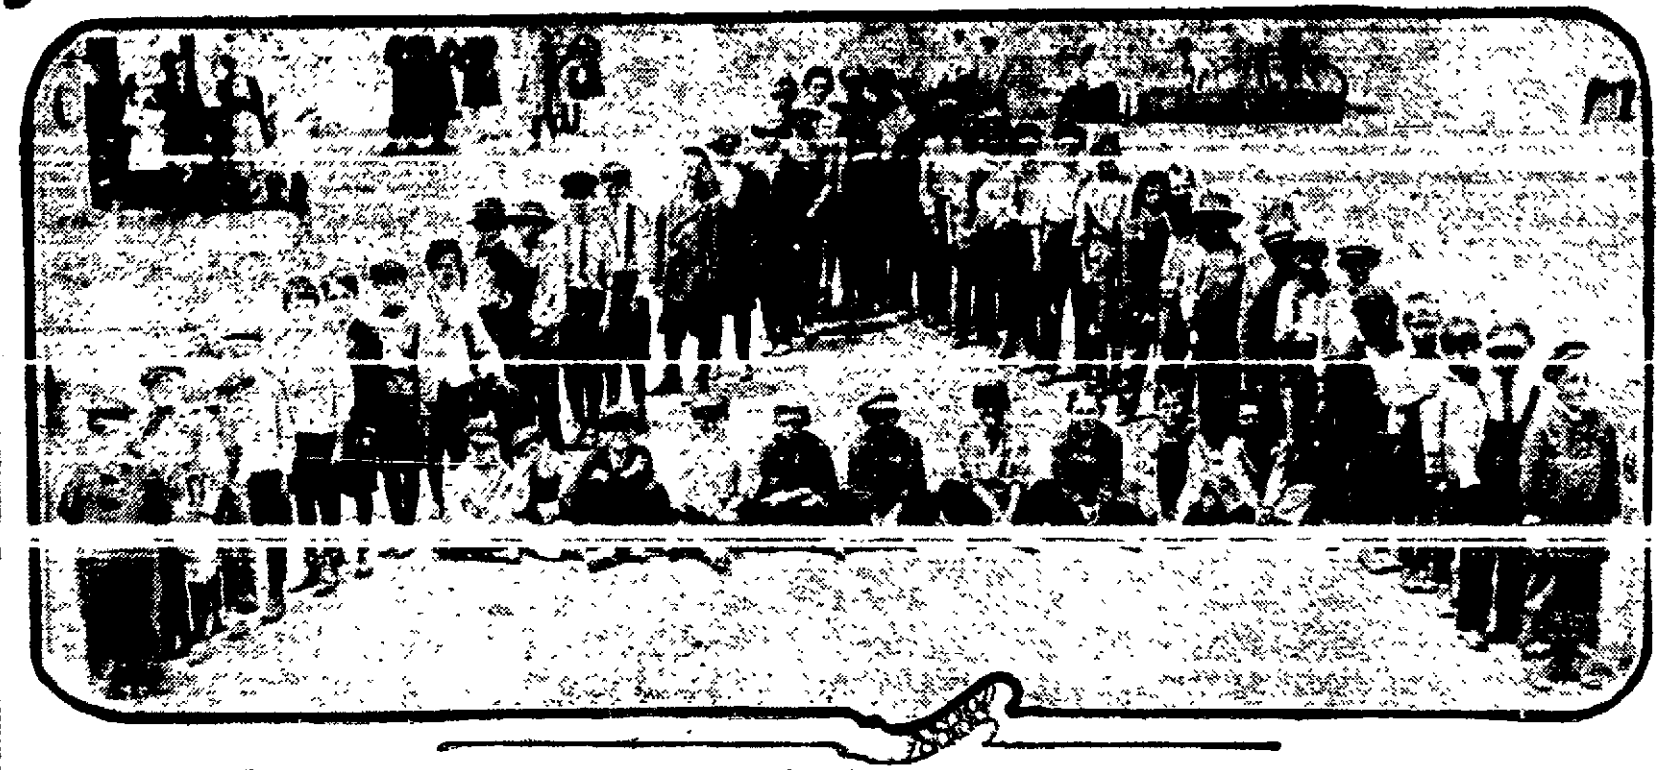

ROLLER SKATING BOY HURT BY AUTOMOBILE

Tony Cabral, a twelve-year-old boy living at 2020 East Nineteenth street, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon by an automobile at East Fourteenth street and Twentieth avenue. Cabral, on roller skates, had been dragging along behind a Key Route car, when the accident happened. He dropped off and was struck by the automobile, sustaining a possible fracture of the skull. He was treated at the office of Dr. E. B. Sil.

PLAYGROUND 'LABOR DAY' SUCCESS JUVENILES PLY HOES AND RAKES

ALLEDALE SCHOOL LADS AS THEY LIVED UP AFTER A HARD GRIND ON "LABOR DAY."

When the signal was given at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in the Alleddale playground, 26 boys, ranging in ages from 12 to 15, rolled up their sleeves and commenced to clean up the grounds. It was labor day in that recreation center and the boys lured that it was one of the most interesting days in the history of the playground. Last May the first annual labor day day celebrated, and the juvenile workmen, though inexperienced, skillfully operated their shovels, rakes and hoes. This year they proved to be more experienced, and enthusiastically worked with the laborer's tools.

The youngsters followed the instructions of Fletcher Taylor, supervisor of the Alleddale playground, who directed the labor day activities. From 9 o'clock until 12 o'clock the boys assumed the roles of "workmen" and they were proud of their efforts at the close of the day. At 12 o'clock, the members of the Mothers' club of Fruitvale school No. 3, served luncheon and at 1 o'clock, the children engaged in play, as they had finished their work upon the grounds.

Before noon yesterday, the boys cut the letter "A" in the center of the playground. The idea was inspired by the "Big C" and represents the loyalty of the boys of the Alleddale grounds.

'HYPNOTIC EYE' IS CHARGE OF BRIDE

Married Without Knowing What She Was Doing.

CHICAGO, May 2.—A father charged that his daughter had been hypnotized into marrying, and that after breaking her husband's hypnotic influence she returned to her parents' roof, before Judge Walker in the Criminal court. A writ of habeas corpus had produced the girl in court, as her young husband had declared she was being held by her father and mother against her will.

John Haag, 2339 Park avenue, is the youth who was accused of having used the "hypnotic eye" in inducing the girl, formerly Alice Reed, to become his wife. Her father is Fred Reed, 2949 West Walnut street. The girl is 19 years old, and therefore Judge Walker overruled the plea that she had been married without her parents' consent.

"This man used some strange influence over the girl in getting her consent to be his wife," declared Mr. Reed, who sat beside his daughter in the private hearing. "I believe he has a hypnotic eye. They were married Easter Sunday and my daughter did not shake off his influence for several days. Then she came right home and would not return to him."

"Do you love this man?" Judge Walker asked the girl.

"I do not, and I did not know what I was doing when I was married," replied the girl.

"Are you held against your will in your parents' home?"

"I am staying there of my own free will, and I have not been held by force,"

Haag was represented by Attorney Arthur W. Kettles, who obtained the writ for the appearance of the girl in court on charge that she was being held a prisoner. Haag vigorously denied he had any hypnotic powers. The writ was then dismissed. During the proceedings Haag was subjected to a vigorous scolding by the girl's mother, who was reproved by Judge Walker.

OAKLAND AD. CLUB TO NAME ITS DELEGATES

Delegates to the Vancouver Ad Club session will be chosen Tuesday at the meeting of the Oakland Advertisers' association, when that organization will gather for its weekly luncheon at the Forum cafe. The program committee is working for a banner luncheon for the occasion and a number of novel features and several surprises are promised.

Several speakers will be heard and "stunts" are being prepared. The speakers have not been announced, and their names will remain a secret until the meeting is called, according to the plans of the association officers.

Charity's Right Hand Learns What Left Is Doing; Then Trouble

Antone Bacigalupi has been growing fat, despite the fact that he has been a ward of the Women's Protective Bureau of the city of Oakland, which furnished necessities for his wife and family. The reason was known today. It was only when Miss Theresa Rich, of the bureau, exchanged confidences with the Associated Charities that the matter came to light. Yesterday Miss Rich gave lists of her charity cases to the other organization. Today Bacigalupi appeared to register a complaint. "She tells the Assoc. Charity about me," he complained to Miss Beatrice McCall. "That's bad. They give me a—"

Inquiry disclosed the fact that Bacigalupi had been "working" both departments. The matter is being investigated.

TEACHERS WILL TRAVEL AFOOT TOWARD LAKE

TULARE, May 2.—Immediately after the close of the school June 5th, twenty-five hikers, chiefly teachers, will start on a ten days' camping trip to Lake Sequoia. Lake Sequoia is about thirty-three miles above Grosi and is at a 5800-foot elevation. The redwoods, including General Grant, General Sherman, Fallen Monarch, Twin Sisters and Twin Brothers, are three miles beyond the lake. The forestry headquarters and postoffice of the General Grant National Park is still another mile and a half beyond the big trees. The camping party will go from Tulare to Grosi, being met there by Omar Guerini, who will act as guide to the party while at the lake.

Parents of R. V. Miller, will probably accompany the campers as official chaperones. Following is a list of the campers:

W. T. Walton and Lysie, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mayhew, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Washburne, Miss Williams and mother, Miss Bowles, Miss Mabel Woods, Miss Sue E. Hanco, Miss E. Wilson, Miss Zelma Wilson, Miss Elma Steinmann and sister, Miss Martha Standley, Miss Alice Gamble, Miss Lucille Webster, Miss Ida Moore, Miss Kate Applegarth, R. V. Miller.

ENTRE NOUS MEMBERS AFTERNOON HOSTESSES

The Entre Nous Luncheon club entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Alice Fredrickson, on the Pothill boulevard. A number of the younger Oakland belles were in attendance at the affair, the guest of honor being Miss Rowena Britt.

Among the guests present were Miss Gladys Robinson, Miss Erna Patery, Miss Vera Merritt, and Miss Doris Porter.

TAXI COMPANIES READY FOR 1915

"Cabby" No Longer Familiar Sight in Big Cities of Coast.

The magnitude to which the taxicab business has grown in the past few years can best be understood by quoting a few figures relative to the expansion in San Francisco. It has been only within the past six or seven years that this form of urban transportation has been used in the west. Starting in then with a few cars, the business has grown until today there are several hundred cars in the touring and taxi service, one company alone has nearly one hundred cars and cars in operation making it the largest concern of this kind west of Chicago, according to figures compiled by C. A. Muller, local agent for the United States Tire company, who says: "The taxicab service is probably harder on cars, tires and equipment than any other in which the automobile is now engaged and the lessons learned from the experience with these items in their daily work about town enables us to form a pretty fair idea of just what cars, tires and accessories are best adapted for this work."

"Only cars built up to the highest standards and shod with the world's best tires can become a permanent part of any taxicab company's fleet, and such as do not measure up to that high mark are doomed to end in the discard heap."

"After finding that United States 'Nobby Tread' tires were the best for winter wear, one company in San Francisco, whose fleet consists of from sixty to eighty white cars, tried them as an all-year-round equipment for their taxis and found them well adapted as a result of these tests, have adopted 'Nobby Treads' for their cars for all seasons. Summer as well as winter presents to the taxi driver many uncertainties, in the way of wet, slippery, damp asphaltum pavements; the results of fog or the water wagon; and greasy oiled streets, which require extreme caution in driving combined with reliable tires and efficient brakes."

"An idea of how all lines are preparing for the great influx of people to San Francisco to visit the Panama-Pacific exposition is shown by the additional facilities they are securing to handle the taxicab companies are not at all behind hand and they will have many more cars in service in 1915 than ever before. The manager of the Taxicab Company of California, the company referred to previously, stated that he will have double the number of cars in use by the opening of the fair than he has at present in service."

EDSON ENJOINS BIG ARMOUR PROJECT

YUBA CITY, May 2.—The hearing on the petition of Frank Edson, supervisor of Yolo county, for an injunction against the Armour project, known as Reclamation District No. 1500, has been set for May 8th by Judge Mahon.

In the complaint for injunction Edson alleges the employees of the Armour Company cut through the bank of the Sacramento river, taking the brush from the lands of the plaintiff in Butte county, opposite Knights, and showed indications of proceeding with the building of a levee on the property of Edson without asking his permission.

Edson obtained a restraining order until the hearing for a permanent injunction. The managers of the levee work showed both surprise and regret when served with the order by Sheriff Noyes.

The District Attorney of Butte, on the instructions of the Board of Supervisors, is preparing a complaint for injunction against the Armours, and has not completed the work, so it remained for Supervisor Edson to open the legal warfare against them.

HELD FOR SENDING CHALLENGE TO DUEL

OROVILLE, May 2.—A. R. Seymour, the Bidwell Bar mining man, who was charged with sending a challenge to George Rogers to fight a Winchester rifle duel at the Bidwell Bar bridge over the Feather river, has been bound over to the Superior court.

Fixed at $1000 cash or $2000 bonds. August Lucas, a 16-year-old school boy, was the first witness called. He testified that he found the letter lying in a patch he travels on his way to school. He noted the address and carried it to Rogers.

George Rogers testified that he had received the letter and read it. He said he had trouble with Seymour earlier in the week. J. A. Tolman testified that he had

"A winding road through ever-changing country, a motor car that glides along over the roads, flecked with sunshine in some places and the green forest in others, and the three or four occasional friends to be met on the road, all the mind of its business career," said Bert Latham of the Simplex-Mercury Coast agency.

"Add to this the pleasure of casting the line into a clear running stream and reeling it in again with a silver and sparkling catch of a trout at the end of it, and one may understand in part the pleasure our little party recently enjoyed."

"We left San Francisco in the morning and passed over the main travel road of Marin and Sonoma counties as far as Petaluma. The roads were in splendid condition in Sonoma county and good time was made. From Petaluma we branched off, some over a fine highway, on every side of which could be seen flourishing ranches, with chickens, chickens everywhere, varying in size from fluffy yellow or white balls to large, healthy looking hens and poultards."

"We traveled by way of Ely and Sebastopol to Sebastopol."

"From Sebastopol to Valley Ford, by way of Freestone and Sta. the country is wider as it leads toward the coast, and is rolling in nature."

"Valley Ford is a picturesque spot and is the largest town in that vicinity."

"The road from the mouth of the Ely to American creek flowing into Bodas bay, making our headquarters at the Salmo clubhouse."

"The house itself is very pretty and stands in grounds of natural beauty on the banks of the clear little stream. We were most hospitably received and entertained."

"We had splendid luck, too, and greatly enjoyed the fresh trout at our evening meal."

"After a pleasant evening and a good night's sleep, we were at it again in the morning; and after a few hours of sport, with full baskets and great reluctance turned our car again in the direction of Valley Ford."

"It was here decided to return by way of the coast, and after the trip we were all glad this decision was made in favor of this route."

"We passed from Valley Ford through some wildly picturesque country, through Bloomfield and many other small hamlets to Tomales and Marshall and on to Point Reyes station."

"A short time after leaving Marshall we came to the road on the cliffs, and for some distance drove along the edge of the land over a splendid roadbed, from which we could see the ocean dashing itself to pieces on the rocks at the base of the cliffs."

"The road does not lie level along the edge of the cliffs, as it is undulating country, and at such rise and fall more beauties of this rugged section were disclosed."

"We went through Point Reyes station to Inverness and Tomales, at the foot of the range that Mount Tamalpais is on. We then commenced our climb, winding up the side of the mountain. In the distance the waters of the ocean dashed and throbbed and all around us was the still, warm air."

"Upon reaching the summit of the range the view was magnificent. We were above the fog, which lay like a billowy gray ocean below us, and still higher on our right stood Mount Tamalpais in its lonely beauty."

"The road from the top of the mountain to the summit is five and one-half miles long and is in splendid shape. As a whole in the entire route covered few bad places were found, the road between Petaluma and Sebastopol being a little rough, although hard and not dusty."

"The descent from the summit to the range brought us into San Anselmo and we returned to Sausalito, there taking the boat for home."

"For a two days' outing, with memory and sporting combined, there is hardly a trip in this vicinity that can compare with the one we made. Diversity of scenery and climate, good roads and a comfortable stopping place for the night, comprise the motorist's ideal trip. If not desirous of stopping long for fishing, but with pleasure is lost, from the angler's point of view, for the little stream abounds in luscious trout, who are lively enough to try the skill of the fisherman."

WIFE TELLS TALE OF CRUEL WOE

Retsoff's Divorce Suit Bares the Suffering of Woman Alleged Wrongly Accused

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—After suffering in silence from what she terms was the cruel treatment of her spouse, Mrs. Nellie H. Retsoff, wife of Arthur E. Retsoff of 1244 Elm street, tells a tale of the turning of the tables upon her in a divorce affidavit placed on record in the Superior court here today.

The Retsoffs were wedded in San Rafael December 26, 1912, following a Christmas romance. Hubby's chief fault, the wife says, lay in his staying out late at night and on one occasion he telephoned he would be home in 45 minutes, he did not appear until the next afternoon. Things of waiting for him on one occasion, Mrs. Retsoff went down town. She was about to board a car for home, she declares, when one of her husband's friends happened along and began to assist her to the steps. Just at that moment, she alleges, Retsoff came along in an automobile, accused her of wrongdoing, threatened to kill her and while a crowd looked on, he shot the expectation of a clash, forced her into the machine and drove off. On reaching home she says she was forced to take refuge in another apartment and that soon after Retsoff threatened her life with a loaded shotgun and was proceeding when she fled to take out the cartridges on after long entreaty.

MANWELL ESTATE VALUED.

MARYSVILLE, May 2.—An inventory of the estate of the late T. J. Manwell, who was killed in the riot at Wheatland, has been filed in the probate court here by E. J. Manwell, son of the deceased. The approximate value of the property, according to the appraisement, is $10,000, but after the debts and encumbrances have been settled the estate will be more than cut in half. It is said. Considerable of the property is in stock.

MONTEREY TOUR IS DESCRIBED CLOSELY

Lozier Man Paints Word Picture of Scenic Drive

"One of the ideal dreams of the owner of a motor car is good roads. The sensation of traveling over them is indescribable. There is an exhilaration and a 'something' that carries one out of themselves into a dreamland," says Arthur Chisholm of Brekin-Spears Motor company's Oakland branch house for the Lozier car.

"The journey over a perfect road heightens the value of every scenic beauty. It gives strength to lights, shadows and coloring, that can only be produced by the kaleidoscope effects of a fast moving motor car on a smooth road."

"The truth of this is most forcibly proved on one of the fine scenic boulevards in the state on private property, and one that will bear comparison with those in any part of the world."

"It is the old famous 'Seventeen mile drive' of Del Monte."

"It still bears the name, but instead of seventeen miles, the drive now contains over forty."

"One cannot visit Del Monte, or Monterey, without becoming retrospective. So much of the early history, with the romantic association of the Spanish dons, bright-eyed senoritas, and the slow-stepping, benediction-dropping padres, is connected with this section of the state that one feels they are living in 'yesterday.' Imbued with such feelings one is bound to be in a receptive state of mind when they drive over this wonderful piece of road."

"Leaving Del Monte, or the old quaint town of Monterey, passing through Pacific Grove, the course leads to the entrance of the Drive."

"Once through the old style toll gate, which still continues, the road winds out through the pines. Sometimes amidst the forest, thick undergrowth of wild lilac and wild honey-suckle choked their way among the trees, then again great green and brown brakes spread their fronds to the height of eight or ten feet. But, for the most part, broad green sward is to be found beneath the trees, almost as level and as finely kept as the private grounds of the Hotel Del Monte itself."

"At the turn of the road nestled back among the pines and on the bank of what was once a creek, stands an old mill. With this old building, which is now falling to pieces, is connected one of the most beautiful legends of this section of the state. It is fraught with the ardent love of a Spanish youth for a miller's beautiful daughter, but the story stepped in in the form of an old-world feud, and it is said that the son of the miller's daughter still returns to grieve for the love that was lost."

"Threading along sandy beaches, by rolling surf and white sand dunes, the road extends out around the 'Restleses Sea,' whose waters swirl and boil with resistance in a never ending battle for supremacy by four conflicting currents, that continually announce two struggles by the boom of the waves on the rocks. Still further on, the road running along the cliff, the 'rocks of disaster' are reached. A number of gallant ships have ridden in onto these shoals, when the sea was too thick to make the light in the lighthouse on Point Pinos at the head of the bay visible. There is no becoming of the waves here, for they seem to sing a dirge for the souls on the heavy seamen who have met their death in the treacherous waters, almost within enarming distance of the shore. Thence on past Bird and Seal rocks, the resting place of the sea fowl and the 'monuments of the deep.'"

"After passing these rocks, one of the new boulevards which skirts the forest has been taken. It dips up and down numerous slight elevations, the grades of which do not exceed three percent, but which are themselves constantly leading upward. From the summit of a small hill through a break in the forest, may be seen the broad Pacific shimmering and pulsing in the distance, while nearer, on the edge of the Cypress Grove, is the great Octavius, in its perpetual endeavor to reach the safety and 'suppression of the darkness of the other trees.'"

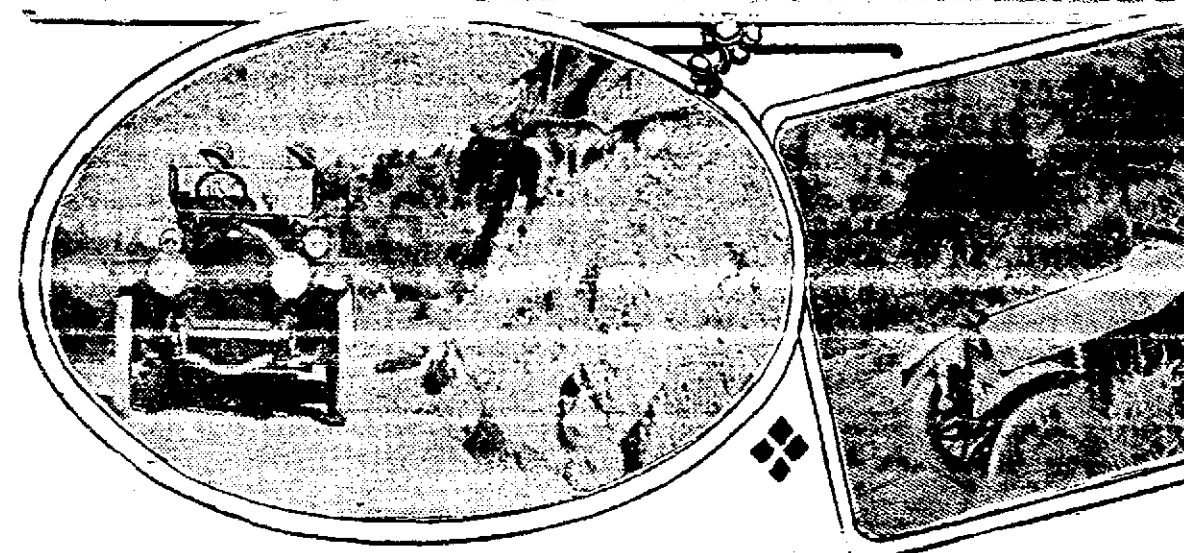

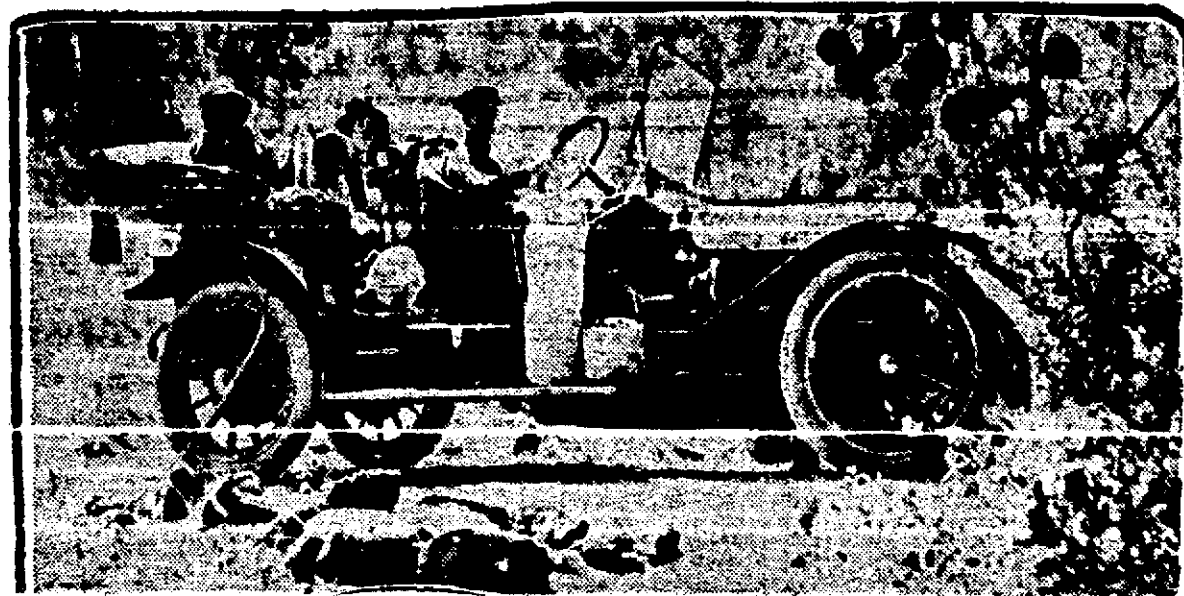

"Following on around, new vistas of interest constantly burst into view at every turn of the road and through shaggy moss-grown trees, the call of the birds, the low of the enormous black crows, and the tapping of the wood pecker, are heard, while the waves of the ocean boom a steady bass accompaniment in the distance."

"This clubhouse is constructed of large pine logs, even to the electric chandeliers, which are split logs, with the wires inserted. The main road, the assembly hall, is the embodiment of comfort and good cheer, with its great wide fireplaces, at either end, containing 150 tons of stone, and on the finely polished floor, with its soft rug, tables costly arranged invite a halt. It overlooks flower gardens, bright with their vari-colored blooms the year round, and makes a delightful place to rest, and view through the trees of the finely kept grounds, the blue of Carmel bay."

"Thence the course leads on, over the high scenic boulevard—Calle Castra. It spreads around curves, gradually rising, and at several points the views of Carmel-by-the-Sea can be enjoyed."

"Upon reaching the summit, at an elevation of 900 feet, to the left can be seen the great reservoir, with its 140,000,000 gallons of pure water supply. It lies like a great lake in the sunshine. Almost directly in front, over the hills, floats the voice of the bugle from the United States military reservation and a little to the left in sleepy abandon, lies the town of Monterey."

"After wandering in and out through the mountain tops there suddenly bursts in view a picture of the Santa Clara Valley."

LOS BUELLIS HILL INTERESTING TOUR

Now that the touring season has begun, motorists are looking around for new places to tour, especially for tours that will occupy the Sunday.

Most of the touring out of San Francisco is taken down the peninsula through the hills of San Mateo and Santa Cruz mountains or further down towards Los Angeles. There is, however, some very interesting drives on the east side of Santa Clara valley.

A trip that will more than repay the motorists is one through what is known as the Los Buellis Hills.

In speaking of this trip, Fred Hauger of the E. L. Peacock Auto Company, agent for the Mitchell car, says: "There is no more interesting trip than that which is over what is known as the Sierra road. To make this trip motorists should drive to Milpitas at the point where the double right angle turn takes place in that town; instead of following the county road around the two right angle turns, the motorists should turn at right angles to the left instead of to the right. This leads straight ahead for about two miles over what is called the Calaveras Valley road to the foothills; at this point the climb begins."

"Following the Calaveras road for turn is reached, the motorists will observe to the right of the road a gate through which passes a well built road. This should be entered and followed. It will bring one around through the high country to another gate which also will have to be opened."

"From this point one has entered the beautiful scenic part of the Sierra road. A little further on one can look down into the Alum Rock Canyon and over the road that leads up to Grant Springs."

Motorcycle Notes

In the Navajo reservation in New Mexico there is a young squaw who is said to be an ardent motorcyclist. On her motorcycle trips over the mountain trail she carries her papoose in the approved Indian fashion.

During 1913 there were 23,177 motorcycles licensed in London.

George Gundersen, a high school boy of Durgant Bluffs, Ia., says that since he rides a motorcycle to school he spends but 50 cents a week, as compared with the 50 cents a day railroad fare he formerly spent.

In addition, the motorcycle enables him to ride home for lunch each day.

Although he weighs 273 pounds, Harry Petri of Allentown, Pa., says he has no difficulty in riding his motorcycle up any of the steep grades for which Pennsylvania is famous.

Chief of Police Reintz of Gary, Ind., is highly pleased with the service given by the motorcycles recently installed in the police department.

Members of the West Side Motorcycle Club of Springfield, Ohio, are planning a run to Indianapolis to attend the Speedway race on May 30.

The first girl motorcyclist of Eugene, Ore., is Miss Martha La Tuller, who is clerk of the local costoffice.

This is the Goodyear All-Weather Tread

"All-Weather" because it runs like a smooth tread. The projections are flat and regular. Yet on wet roads the countless sharp edges afford a resistless grip.

This tread is double-thick. It is made of very tough rubber. The sharp edges last for thousands of miles.

Instead of rounded grips, here are grips with sharp edges. Instead of a rugged, irregular tread, here is one smooth and regular.

Instead of separate projections—centering all strains at small points in the fabric—here are projections which meet at the base, and spread the strains just like a plain tread.

Not a tire user can know this tread without wanting these tires on his car.

No Other Tire

No other tire has this All-Weather tread. No other tire has our No-Rim-Cut feature—the only feasible way to make rim-cutting impossible. No other tire is final-cured on air bags, to save the countless blow-outs due to wrinkled fabric. This extra process costs us $1,500 daily.

No other tire combats tread separation by creating at the danger point hundreds of large rubber rivets.

Much Lower Prices

In 1913 No-Rim-Cut tire prices dropped 28 per cent. Now there are 16 makes which sell at higher prices—some higher by almost 50 per cent.

Yet No-Rim-Cut tires have four costly features found in no other tires.

And no man knows of any way to give you greater mileage.

Bear this in mind. No-Rim-Cut tires have won top place in Tire-dom. And they cost you only what the best should cost.

Our dealers are everywhere.

Incidentally Harry Krause secured sweet revenge for his defeat at the hands of this same Pernoll last Tuesday. Krause dropped to win as he heeled the Beavers down to seven scattered hits. Del Howard intended to send Tower against the Beavers but when he discovered that the loss of the contest would likely put the Seals in second place, he decided to let Krause win. Del's generalship went for naught.

Howard's first inning was a disaster. He proved the undoing of Pernoll. Three men bled through the Portland five runs. Another feature was the fact that every Portland run was made after two outs.

With young squabbling on third, Hannan at bat and one out in the first inning, Murphy made a pretty scoop of Hannan's drive to left field.

Unusual excitement is manifesting itself over the fact that seven nations have signified their intention to participate in the great international contest this year for the famous and much-contested Davis cup. The six who have filed their challenges against the United States are Germany, Canada, Australasia, British Isles, Belgium and France. The United States, of course, will stand out and meet in the challenge round the winner of the preliminary ties between the six challenging nations. The draw for the preliminary ties resulted as follows: Preliminary round—Canada vs. Australasia; British Isles vs. Belgium.

First round—Germany vs. winner of Canada vs. Australasia; France vs. winner of British Isles vs. Belgium. The match was held at the University of California, Berkeley, and was a very close contest. The United States team won 3 to 2.

NEW ATHLETIC EPOCH TO BE GIVEN WORLD HERE IN 1915

Eight to Ten Thousand Entries Expected; Fair Program Almost Full Now.

Athletics at the Panama-Pacific International exposition will be the greatest event in the history of the world. The program, which is being arranged by the exposition officials, is the most significant ever attempted by an exposition, country, association or group.

The International Olympic Committee, which controls all modern Olympic games, recognizes just what the Panama-Pacific International Exposition is doing for athletics throughout the world and has conferred upon the exposition the right to hold the Modern Pentathlon, which is the first time that has been awarded outside of the Olympic games.

For the first time America is to have the Decathlon, one of the classic events of the ancient Greeks and Romans. The Decathlon is a combination of the Greek and Swedish Olympic games. The famous Marathon race, which originated in Greece centuries ago, will be re-run in the United States.

It is planned to devote a week to Irish sports and pastimes, consisting of football, dancing, hurling and athletics. The Irish sports will be held in the grounds of the exposition. The Irish sports will be held in the grounds of the exposition.

The Young Men's Christian Association is to be given a week to exploit its type of work and a week will probably be devoted to the Boy Scouts' movements. A series of baseball games between the all-star teams to be selected by popular vote from the ranks of players in the National and American Leagues, will be played in San Francisco during 1915.

The far Western Championships will be in charge of the following committee: J. M. Elliott, Olympic Club, San Francisco; J. M. Elliott, Olympic Club, San Francisco; J. M. Elliott, Olympic Club, San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Washington fell on Warship today and in the first five innings drew in enough runs against the New York Giants to win several of the best ball games. The Washington team won 10 to 1.

Heta's Clothing made it four straight by defeating Alameda 7 to 3 in a fast game first round playoff. The team was short-handed, being down two pitchers, but could not hold back the locals. Coifer, for the winners, pitched a steady ball, giving up only one run.

Another feature of the game was a home run by Enos, with a man on second. The local pitcher, who had been pitching well all day, was hit for five runs. With two down and two out O'Connell hit to short, who made a nice throw to first base. The runner, who had been waiting for Casey, fished balls—Rosenberg 2. Time of game—2 hours and 10 minutes. Last Sunday the fans were handed some good baseball in this league, all of the games being evenly contests and resulted in close scores, especially the Vallejo-Crockett game, which was played at Vallego, going 14 innings to a 3 to 2 tie. Besquist, the ex-Vallego twirler, was on the mound for the last six innings of the game and pitched great ball. Casey, who started the game for Crockett, also pitched good ball, but complained of a sore arm, so was relieved by Besquist.

Builders, Attention!

Nine-tenths of IVERWOOD EXTENSION has been sold. The remaining one-tenth of these lots we would like to sell entirely to responsible Home Builders.

If you are building and selling houses we would like to see you and talk this matter over. Other builders are doing well in this section.

We will take a considerable portion of the price of lots in exchange for other property and will assist you in procuring loans and with the sale of your houses.

Iverwood Extension is located in the fine old orchard section of Oakland's Annexed District. This and all surrounding property is well restricted and is developing very fast. Last year's school statistics showed an increase of 25% in the Annexed District, as compared with 10% increase of the entire city. This alone is proof that you should be operating in the Annexed District if you are not already doing so.

The Southern Pacific local now maintains a 20-minute service through Iverwood Extension, with a station on the tract.

EXPOSITION FERRY BOON TO EAST BAY REGION

OAKLAND TO GET DIRECT SERVICE

Overshadowing all else in importance to Oakland and nearby cities was the announcement last week of the plans of the San Francisco - Oakland Terminal

ry service from this city to the Panama-Pacific Exposition. The happy outcome of efforts begun several weeks ago to make this service possible caused every boosting citizen to become jubilant.

Oaklanders will now go ahead with other preparations for taking care of the thousands of visitors who will make Oakland their stopping place during the fair.

It is believed that the line to the exposition gates will bring four times as many tourists as would otherwise have come during 1915, and that it will bring an additional $1,000,000 to Oakland.

Oakland is already prepared for a host of visitors, with many apartment houses and hotels recently completed. The city is improving in appearance every day, with the completion of large downtown structures and further cultivation of the numerous parks.

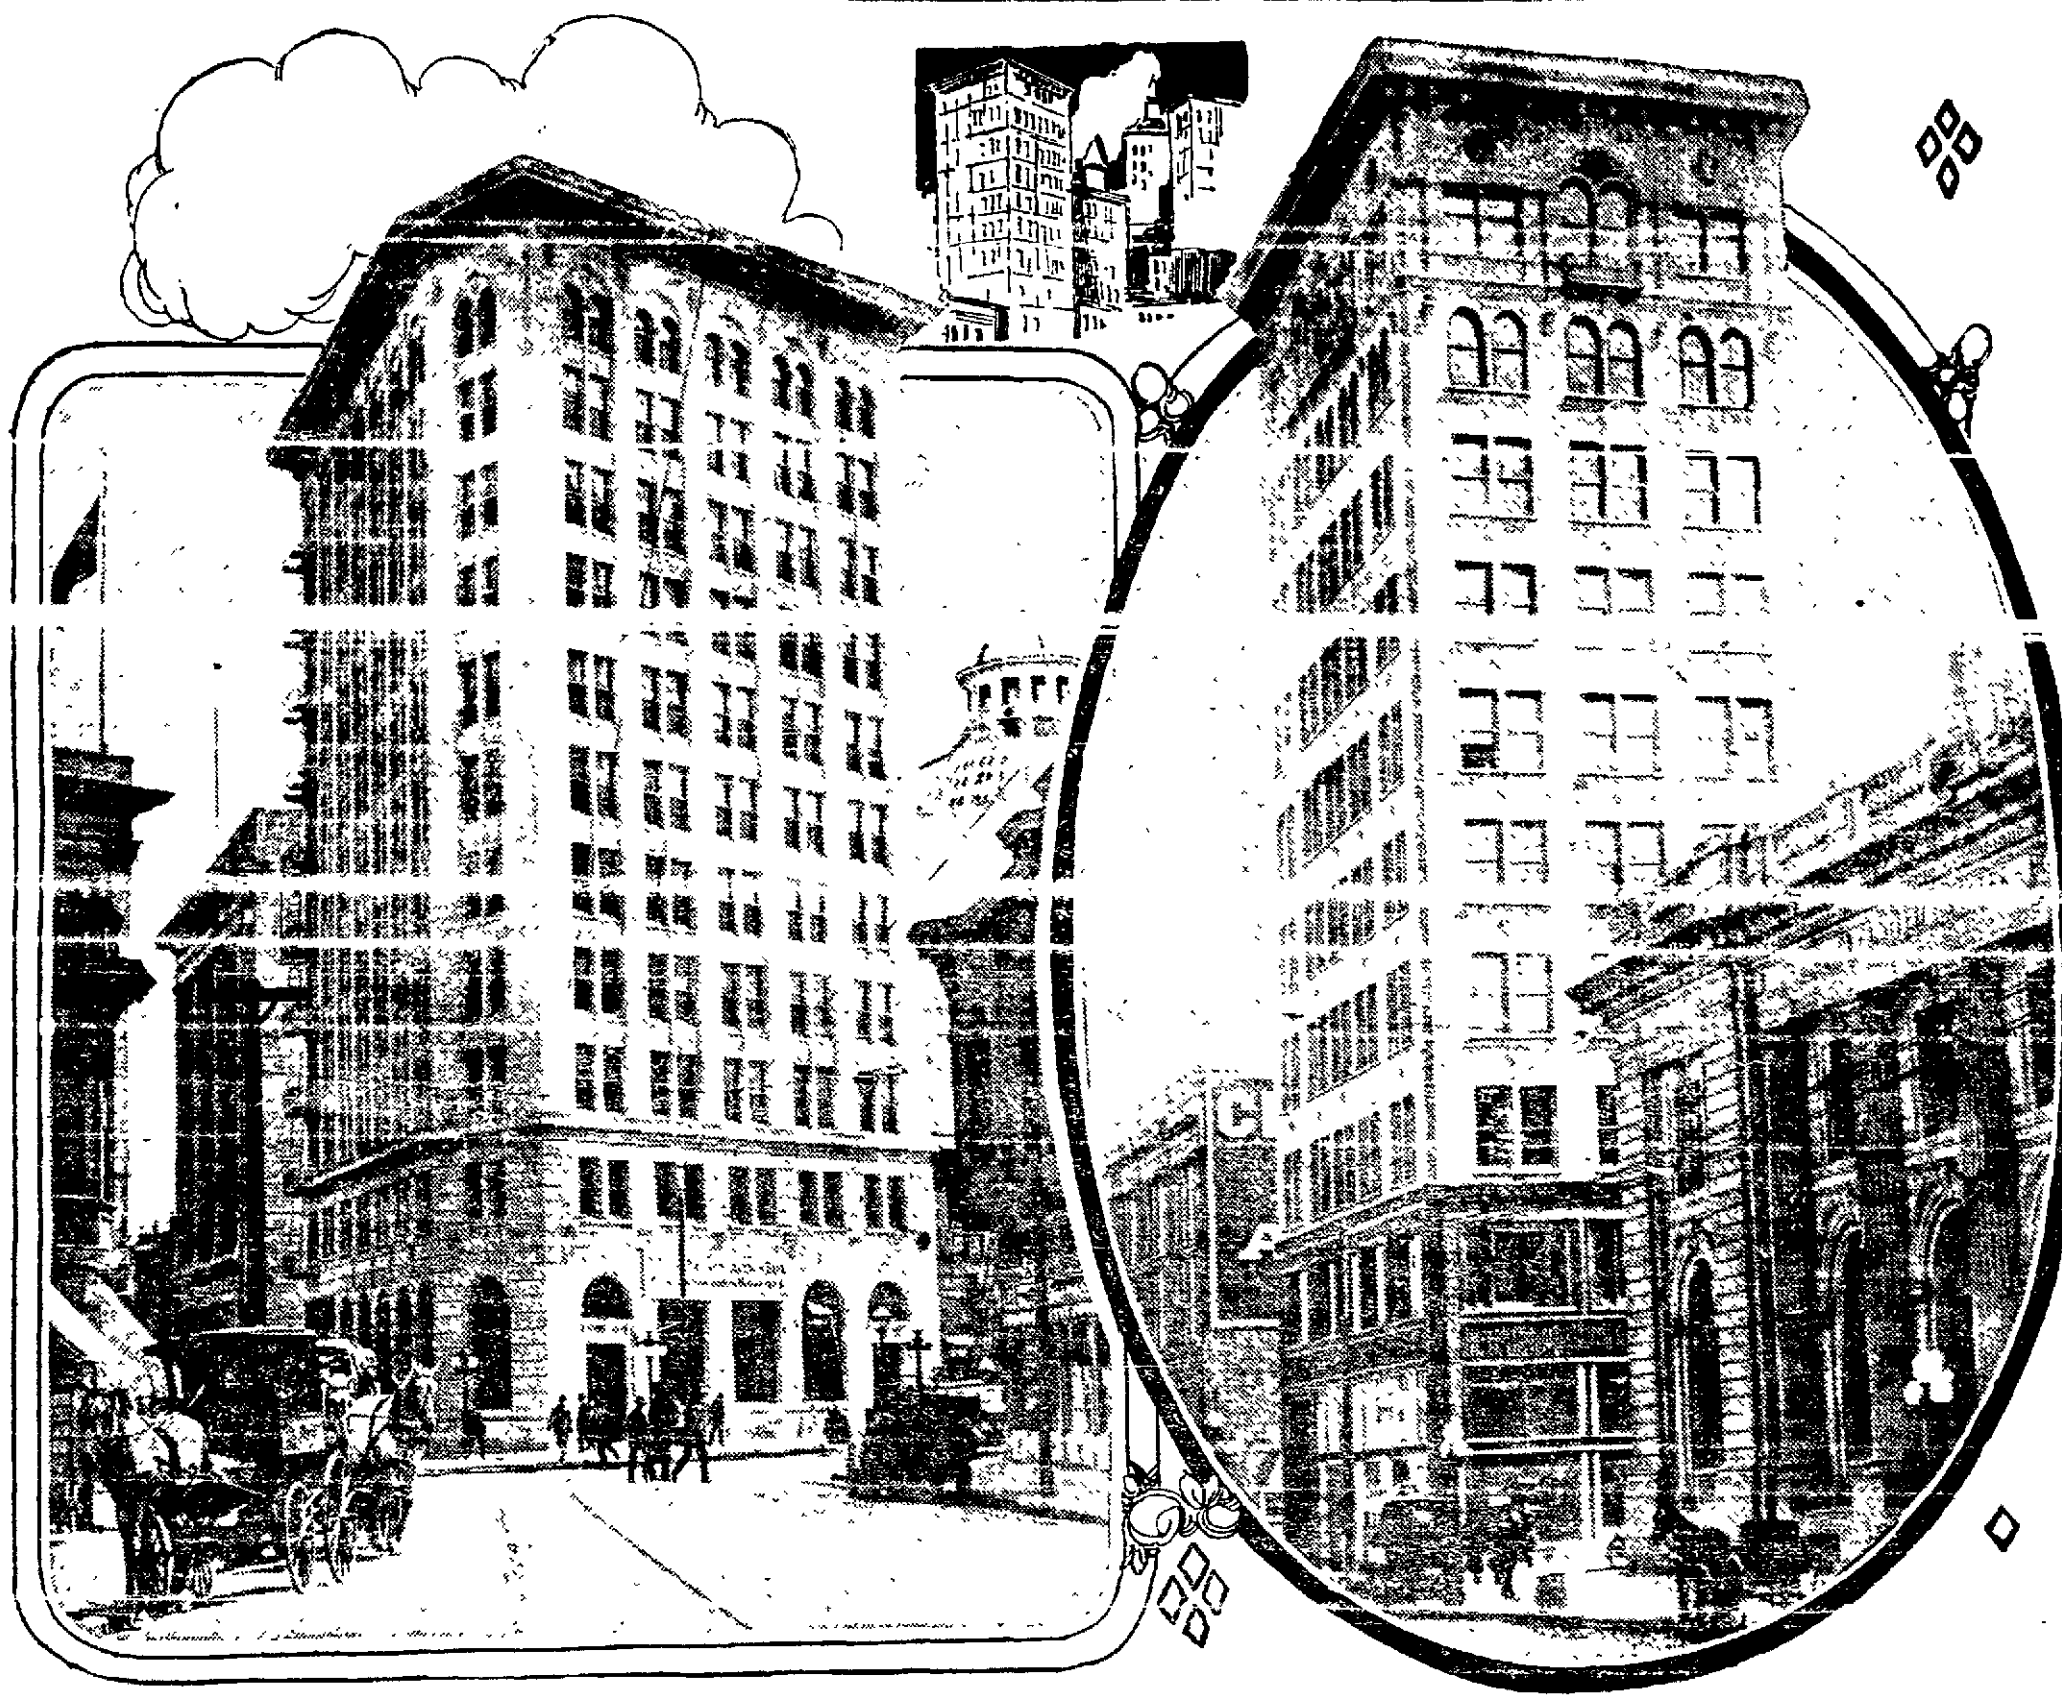

The next civic movement, in which almost every citizen may have a part, is the cleaning up of sidewalk spaces and vacant lots and dooryards, so that Oakland may look its tidiest during the exposition. Mayor Mott has issued a strong appeal for co-operation in this work, and property owners and renters are heeding the appeal. One year in advance is not too early to take up this task for the improvement of the entire city, that a favorable impression may be gained by the hosts who will be the city's guests next year. Improvement clubs and other organizations are enthusiastic over the clean-up plans. The Santa Fe Improvement Association, which has done a wonderful work in the Santa Fe Tract, writes a letter to Mayor Mott which is a sample of those which are finding their way to the city hall. It is as follows:

"With reference to your letter regarding city beautification, we have pioneered in lot cleaning crusades and general amelioration of our district for several years, as you know, and we are therefore particularly gratified to learn that you propose to make it general! You may rest assured that we shall be only too glad to join in the movement and co-operate with you as far as possible for a city beautiful."

A new estimate of Oakland's population was published last week, coming from the census department at Washington. The bureau has figured that in July of this year Oakland will have 184,002 inhabitants, the estimate being based upon averages taken for the country at large. This would show a gain of 33,828 since the census of 1910. The estimate is far below that made by local experts. The Chamber of Commerce has made a conservative count, based upon the school census and reports of the school department, in which a high rate of increase per month is shown, and also upon the number of dwellings constructed and occupied during the last four years. It is safe to say that the actual population of Oakland is larger than that given by the government, which has taken the whole country into consideration in drawing its averages. There has been a large influx of new inhabitants into Oakland and into California, perhaps, than into any other section of the United States, and it is unfair to apply to this city the average of the entire country.

The local estimate was also computed on the basis of street-car traffic, the number of electric cars, and other indicative factors.

The 1915 convention of the California State Realty Federation is to be held in Oakland, according to announcement by Secretary C. Fred Burks of the

FACTORIES TO BENEFIT CITY

Oakland is to become known as the home of branch plants of world-famous industrial concerns. Following the exclusive announcement in THE TRIB-

Biscuit Company had selected a site at Twelfth, Fourteenth, Poplar and Union streets, for the erection of a million-dollar factory, came the news that the Westinghouse Company, which already has a plant off Park street in Emeryville, is to erect other buildings on the racetrack land as an addition to its local shops. Oakland won out over other cities in competition for the industry. It is reported that more than a million will be expended in erecting the plant and that a large number of men will be employed.

It is also expected that H. J. Heintz, the food products magnate of "57 varieties" fame, will build a factory in this city at a later date. It is reported that he has paid a deposit on a site at Seventh and Cedar streets. The Oakland factory would supply the market west of the Rockies.

The United States Sales Company last week obtained a long-term lease of 300x400 feet at Third and Powell streets, where it will erect a carton factory. The lease was negotiated through L. A. Jackson of the Realty Bonds and Finance Company.

DIRECT 1915 FERRY HELP TO BUILDING

Key Route Service to Exposition Will Fill Oakland With Guests.

Immense home-building activity in the hillslope residence districts of Oakland and Piedmont is predicted as a result of the announcement this week that direct ferry service will be maintained between Oakland and the exposition grounds during the fair.

Literally hundreds of people have been holding off building, waiting until the definite contract was signed between the Exposition and the Key Route, which is a direct service. Now that the contract has been signed and approved by the Railroad Commission, and two new boats for this service are being designed, scores of people are planning to build and get settled in their new homes before the exposition opens.

They will thus be able to entertain their friends amid the delightful surroundings of Piedmont and Oakland hillsides, and be as well or better situated for reaching the exposition than people in San Francisco itself, at the same time entirely escaping the annoyance of the crowds. Without question, the view of the exposition in approaching it by water is the most wonderful of all.

It is understood that the Key Route will shortly inaugurate an extensive advertising campaign in the East to induce visitors to the exposition to remain on this side of the bay. There will be thousands of visitors in Oakland. Therefore, many people who are now occupying rented quarters are beginning to realize that the lot of the renter will be far from ideal during the thronged days of the exposition, and are planning to get under their own roofs before the big show begins.

LEASE RENEWALS; TRADE FIXTURES

(Fifth case in a series of recent real estate decisions affecting owners and agents, summarized for THE TRIBUNE by Attorney Carlos G. White of Oakland, lecturer in law at the University of California and member of the firm of Dunn, White & Aiken.)

It is just about eight years and two weeks since most of the real estate brokers and owners in this region first seriously realized that a lease is a thing of importance and value, a binding contract imposing rights and obligations both upon landlord and tenant. Eight years ago the experienced man in every real estate office gave his principal attention to sales. Today many such men give their principal or exclusive attention to leasing.

A lease is not the trivial thing that many think it to be. It is a solemn legal instrument, creating an interest in land and is, in reality, a particular form of a deed. It is not as important an instrument as any deed and requires more than the average amount of care in its wording, owing to the fact that the relationship of landlord and tenant is a more complicated relationship than that of grantor and grantee.

The recent case of Earle vs. Kelly, 21 Cal. App. 450, may serve to illustrate how important a single clause of the lease may be to landlord and tenant, and what care should be exercised in the renewal of a lease.

SUED FOR REMOVAL. Kelly, the defendant, was sued for damages in the sum of $500 for removing from the leased premises, just prior to the end of a ten-year lease, certain improvements which the Court, for the purpose of its decision, considered as trade fixtures, and which had been placed upon the premises by an earlier tenant who had transferred all his rights to Kelly.

The original tenant, who had installed these trade fixtures, had a five-year lease. Nothing was said therein relative to these fixtures, but they could have been removed by the original tenant during the term of his lease, states the Court, by virtue of section 1019 of the Civil Code which provides:

"If a tenant may remove from the demised premises at any time during the continuance of his term, anything affixed thereto for purposes of trade, manufacture, ornament or domestic use, its removal can be effected without injury to the premises, unless the thing has been affixed in such a manner as to become an integral part of the premises."

DEFINES FIXTURES. The Court of Appeals holds that the fixtures are those things which are so attached to realty as to be considered in law a part thereof. And it is correct to say as a statement of the common law rule that a tenant of real property has no right to remove such fixtures, whether they have been placed there at his own expense, or not. However subject to the qualification that the tenant may be bound by an agreement permitting him to remove fixtures erected by him on the premises.

CONTINUED IN POSSESSION. At the end of the five-year lease, the tenant continued in possession and nothing was said by either landlord or tenant respecting the fixtures or the right to remove them, and in the course of time the tenant's business and the fixtures connected therewith. Kelly contended that by reason of such purchase he could remove the trade fixtures. Earle, the landlord, claimed that since the trade fixtures had not been removed during the original five-year term, and no express contract had been made giving the tenant any right to remove them thereafter, the right to remove them was reserved to the landlord, and that their subsequent removal by Kelly, during the new period of letting, was unlawful and entitled the plaintiff to damages for the same.

The Superior Court of San Diego gave judgment in favor of the tenant Kelly, but upon appeal by the landlord to the District Court of Appeals it is held that the decision of the San Diego Court was wrong.

BUILDING ACTIVE AT WOODACRE, MARIN CO. Since the beginning of the good weather building activity at Woodacre, Marin county's newest suburb, has progressed rapidly. P. J. Maurer, a building contractor of San Francisco, is erecting ten artistic bungalows at Woodacre, and J. W. Redd is also erecting a number of attractive residences.

C. A. Philbrook, the engineer who has designed the improvements at Woodacre, has completed plans for the erection of a commodious and artistic freight depot at Woodacre. The Northwestern Pacific railroad is installing switches and other conveniences to handle the business that has developed on its lines since this new suburb was placed on the market. The new freight depot is being erected at a point midway between the two passenger stations that were erected last winter.

LET CONTRACT FOR APARTMENT HOUSE

$30,000 Structure Will Be Erected in Richmond; Plan New City Hall.

RICHMOND, May 1.—Letting of the contract for the $30,000 apartment house which George Yager of Oakland is to erect at Macdonald avenue and Seventeenth street, was a development of the week. The structure will be two stories high, and will consist of 20 to 25 units, and will be the most modern place of its kind in Richmond. Yager has let the contract to a local builder, which means that Richmond mechanics will be employed on the structure. There has been an active campaign here for the employment of Richmond residents on all local building work.

There has been much interest shown in the plans advanced by George S. Wall for the location of the new city hall. Wall has offered to give a free site in Cutting boulevard and also to donate to the municipality, in addition, two blocks of land worth $4000 for a building. Under this plan it would cost the city about $500 to erect the building two stories high and of brick. A resolution providing for this will be formally presented to the city council on Monday evening. At present the city is paying $1000 per year for its leased city hall and is figuring on renting additional room for the engineering department.

DEMAND FOR ROOMS. Despite the general quiet condition of the money market the building of new rooms for Richmond residents continues unabated. There are now a large number of men employed in local industrial enterprises who have been forced to make their homes in Berkeley and Oakland because of the lack of houses here. This condition will disappear within the next few months if the present building of moderate priced homes for rent and for sale continues. One large local building and loan company has announced plans for the construction of twenty cottages in the eastern section of the city. Street improvements in several of the largest tracts and subdivisions put on

AD. MAN OPENS OAKLAND OFFICE

Believing that there is a great future in Oakland for a complete and efficient advertising organization, R. L. Hamman, one of the most widely known and successful men in the State, has opened offices in the First Trust and Savings Bank building.

There will be a department devoted to the preparing of advertising copy, another that will produce only publicity matter, a complete department for art work and illustrating, and a department devoted to booklets, house organs and circular letters. Each of these departments will be conducted by experienced and competent men under the supervision of the manager. Hamman's personal specialty is real estate. He was for a number of years prominent in that line in Los Angeles and for the past year has carried on real estate advertising and publicity of every description.

Hamman recently completed a thorough organization in San Francisco, the Service Advertising Company, Inc., of which he is secretary and manager. He will retain his interests in that company.

Hamman's office as its executive need the market last fall and winter are now under way and call for the expenditure of nearly $500,000. These tracts have all the street frontage now being put in is under the direction of City Engineer Chapman, which guarantees that the standard specifications for work of this kind will be carried out and first-class paving laid.

Cutting Boulevard improvement is one of the most important now under consideration of the city council. This means that this street traversing the entire length of the city from the east side through the east side to San Pablo avenue will be paved with standard asphalt for its full width of 110 feet. It will be one of the largest paving contracts let in the history of the city.

William W. Cottingham, one of the well-known local "live wires," has commenced negotiations whereby valuable property on the west side of the city was traded for a tract of land in the famous Alhambra colony of J. J. Davis near Dixon.

FAKE PATIENT ROBS DOCTOR AT HIS DOOR

CHICAGO, May 2.—Dr. Harry Edward Walsh was called to the door of his home at 5058 Westworth avenue by a man who said his hand was hurt. ANOTHER SKYSCRAPER TO BE BUILT IN OAKLAND

FRANKLIN ST. ACTIVITY IS MARKED

Another ten-story office building in the new city hall retail district may soon be erected, if negotiations now under way are successful. Announcement of the parties interested or the location would be premature at this time, but full details of this latest big improvement may be divulged within a few weeks.

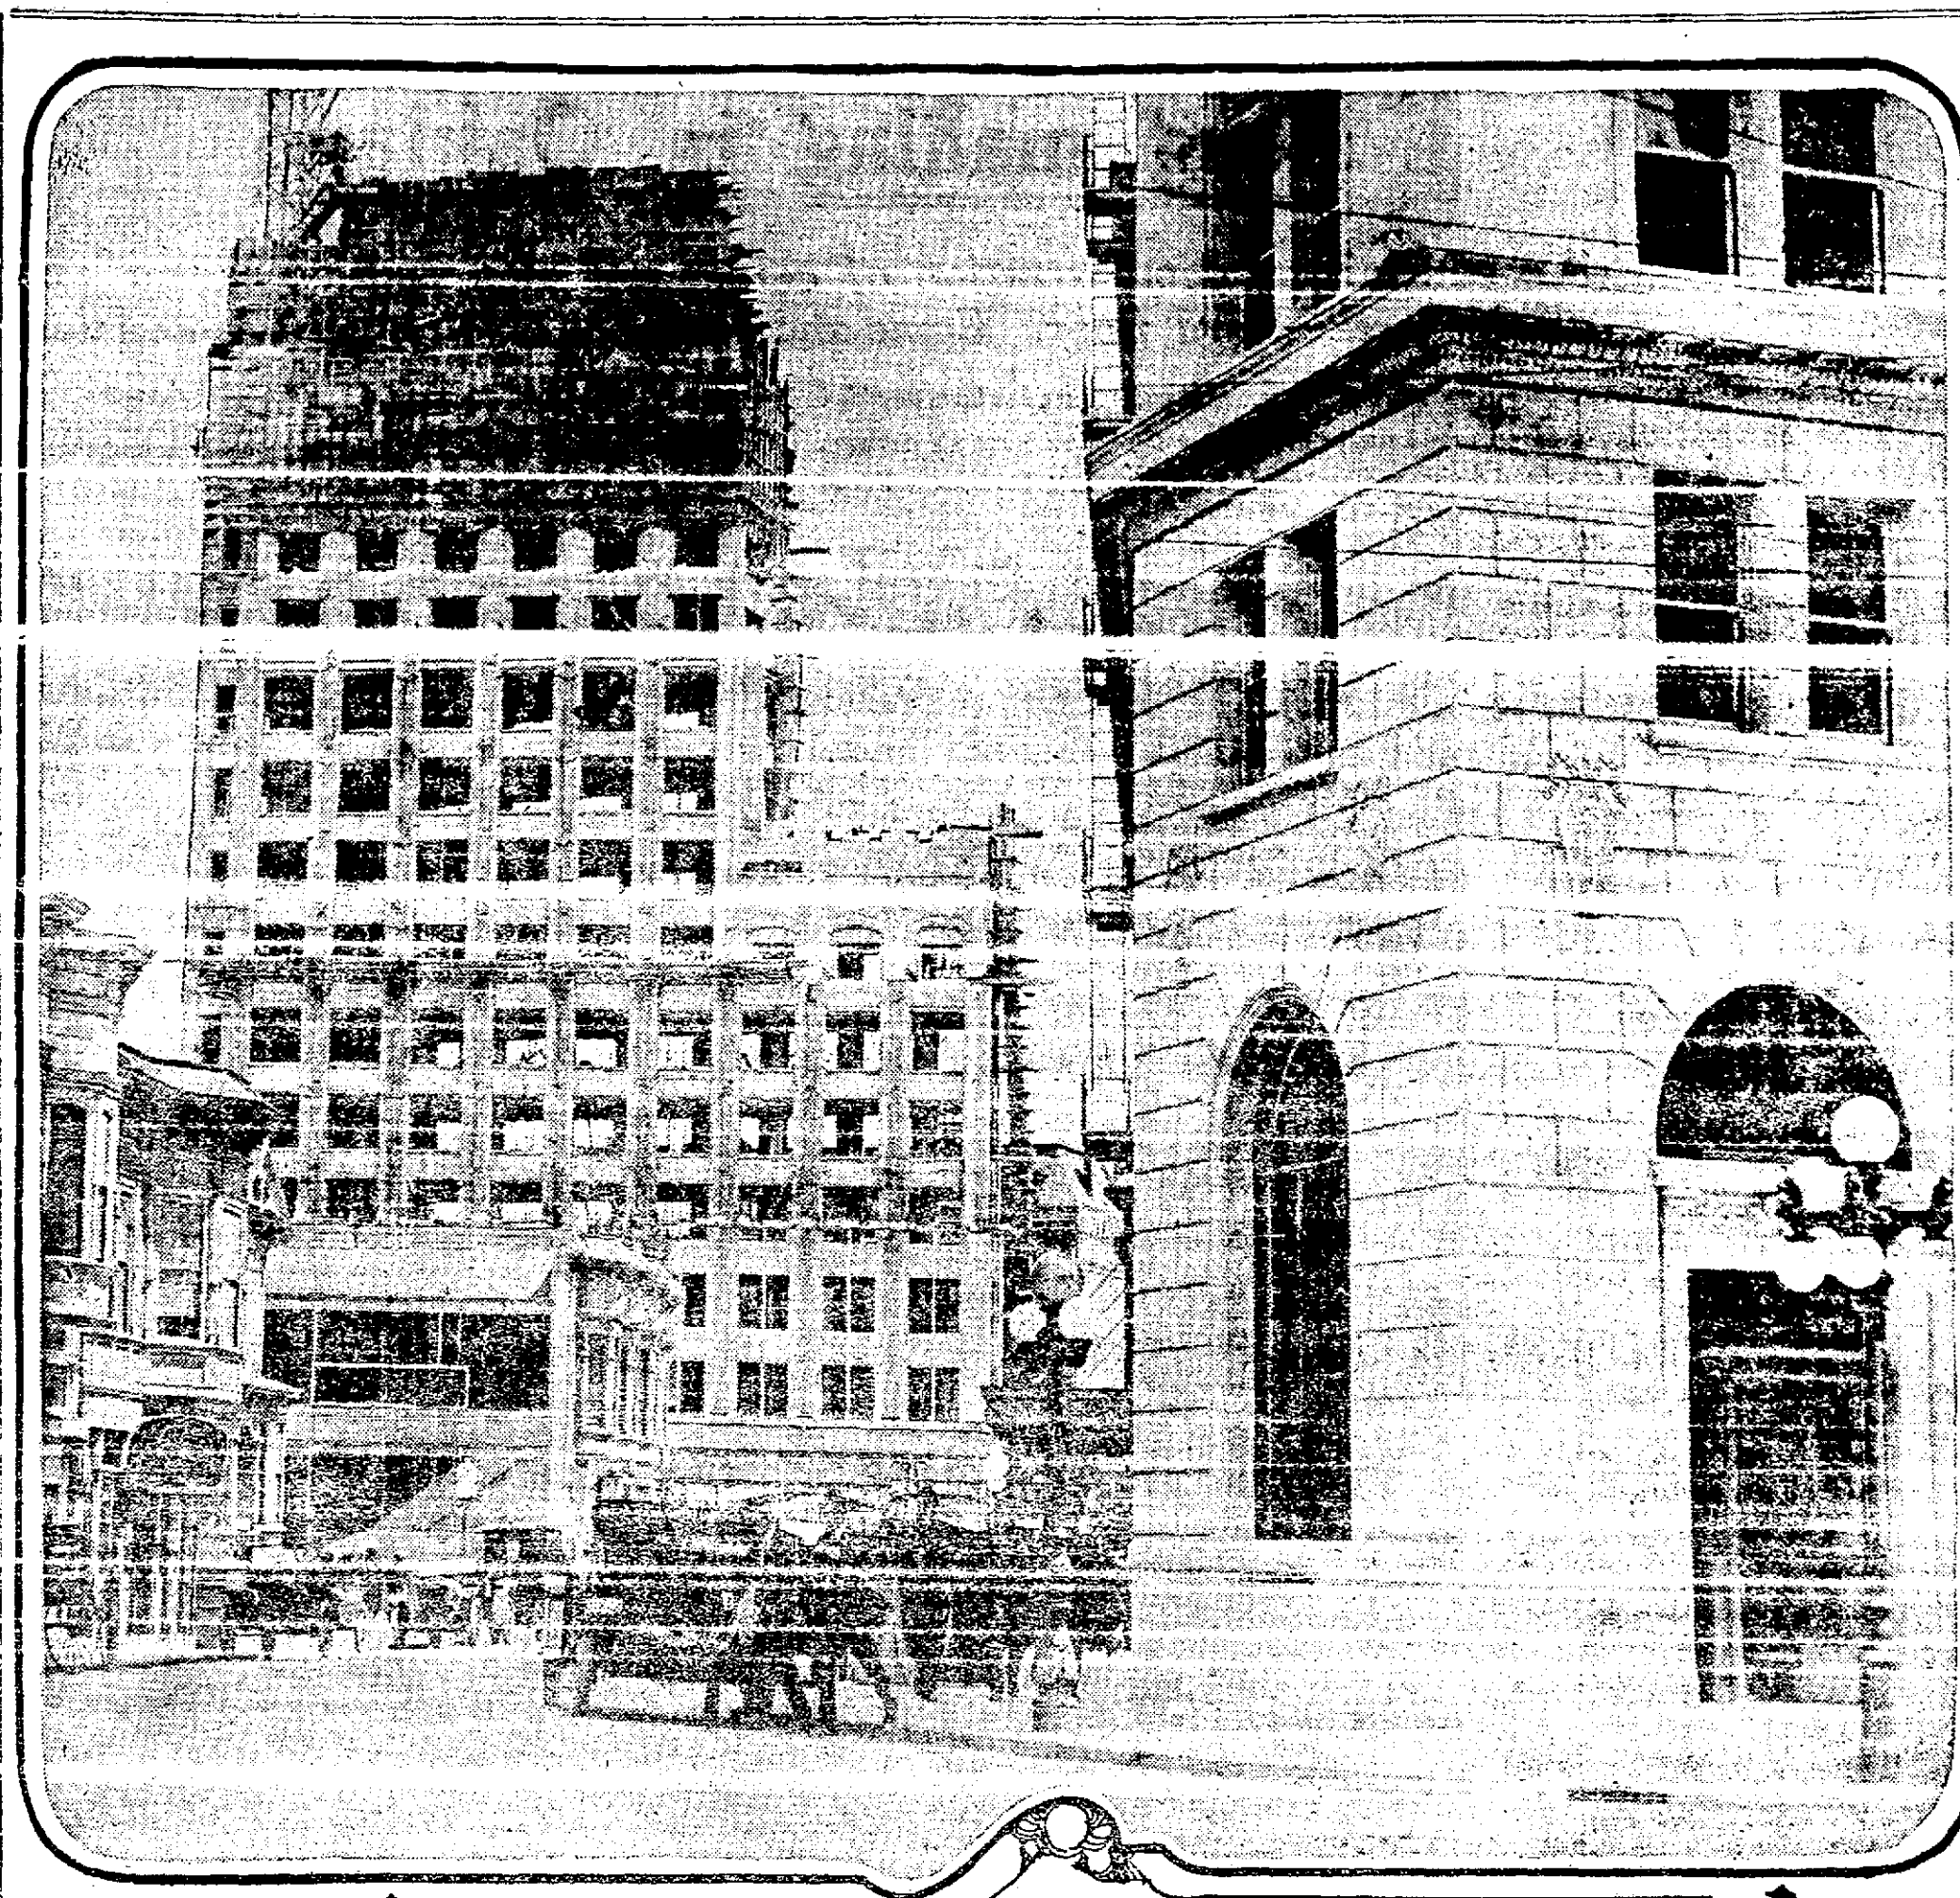

Franklin street, between Tenth and Fifteenth, is now the scene of an unusual building boom. Excavation has been completed for the Franklin photo play theater which the Midgley Company is to erect on the east side of the street, at Fifteenth, at a large cost. Adjoining on the south, a building is being razed for the erection of a three-story brick building for the Imperial Garage and Supply Company, which will extend back 300 feet to a frontage on Webster street. The framework of the Y. W. C. A. building, on Webster, a few feet north of the garage site, is complete and work on the walls will begin at once.

The Barbara Streit seven-story hotel at the northeast corner of Franklin and Eleventh streets is almost completed. Its cost is approximately $100,000. Work is being rushed on the framework of the Odd Fellows Temple opposite, on the northwest corner.

Another substantial improvement on Franklin street is the three-story Ellis hotel building, now almost finished at the southwest corner of Tenth and Franklin streets.

No significance is attached to the lull in building here for the week ending last Wednesday. Sixty-five permits were issued, the total cost amounting to $59,972. The list of permits in detail is as follows:

U. OF C. BUILDING OPERATIONS HEAVY

Campanile, Chemistry, Laboratory and Fraternity Houses Constructed.

BERKELEY, May 2.—While the rest of the city has been outdoing its former self in building activities, the University of California campus has not lagged behind. Work is progressing steadily on the Sather Campanile and the granite work as high as the Belvedere will be completed by September when the fall semester opens. A new $20,000 laboratory addition to the college of chemistry will shortly be commenced. Off the campus twenty fraternities will welcome their guests in new homes during the exposition. One of these has just been completed, while five others will be ready August 1. In addition to this twenty other fraternities have recently completed and occupied new structures, such as the Psi Upsilon, at the head of Ridge road, Zeta Psi, on College avenue, and Phi Gamma Delta, on Bancroft way.

The new Phi Delta Theta house at Hearst avenue and Highland avenue will disclose many novel features.

As the house is on the side of a hill the entrance will be made in the basement, from where stairs will lead to the first floor. The house, exclusive of the basement, will be three stories high and is to cost $23,000. The idea carried out in many of the eastern fraternities to have the study room separate from the bedroom, is being used. Work started on the house two weeks ago and if plans come out as expected it will be ready for occupancy.

TO MOVE THIS WEEK

Delta Gamma will move this week to their new house near the corner of College and Channing. This house was constructed at a cost of $16,000 and is of the Queen Anne type.

Work on the Alpha Tau Omega's new $26,000 house is progressing rapidly, already the second story being completed. It will be three stories and of red brick. Accommodations will be made for twenty-four men. The house is located at Le Conte and Euclid, just opposite the Skull and Keys tomb.

Theta Xi will move on August 1 to occupy their new $27,000 structure at Le Conte and La Loma. This house is the gift of wealthy alumni and is complete in every detail. It contains accommodations for thirty, besides the sleeping porches and two guest rooms. A billiard room in the basement is also being planned for. The first floor outside will be constructed of brick and the remaining two stories will have a rough plaster finish.

Semi-Spanish architecture will be the style of the new Sigma Nu house to be constructed next semester. The structure will cost about $30,000, and will be situated on the corner of Le Roy and Le Conte. Delta Chi's new house, which was started last week and is situated at the end of Piedmont avenue, adjoining the University grounds, will also be ready by next semester. Two fraternities and one sorority have purchased lots in this vicinity. Alpha Delta Phi, Sigma Kappa and Delta Kappa Epsilon will build the coming year.

OTHERS WILL BUILD

The following fraternities will build new houses before the opening of the Fair: Sigma Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Kappa Alpha, Alpha Xi Delta, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Kappa Psi, Theta Delta Chi, Acacia and Alpha Kappa Lambda. The Achean club will move during vacation to the present Delta Chi house on Channing way and the Hildard club to the new house built for them at College and Durant, next to the Phi Sigma Kappa house. Sequoyah will move to the old Sigma Chi house on Ridge road, next to the Kappa Sigma house.

Building and realty operations throughout the city maintain the same apparent activity that characterized them at the first of the month. An especially large number of residences are in course of construction, the bungalow type prevailing among these, though larger residences are also being put up. Many of the tract proprietors and other realty dealers report numerous sales.

PERMITS ISSUED

Among the recent permits that have been issued for new buildings are the following:

E. J. HENDERSON LETS CONTRACT

E. J. Henderson, who has just taken Bates, Borland & Ayres for the street work in his adjoining property, the Electric Loop tract, amounting to $100,000. The Electric Loop tract extends along the Foothill boulevard from Havenscourt and lies on both sides of the Southern Pacific electric road.

The property was laid out by P. A. Henderson, county surveyor. The improvements, consisting of grading and paving of streets, laying of concrete gutters and sidewalks, and sewer, are under the direct supervision of Mr. Brown of the Oakland city street department. In an interview, Henderson said: "The Electric Loop tract will be one of the best improved properties in Oakland. Everything is under the direct supervision of municipal inspectors. The streets are all being paved with the standard city of Oakland old macadam. When a man or woman purchases a home here there are no additional costs to meet in the future as all streets will be kept up by the city.

Street opening low prices will bring a great many new people to this city. The ideal climate and unexcelled transportation facilities appeals to the commuter and Oakland family man."

AMERICAN TEACHERS ROBBED BY BANDITS

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 2.—American teachers from the Beirut American College were attacked and robbed by brigands and one of them slightly wounded by a bullet while they were on an excursion to the Sea of Galilee (Lake Tiberias). The American consul-general at Beirut, Syria, in reporting the occurrence to the embassy here, said that the wounded teacher was not dangerously hurt. The Syrian Protestant College, founded by the Rev. Dr. Daniel Bliss, an American Congregational clergyman, is one of the largest educational institutions in the East.

TOO DEMOCRATIC, SHE SAYS, FOR FAKE GEMS

London, May 2.—A woman who painted portraits, and was summoned to court to explain why she refused to pay $10 for an imitation diamond tiara, she declared the jeweler insisted upon leaving it at her apartment in the Hotel de Ville. "I don't want it. I am too democratic," she explained.

MAKE ROOM FOR PEOPLE; APPEAL

Newcomers to Oakland will be sorely in need of home-places before the Panama-Pacific exposition has even started unless there is a great and immediate increase in building operations. Accommodations are entirely inadequate to provide homes for the new population that two such tremendous events as the exposition and the world's fair must bring to this city.

This summarizes the ideas expressed by Fred A. Reed, a realty broker and well-known booster, and they are ideas that are well calculated to make every resident of this side of the bay take a long and careful view of the things that be and the things that will be before the exposition opens.

With the opening of the exposition only ten months distant, there has been practically no preparation made by the building investors of Oakland to make room for an increased population.

Reed makes a strong and still more significant statement—that the amount of building of a residential nature is not sufficient to provide for the great growth such as the growth of the past ten years. We are not keeping pace in the increase of residential properties with the great industrial development.

Already there are indications of the tide of incoming people that will sweep upon us, Oakland and the neighboring cities are being advertised as never before and plans should be made now to order that they get their share of the people who are already looking up schedules and fares on the roads that lead to California.

We need the new population. It is necessary that it be provided with comfortable accommodations within a reasonable distance of the center of the city and at a reasonable price.

Let any of these conditions prove unsatisfactory, let the visitor go back to his home disgruntled and dissatisfied, and the city of Oakland has assumed another liability for every stranger in a liability and every stranger is an asset.

Never before was there such an opportunity as at the present time for a residential investment as exists in Oakland. The increase in population of the next few months has been more than enough to occupy all the new home places built in the last time.

Living quarters in the flats is limited, there are almost no vacant apartments and cottages were never in better demand than at present. These conditions exist in spite of the heavy volume of building for a number of years past.

Investment property close to the business center of Oakland is rapidly becoming more and more scarce. Building operations are extending farther and farther into the outskirts.

The city is now built up solidly out to Fruitvale and the new communities must extend farther and farther into the hills.

And yet with all this development the demand still keeps pace with the supply. Oakland today lacks extra accommodations for five thousand people instead of being well on the way with preparations to accommodate fifty thousand transient and new permanent residents. In addition, after the San Francisco fire, Oakland lost both business and population because of a lack of roofs to cover the people and their projects. Today the same condition due to a different cause looms large in the horizon of the near future.

SEMINOLES STILL DESPISE WHITES

Truce Flag Once Violated, They Think Government Lacks Honor.

MIAMI, Fla., May 2.—Many people in the Northern States were aware that there dwells in the fastness of the Florida Everglades one of the most interesting and picturesque bands of American aborigines in the United States, known as the Seminole Indians, who are now as separate and distinct from the white race as when Columbus first held mass on the shores of Cuba. These are the remnants of the one-time mightiest nation of Seminoles, who defied the United States Government for more than half a century and persistently refused colonization.

They have been driven from their homes and forced emigrations have reduced their numbers to a few hundred, their mode of living, dispositions and customs are in many respects the same as when the haughty De Soto sailed into Tampa Bay in 1533.

The Seminoles, themselves, avoiding contact with the white race as much as possible, and seldom, if ever, taking whites into their confidence, and on account of the almost inaccessible nature of the country in which they live, little is known of their intimate home life. Unlike the Indians of the West, they have persistently refused any assistance from the Government, saying in response to offers for their support, "We only wish to be let alone."

They have no written language, yet they are familiar with the traditions and history of the tribe. The events of the Seven Years' War are still vivid in their captive memories, and the little paposes are taught from infancy to avoid any semblance of intimacy with the race with which they are at enmity. The most sacred rule of warfare, "the flag of truce," captured and imprisoned for life their matchless warrior chieftain, Osceola, and his brave staff. The tribe are taught that the whites are lacking in honor, or, in the Seminole language holowagah (no good).
